Cotton Comes Back.
A Ten-Page Ad.
Wasting $10,000,000,000.
—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

MEXICO'S revolutionists combine business with patriotism. One Mexican, one Spaniard, two Americans, arrested in New York, were going to Europe with $750,000 taken from banks raided in Mexico.

AN American court will decide on the nature of the loot. If it's war, the men arrested will keep it, as the Allies keep all the gold they can get in Germany.

If it's rebellion, the men will go to jail, and the money back to Mexico. As the men were beaten, they will probably be classed as rebels.

COTTON growers will be glad to hear that big department stores are specializing in cotton goods. "Cotton arrives" is the announcement of one store, biggest in New York, doing about $90,000,000 a year.

"OFTEN woman changes," the French say.

Real or imitation silks have been the rage, now King Cotton comes back.

MERCHANTS to whom effective advertising is important will be interested in one advertisement by "Walker's" department store, published yesterday in the Los Angeles Examiner. The advertisement, appearing in the Examiner exclusively, filled 10 pages.

THOSE who think such an investment excessive in a high price medium are mistaken.

It is important to deserve success. It is equally important to COMMAND ATTENTION.

Don't whisper, if you can afford to yell.

THIS country did eight to ten billions in foreign trade last year, but Dr. Klein, assistant secretary of commerce, says American business methods lose eight to ten billions each year. Thoughtless promotion, imperfect merchandise distribution, disorderly marketing of perishable goods, high cost of unsystematic warehousing, cause part of the loss.

EACH year $200,000,000 to $500,000,000 could be saved by improved handling methods. Look into the "skid platform" device. Henry Ford suggested the five-day work week, "that workers might have time to spend and enjoy their earnings."

Prosperity, according to Ford, must depend on wise spending of the ninety billions per year collected by wage earners.

NEW YORK'S building trade takes the suggestion seriously and 150,000 men by threatening a strike have won the five-day week, with five and a half days' pay.

THE workers, well rested, can if they choose do as much in five days as they have done in six. That's what they should do, in justice to other men.

SENATOR CAPPER, of Kansas, trusted by farmers, backs President Hoover's farm bill. He opposes the debenture subsidy plan, which would pay a bonus to exporting middle men, cost the taxpayers heavily, and do the farmer little, if any good.

RUSSIA attacks farm relief intelligently. Albert Kahn, of Detroit, one of the ablest architects in America, has been engaged to spend $4,000,000 on tractor factories, at the mouth of the Volga River.

MR. KAHN, who builds all of Henry Ford's factories, will have at his disposition all the Ford plans. The factories will produce 40,000 tractors a year, sold at cost, on long credit to farmers.

We'd call that "paternalism" here. But perhaps it's only common sense.

We may even learn something from Russia.

His suggestion, approved by Britain, would let Germany pay annuities for 37 years, instead of 50 years, beginning with $402,000,000 a year, instead of $600,000,000, increasing payments by $6,000,000 a year, for 10 years. It would be better to let Europe settle its own quarrels, this country keeping out of them.

BUT, since we must meddle, we seem to have chosen well, in selecting Mr. Young.

PROHIBITION agents ransacked the United States warship Richmond for four hours looking for whisky. They did not find any.

CAPT. OSTERHAUS said he thought no liquor would be found, because "all men are searched when they come aboard from shore leave."

Our brave sailors will suspect that while their country needs, and admires them, it does not exactly trust them.

NATURE wants each living thing to reach maturity, and wise men avoid the immature.

Veal not one-tenth as good as beef.

Young chickens lack food value.

You know about green apples. Now science tells you that the vitamin A, important to life and health, is abundant in ripe red tomatoes, lacking in green tomatoes.

2 BALLOONS MISSING, ANXIETY FELT

3 Families Flee North Side Fire

FIREMEN STOPPED BY MUD

Three families were forced to flee when fire swept the rear of two frame dwellings at 240 and 242 Langley avenue, North Side, this afternoon.

Mrs. Hattie Bergman, occupying the first floor, and Mrs. Anna Glasgow the second floor of No. 240, hurriedly left their apartments while Mrs. Joseph Hargreaves ran from her home, adjoining, after rescuing a canary and turning in a still alarm.

The fire started in the attic of the house at 240 Langley street and spread to the Hargreaves home. Firemen, hampered by steep, muddy streets, laid 400 feet of hose to quell the blaze. Damage was estimated at $5,000.

Mrs. Hargreaves, while working in the basement, detected smoke and found her kitchen filled with fumes from the fire next door. Firemen were unable to learn the origin of the blaze, they said.

GIRL CAN'T SAVE ICE BOX THIEF

Efforts of Alice Parish to save John Foxley, alias John Burke, from justice failed. Today in court he was sentenced to serve from six to twelve months in the workhouse on a charge of larceny. Sentence on the girl was suspended. Both had pleaded guilty to indictments charging larceny and conspiracy to defraud, Foxley pleading to guilty to an additional morality charge.

On April 10, according to the girl's testimony, she permitted herself to be locked in a refrigerator in the F. H. Butler store, 2337 Arlington avenue, after giving Foxley $55. She was found later by a girl customer and told a story of being held up.

Testimony at the hearing today revealed that Foxley had abandoned a wife and two children in Etna last fall. Previously he had been arrested on a morality charge.

Today the girl in the case took all the blame. She said she had lived with Foxley in South Eighteenth street for a month and because he was out of work they went to live at her home, 2209 Arlington avenue. It was to supply him with money, she said, that she arranged for the holdup.

The judge scored Foxley in pronouncing sentence and said he was responsible for making a criminal out of the girl.

Coolidge Tells Why He Did Not Choose to Run; Considered Mrs. Coolidge

By CALVIN COOLIDGE.

PERHAPS I have already indicated some of the reasons why I did not desire to be a candidate to succeed myself.

The presidential office takes a heavy toll of those who occupy it and those who are dear to them. While we should not refuse to spend and be spent in the service of our country, it is hazardous to attempt what we feel is beyond our strength to accomplish.

I had never wished to run in 1928, and had determined to make a public announcement at a sufficiently early date so that the party would have ample time to choose someone else. An appropriate occasion for that announcement seemed to be the fourth anniversary of my taking office. The reasons I can give may not appear very convincing, but I am confident my decision was correct.

My personal and official relations have all been peculiarly pleasant. The Congress has not always done all that I wished, but they have done very little that I did not approve. So far as I can judge, I have been especially fortunate in having the approbation of the country.

But irrespective of the third-term policy, the presidential office is of such a nature that it is difficult to conceive how one man can successfully serve the country for a term of more than eight years.

While I am in favor of continuing the long-established custom of the country in relation to a third term for a President, yet I do not think that the practice applies to one who has succeeded to part of a term as Vice President. Others might argue that it does, but I doubt if the country would so consider it.

Although my own health has been practically perfect, yet the duties are very great

CITY FIGHTS TAXI RATE INCREASE

City Solicitor Charles A. Waldschmidt announced today that a protest against the proposed increase in taxicab fares had been drawn up for submission to the Public Service Commission, but had not yet been filed.

The papers are "all prepared," the city solicitor said, but he is awaiting the passage of a resolution by Council authorizing the action.

The procedure would be, he said, to mail the papers to the Public Service Commission's office at Harrisburg.

MAYOR ORDERS ACTION

In a note to Waldschmidt Saturday directing him to fight the fare raise, Mayor Charles H. Kline said:

"Prepare a complaint and file it Monday morning with the Public Service Commission. This is no time to temporize. If councilmanic co-operation is necessary, you should have it ready for Monday's meeting."

The city is vitally interested in the matter, for it is the taxi companies' largest customer, paying them, it is estimated, $50,000 a year for transporting city employes on city business.

MALONE AIDS MAYOR

James F. Malone, president of Council, announced he would introduce a resolution calling on the law department to oppose the increase in rates.

Under the law, the new tariffs may be placed in effect May 20, in spite of the protest. In that case the taxi companies probably will be required to give passengers rebate coupons for the difference between the present and the higher fares, redeemable if the Public Service Commission finds the raise unjustified.

QUICK ACTION NEEDED

Immediate action is demanded, because, if a protest is filed before May 20, the burden of proving the higher tariffs fair and reasonable will rest on the taxi companies, whereas if a protest is not filed until after May 20, the burden of proving the rates unfair will be placed on the protestant. Thus, if the city is to oppose the increase, it will gain an immense advantage in the contest by acting at once, thereby placing the companies definitely on the defensive.

OPINIONS

James F. Malone, president of Council—The precedents offered by our action in opposing gas, water and light rate increases present a pretty good indication of what we will do in the taxi case. We will undoubtedly direct the Law Department to file an ap-

PITT LIBERALS TO MAKE PLEA

An attempt to prevail upon Chancellor John G. Bowman to reinstate William Albertson and Arthur McDowell, Pitt Liberal Club leaders, who were expelled from the institution last week, was to be made today by Attorney Henry Ellenbogen, counsel for the Pittsburgh chapter of the American Civil Liberties Union. Ellenbogen announced he would request an interview with the Chancellor.

Chancellor Bowman, when informed that Attorney Ellenbogen intended to call on him at his office, said he had no objection to such a visit.

"I will gladly receive Mr. Ellenbogen, but cannot say what I will be able to do for him in the matter," Bowman said.

"We believe we have a good legal case against the university for the summary dismissal of these students, but rather than bring the case into a court, we would like to see them reinstated without resorting to legal procedure," Ellenbogen explained.

Ellenbogen and David Wallerstein, prominent Philadelphia attorney, have been retained by the national executive committee of the American Civil Liberties Union to institute mandamus proceedings in behalf of Albertson and McDowell.

What steps, if any, will be taken by the union to contest the dismissal of F. E. Woltman, graduate assistant in philosophy, was not disclosed by Ellenbogen.

Author of Dry Law Heads Grand Jury

George Woner, of Butler, former member of the Legislature and author of the Woner act, Pennsylvania's first state prohibition enforcement law, was named foreman of the federal grand jury, which began its deliberations today.

Alleged violations of the national prohibition laws were among the big grist of cases to be taken up by the grand jury.

WASHINGTON, May 6.—(AP.)—Postmaster General Brown today telegraphed William E. Robinson to take charge of the Louisville (Ky.), postoffice and act as postmaster on account of the death of Postmaster Ludlow Petty.

SINCLAIR READY AS JAIL YAWNS

WASHINGTON, May 6.—(AP.)—Before night a formal order is expected to be issued directing Harry F. Sinclair to begin a three-month sentence in jail for refusal to answer questions asked by a Senate committee, but it may be a day or two before the wealthy oil operator actually goes behind the bars.

A mandate from the Supreme Court ordering the lower court to execute the sentence imposed upon him has been received by Leo A. Rover, the district attorney, and this late today will be submitted to Justice Hitz, of the District of Columbia Supreme Court.

Meanwhile, George P. Hoover, of the oil man's counsel, announced that Sinclair was prepared to begin his sentence and would be produced when asked by the trial court. Sinclair, however, had decided not to appear at the formal proceedings of commitment before Justice Hitz arranged for late today.

Sheriff to Sell Fall Ranch, Doheny to Bid

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., May 6.—(AP.)—Robert Sands, personal secretary to Edward L. Doheny, oil magnate, disclosed here this morning that the Three Rivers, N. M., ranch of Albert M. Fall, former Secretary of the Interior, would be sold at a sheriff's sale today and that a Doheny representative would make a bid for it.

Kissing in School Play Shocks Pastor

TOMS RIVER, N. Y., May 6.—(AP.)—The Rev. Ira E. Hicks, Baptist, believes this town is defiled with sin. He expressed his view from the pulpit in commenting on a high school production of "Miss Cherry Blossom." "In one scene," said the clergyman, "50 American boys and girls come on the stage with their arms about each other and later they actually kiss." School board officials said the play has been a favorite with schools and college for 25 years.

WASHINGTON, May 6.—(AP.)—President Hoover told M. M. Koenigsburg, Havana newspaper publisher, today that he intends visiting Cuba, Porto Rico and Panama before he retires from the presidency.

10 LANDED; 1 SEEN IN CANADA, RUMOR

There was some fear expressed today for the safety of the crews of two balloons that took off with 10 others in the Pitt Stadium Saturday in the national elimination race.

It was conceded that one of the missing two probably had won first place, but it was also pointed out that they had not been heard from since last night.

The two unreported bags are Navy No. 1 and the Detroit Times entrant. The Navy balloon is manned by Lieut. T. G. W. Settle and Ensign Alfred Bushnell, the aide.

The Detroit Times bag has aboard Pilot E. J. Hill and Arthur G. Schlosser.

REPORTED IN CANADA

A report reached Pittsburgh today that the Navy bag had landed at Montreal, Canada, but it was unconfirmed. The balloon was sighted over Brattleboro, Vt., last night.

The endurance record for balloons of this racing type is 26 hours, it was pointed out today at rate headquarters here, to support the theory that the missing crews might have landed in isolated territory without means of communication.

From the crews that had landed safely came tales of fierce struggles with the elements. Adverse winds cut short the flights of many and all had run into either rain or snowstorms, or both.

HITS SNOW, MOUNTAINS

Of the 10 known to be down, Goodyear No. 7, Wade Van Orman, pilot, and Alan T. McCracken, aide, made the longest flight—465 miles. It came to earth at Harkness, N. Y., at 2:45 p. m., Sunday, after being tossed about in a storm of snow and sleet over the Adirondacks. The ballast was depleted and Van Orman and MacCracken crawled exhausted from a basket half-filled with snow when the bag had settled.

"The Pittsburgher," with Dr. Le Gallee, pilot, and Walter Chambers, aide, landed near Utica, N. Y., shortly after dawn Sunday. All night Le Gallee and Chambers had fought to escape from the clutches of snow and rainstorms. Four hours before they had brushed through timber and had lost their radio and half of their food, water and ballast.

TRIES TO STOP MUSIC, SLAIN

George Muse, 42, father of five children, of Curtisville, was dead today as a result, county detectives said, of an argument over a neighbor's violin playing.

He was shot to death last night in the old Miners' Union Hall at Curtisville, where he occupied the third floor, and Ben Matous, 52, community fiddler, occupied the second floor as living quarters.

The detectives were seeking Bert Matous, 26, son of the fiddler.

Muse went to the rooms occupied by Matous last night and asked him to cease playing, detectives said. Matous refused. There was an argument, and Matous called for his son.

Two shots were fired, and Muse slumped to the floor with two bullets in his body. Then, detectives said, Bert Matous rushed from the house. He and his automobile were missing from Curtisville when the investigators arrived.

Ball Player Falls Dead During Game

Apoplexy yesterday caused the death of Theodore Uhlman, 24, of 6349 Meadow street, third baseman of the East Liberty Purucker team, during a game near Washington boulevard. Pittsburgh Hospital internes, who pronounced him dead, told Deputy Coroner Robert Newman the man apparently had overexerted himself.

BOSTON, May 6.—Now that they have things evened up with the first-place Braves the Pirates today were keen to do something further about the lofty position of a club that refused to stay in the second division where it was supposed to belong.

Manager Bush has given Steve Swetonic the slab ticket for the third and last game of the series. Burleigh Grimes trimmed the tribe yesterday in the presence of more than 28,000.

Grimes recorded his third success of the season as the Pirates rode to their success. A triple play put over by the Buccos was a big aid in the desired result.

HUGHES, JR. NEW U. S. SOLICITOR

WASHINGTON, May 6.—(INS.)—The new solicitor general of the United States is to be Charles Evans Hughes, Jr., 40, son of the former Secretary of State.

President Hoover has made the selection. The solicitor generalship is regarded as the premier governmental law post with the exception of the attorney generalship.

Young Hughes is a graduate of Brown and Harvard law schools and has been practicing in New York for several years.

His appointment came as a distinct surprise to political Washington, for his name has not figured in the speculation.

The outstanding candidates for the post have been George H. Bond, of Syracuse, N. Y.; John G. Buchanan, of Pittsburgh, and Charles I. Dawson, of Louisville.

As solicitor general, young Hughes will be the government's principal pleader before the United States Supreme Court, upon which his father sat as associate justice until 1916.

PILOT, AIDE EXHAUSTED IN STORM

By DR. GEORGE M. LE GALLEE,

Pilot of the Pittsburgher, lieutenant in the Navy Medical Corps during the World War and holder of the world's endurance record for balloons from the fifth to eighth categories.

(Copyright by the Sun-Telegraph.)

UTICA, N. Y., May 6.—The Pittsburgher landed at 7:21 yesterday morning in a pasture 15 miles north of Utica, 13 hours after the take-off from the University of Pittsburgh Stadium.

Half frozen from hours of flying through snowstorms across the Allegheny Mountains and soaking wet from rain which poured in torrents near the ground, Walter Chambers, my aide, and I pulled the ripcord in a cow pasture on the shore of Delta Dam Lake.

The big bag heaved a sigh as the hydrogen shot out into the air. Then the envelope sagged and came to rest while frightened cows snorted and ran to shelter.

Exhausted from an all-night battle with multifarious winds which we feared would bring us to the Atlantic Ocean before daylight, we went into a farmhouse where hot coffee and a country breakfast warmed us while our outer clothing dried before the kitchen stove.

Aside from electric storms, the race which ended today was as exciting as that of last year when I landed at Connellsville. Our basket was half filled with snow when we skimmed into a forest of virgin poplar which swept away our radio, half our ballast and our food. With our two magnetic compasses practically useless, we flew most of the time from Pittsburgh in what we thought was a due east course toward the Atlantic.

We discovered a few minutes before midnight that our course was an ideal one to the northeast. It was then that we crossed the transcontinental air mail route. The flash of the beacons was a welcome sight through the fog and mists of clouds which swirled in all directions at different altitudes.

Five minutes after we left the stadium we lost sight of the four balloons which took off before us. The initial impetus which the loss of extra sandbags in the stadium shot us to 5,000 feet. We sagged back to 2,300 and saw ahead of us Klikoff, of the Detroit Balloon Club, veering northeast. We attempted to climb to 3,300 feet, his altitude, to catch the same wind. But we went into another cloud and the next thing we saw was the William Penn Highway at Export.

COMPASS WOBBLES

Our compass tallied with this due East direction. It was a little further along that the attraction to the North rendered it untrue. We were in a 40-mile wind and an hour after the takeoff we crossed the Conemaugh River at 3,000 feet altitude. We were between two layers of cumulous clouds. We decided to climb and at 4,200 feet caught a faster wind in the same direction. We thought it was East, but it turned out to be Northeast. At 8:20 we dropped back to 3,200 and saw a village below us wrapped in fog. Our drag rope raked across telephone wires and we tossed over three bags of sand. We shot up to 6,300 feet, sagged back to 6,100 and up again to 6,500. Then we hit the snow bank.

Sun-Telegraph
Dr. LeGallee

HIT SNOW STORM

My log shows that at 9:05 we were in the midst of a heavy snow storm. Chambers warmed up the hot pads we had brought along and wrapped in them we fought along in comfort except for our inability to see anything more than 10 feet from the basket.

We turned on the radio which Bill Rogers, of Westinghouse, had loaned us and listened to a concert at Carnegie Hall, New York. We tried to check our position by radio, but the announcers delayed in giving their stations so that we could never get two to cross. At 9:15 the snow was heavier, but the clouds below opened up for a minute and as we first sagged into a valley and then swept over a mountain Chambers declared that he thought it Tyrone, east of Altoona.

Sun-Telegraph
Chambers

GET PLANE SCARE

Five minutes later, however, at 6,800 feet, the air mail beacons blinked away and we knew then that we had crossed the line approximately at Bellefonte. At 9:25 we got a scare when we saw the lights of what we took to be a mail plane flashing directly toward us. Our drop light was burning, but we took out two other flashlights and turned them on him. We finally decided it was another balloon experiencing the same conditions as ourselves.

After crossing the air mail route the snow stopped and a gentle rain melted the snow which covered our clothing. The thermometer registered 18 degrees above zero. The water on our clothing began to freeze.

To get out of the rain and to find a faster wind we shot up to 7,100 feet at 10 o'clock. It was 10 above zero there, but the pads kept our bodies warm though our clothing was stiff from ice. At 10:50 it began to rain at this altitude and the warmer atmosphere melted the ice and left us soaked and shivering.

SCARED BY LIGHTNING

For the next four hours we hovered in the basket half frozen and waiting for the dawn when we expected to be somewhere near the coast. We tried to pick up weather conditions over the radio, but never got them. Once we saw what we thought was an electric storm south of us and the fright it gave us added to the uncomfortabale condition we were in and thoroughly awakened us.

We began to see huge fog banks and lakes and as the darkness just before daylight approached, we could not determine where the lakes ended and fog began.

ICE WEIGHTS BAG

At 3:41 we ..lved out gas and dropped from 7,100 feet down, down, down. We started to check at 2,500 feet, but we kept falling. We passed 1,100 feet, the ground altitude at Pittsburgh, and knew we were across the mountains and nearing sea level. We started throwing sand, but the water and ice coated on the envelope sagged us down. We ducked into the basket and pushed sand over the side. It checked our fall and we skimmed into a dense forest of poplar. We crashed into the trees with a bang. The knife we had to cut our drag rope slipped through my fingers and went overboard, but the rebound from the crash started us up again. We raised our heads and found that the trees had swept away our radio and the board on which it sat. We waded about in sandwiches, coffee and water from a broken bottle.

CHANGE DIRECTION

Near Boonville, 28 miles from Utica, we awakened a farmer, who told us where we were. There we lost the northeast wind and a few minutes later, as dawn broke, we found that we were completely turned around and heading south. We passed over Rome and as daylight came in drab gray dullness to diffuse into mists on the shores of the lake, we decided to land before we lost more of the distance we had gained through the night. Our only chance to proceed was to climb to 10,000 feet into an east wind. We did not have enough ballast to get us there. And so we valved gas until we floated over a big cow pasture. Thirty feet above it, I pulled the rip cord while Chambers held the valve open. We slumped to the ground and landed in mud without a jar. The gas bag sagged and lay on its side, and we crawled out half-frozen and utterly exhausted. After breafast, Herbert Stenger, on whose farm we landed, brought us to the hotel here. We were so exhausted we didn't get his name and located him later with difficulty.

2 YEARS GIVEN FREDERICK

Elliott Frederick, for many years a receiver and trustee in bankruptcy estates, was sentenced to two years in the federal penitentiary in Federal Court for embezzlement of $51,000 from 16 bankrupt estates, to which he pleaded guilty December 21.

Frederick was committed to jail last October for contempt of court for failing to file final reports with Watson Adair, referee in bankruptcy.

Before sentence was imposed, the court was told that Frederick had filed all but three or four reports, but all will be required before he can be purged of the contempt charge.

Indicted, on Trial 15 Minutes Later

Within 15 minutes after he had been indicted on a charge of murder, Peter Curatola, of Oakmont, was placed on trial in Criminal Court today.

Curatola is one of four men who escaped trial recently by a technicality on a charge of conspiracy to commit murder and who were indicted on murder charges today for the death of John Daniels in an alleged Hill bootleg feud.

Daniels was found shot to death in his wrecked automobile at Liberty avenue and Fourteenth street, January 10, 1928.

Attorney W. H. Coleman obtained a separate trial for Curatola. Others to be tried for the murder are Louis Piadzza, Jeannette; Charles Spalino, 3210 Dawson street, and Joe Maria, Wylie avenue.

GERMANS SEEK FINANCE GUARD

PARIS, May 6.—(INS.)—Germany's right to economic protection was expected to be the feature of the reparation discussion late this afternoon.

It was understood that Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, chief of the German delegation, would inform the Allied experts that Germany makes it a condition she should have the right to suspend reparation payments and demand an investigation of her capacity to pay, if the country feels herself unable to meet obligations.

Emile Moreau, chief of the French delegation, immediately assembled the French representation for a conference at the Bank of France.

Meanwhile Emil Francqui, head of the Belgian delegation conferred with the Belgian delegation.

As Germany has accepted the Young plan with reservations, attention centered upon the decision of France.

It is possible that the French decision will be announced by Wednesday night. It is believed that Belgium will follow the French lead.

Under the Young plan the Germans would pay, for 58 years, 37 of these annuities averaging slightly more than 2,000,000,000 marks. Twenty of them would average about 1,700,000,000 marks while the final payment would be about 900,000,000 marks.

During the latter stages of German payments it is planned that Germany should be assisted from the profits of the proposed international reparation bank.

PRINTER PATIENTLY PAYING BIG DEBT HE DOESN'T OWE

A. H. Potts, 76, superintendent of the print shop at the Pittsburgh Bible Institute, Congress street, is finding happiness in paying off at the rate of some $200 yearly a $10,000 debt which he does not legally owe.

Twenty-six years ago, at Parkesburg, Pa., Potts saw his extensive printing establishment sold at a sheriff's sale. He was declared bankrupt and, therefore, freed from all legal obligations regarding a $10,000 debt.

"In the eyse of the law, I was freed of that debt, but in the sight of God, I owe that money," Potts opined. "That's why I have saved every penny these years to discharge the obligation."

Potts draws no salary at the Bible Institute. He works for his room and board only, but frequently—as he put it—"the Lord is good to me and has made it possible for me to send money to my creditors."

In this way, Potts has succeeded in paying all of the 50 employes who once worked in his Parkesburg plant. Patient application to the job of paying his debt has seen some $5,000 of it wiped away.

"Many of the firms to which I owe money have gone out of business, but I manage to find either living members of the concerns or their families," Potts related. "I've got to live to be 100, because the debt has to be paid and a few hundred dollars a year don't clear it up very fast. But there's genuine happiness in knowing in my own mind that I have the intention of paying it. It means far more than money in the bank—and the debt to think about."

BIG PROBLBEMS VEX HOOVER IN SENATE

WASHINGTON, May 6.—Topped by the political war over farm relief, a wealth of perplexing problems today confronted the Hoover administration on Capitol Hill.

While the House awaits the new tariff bill, the Senate will furnish the battlefields for partisan clashes over the new farm bill, the Mellon and Lenroot cases, immigration and oil conservation. Hoover policies will be at stake in each contest.

The greatest test of the President's fortunes will come in the farm relief fight over the export debenture plan, which Mr. Hoover has disapproved. Although the administration was assured of an overwhelming victory a week ago, an unexpected switch of sentiment has thrown the result into doubt.

PASSAGE NEAR

A vote probably will be reached Wednesday or Thursday and the bill finally enacted by the first of next week.

In the Mellon case, the Senate asked its judiciary committee for an opinion on the eligibility of Andrew W. Mellon to serve as secretary of the treasury while owning a huge fortune in corporation securities.

It received four different opinions. Eight Senators reported Mellon was serving legally; four decided he held office illegally; three refused to decide without further investigation; one said it was none of the Senate's business, as, if Mr. Mellon were in office illegally, it would be the House's duty to impeach him.

VOTE FAVORS MELLON

A majority of the Senate Judiciary Committee was enrolled today for the report of Senator Steiwer (Rep.), Oregon, declaring Mr. Sellon is legally holding the post of Secretary of Treasury. Senator Stephens (Dem.), Mississippi, who was absent, telegraphed his vote for the report.

The final vote on the Steiwer report stood 9 to 7 for it, with one member, Senator Ashurst (Dem.), Arizona, not voting.

This report, along with those of Chairman Norris and the independent reports of Senator Borah (Rep.), Idaho; King, Utah, and Dill, Washington, Democrats, all will be sent to the Senate tomorrow, where the right of Mr. Mellon to hold office probably will be thrashed out on the floor.

SENATE FARM DEBATE

The President's action in naming former Senator Irvine L. Lenroot (Rep.), of Wisconsin, to the United States Court of Customs and Tax Appeals, will be tested Tuesday.

The immigration war threatened to break out at any and all times. The President recommended repeal of the national origins quota law, which goes into effect July 1. Administration leaders have opposed the move and it appeared entirely likely that the President would meet defeat by having his recommendation ignored.

The oil controversy was to get under way this week before the Senate Judiciary Committee. The committee has a resolution before it, asking for an opinion on the constitutionality of the President's order suspending oil development in the public domain.

Proponents of the new census and reapportionment bill meanwhile were waiting for an opportunity to be heard. The bill will be considered after the farm measure is enacted.

Girl Swallows Open Safety Pin; Saved

LANCASTER, Pa., May 6.—(AP.)—An open safety pin was extracted from the stomach of 3-year-old Agnes Schmid, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Schmid, without the aid of a bronchoscope. The operation was performed by Dr. Russell D. Swat and the condition of the child was reported to be very good.

When physicians decided that the baby's life depended upon the immediate removal of the pin, it was decided to perform the operation at a local hospital. Dr. Swat located the pin with the aid of fluroscopic rays and, using short surgeon's forceps through a tube, closed the pin and extracted it from the stomach wall.

TRY POLICEMAN IN KILLING

Charged with murder, Patrolman John J. Scanlon, attached to the South Side Police Station, went on trial in Criminal Court today before Visiting Judge S. John Morrow, of Fayette County.

Scanlon was held on a murder charge by the coroner's jury for the fatal shooting of Peter Wouchawsky, a Russian, of 142 South Twenty-fifth street, February 7, 1928.

At the inquest it was testified Scanlon had been called by Wouchawsky's wife who said her husband was beating her. After being knocked down by Wouchawsky, Scanlon testified, in an effort to wrest a knife from the man, he chased him into a vacant lot and fired one shot which took effect in Wouchawsky's back. Scanlon maintained the man had drawn a revolver. Wouchawsky died shortly afterward.

SEEKS ARREST OF HEFLIN

BROCKTON, Mass., May 6.—(AP.)—The arrest of Senator J. Thomas Heflin, of Alabama, on a charge of violating a city ordinance was asked today by Howard R. Coleman, member of the city council.

Coleman filed his request for a warrant for the senator's arrest with the city clerk in prescribed form and it will be presented to the city council for action tonight.

It is charged by Coleman that Heflin, during his recent visit here, delivered a public address without having obtained a permit. The senator has since raised his voice in protest against bottle throwing here, in which he was the target.

He is said to have informed government officials that he had information he wished to disclose. He was brought here at the request of United States Attorney John D. Meyer.

As far as could be ascertained, no other witnesses have been called in the case. Friedman is said to have been unsuccessful in several efforts to obtain a pardon. He was sentenced January 9, 1928.

CITY RALLIES TO CALL FOR TAX CUT

One hundred per cent support for the movement urging the reduction of the tax on earned incomes! This is the slogan that has been seized upon by many business houses and by the residents of many communities in Pittsburgh.

"Automobile row" in Baum boulevard made it unanimous. The citizens of entire blocks in Homewood, Squirrel Hill, Brushton and other residence districts have signed up every eligible person on the petitions which are being circulated by the Sun-Telegraph urging Congress to act promptly in the downward revision of burdensome Federal taxes on professional men and wage earners.

"The popularity of this campaign is remarkable," declared James Francis Burke, general counsel for the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce and the Pittsburgh Clearing House Association. "For a long time the students of taxation have recognized the unfairness of the system of taxing those who earn their incomes on the same scale paid by those who have revenues from investments, but the people went on silently, paying because they thought perhaps it was a patriotic duty. It is well that enterprising newspapers have taken up the fight. The wage earners are not slow in entering their protests and the weight of their opinion will be felt."

Petitions received in the office of the Sun-Telegraph during the last week indicate that hundreds of business houses have returned 100 per cent of their personnel in the signatures. The canvass made through residence sections reveals that in many households every person eligible to sign joined the protests.

In the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce are 6,000 members and the action of the board in indorsing the movement for revision downward of the tax on earned incomes was affirmed by every member of the organization, according to Secretary A. V. Snell. Indorsement has been given also by 125 local community organizations.

CAB RATE WAR BEGUN BY CITY

Harry A. Little—I can see no justification for the increased fares proposed by the taxicab companies. The residents of the city are liberal patrons of the taxicabs and the city officially has extended many courtesies in issuing permits for cabs to stand at busy street locations most likely to attract passengers. From my personal observation the rates in Pittsburgh are higher than those in other cities of comparable size. The local rates could be reduced rather than increased if the taxicab companies would co-operate in eliminating expenses of overlapping activities.

John S. Herron—In view of the taxicab fares prevailing in Pittsburgh, there seems to be no sound reason for an increase when the cost of similar service in other cities is considered. Pittsburgh people tolerate many inconveniences resulting from taxi operation, and if the reward for such patience is to be increased costs of transportation they can be counted on to declare emphatically that the proposal will not be countenanced without a vigorous protest. The taxpayers have provided the most modern traffic arteries, which aid materially in reducing the cost of maintaining taxicab equipment and the running time between a passenger's destination and the taxicab stand. When the people realize that the cab companies not only do not contribute anything in the way of city taxes but instead reciprocate by raising fares, there will be a demand for real competition in this field.

P. J. McArdle—The proposed increase in taxicab rates should receive immediate consideration and the city should take whatever action the circumstances justify in order to protect the public interest. I do not want to pass judgment on the proposal without hearing the reasons advanced for the increase, but it should not be permitted to go into effect without a thorough examination of all conditions relating to the subject.

W. Y. English—My idea is to insure the fullest protection of public interest by having a conference of Council and the City Solicitor to determine whether the proposed increase in taxicab fares is justifiable. I believe the city should insist on a hearing before the Public Service Commission that all the facts bearing on the subject may be analyzed by all concerned.

R. J. Alderdice—I will bend every effort to protect the people of Pittsburgh from increased rates for taxicab riders if the charges are unjust. I think the proper method of procedure is to have Council call for a thorough investigation by the Public Service Commission. It seems to me the present is the wrong time for the companies to increase rates, as they are said to have lost considerable patronage through the current unemployment and the resultant reduction of revenue in every line of business.

Robert Garland—I will defer comment on the proposed increase in taxicab fares until the problem is presented to Council in some tangible form.

Watch the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph for further developments in the fight on the proposed increase in taxicab fares.

Mr. Hamilton waived preliminary hearing Saturday and was released on $20,000 bond.

Counsel for the former Judge indicated he might plead self defense. Explaining the shooting Mr. Hamilton said:

"I had rather die than kill a man, but I had to protect my home."

Mrs. Grace Walter, the youth's mother, worried over her son's failure to tell of his marriage to Miss Theresa Hamilton, 19, which occurred on February 10, told her son to "go and see the Judge. He'll be sensible and everything will be all right."

Walton went to his father-in-law's office and jokingly remarked to a stenographer, "If you hear any shooting you'll know I've been shot." A few minutes later he fell with four bullets in his body.

Walton and Miss Hamilton were students at the University of Texas in Austin when they were married.

All former employes were to be permitted to return to work, it was announced by company officials. Sections of the plants can be operated with a minimum of 100 workers.

LATIMER HIGH PAPER WINS NEW PRIZE

Latimer Junior High students publish a monthly magazine without advertising and make it pay—so far as winning prizes is concerned, at least. But there are reasons.

The students gather material, make their own illustrations on linoleum block, set the type, run their own presses and binders, and distribute the publication among themselves. The cost is nil, all the work being part of the school curriculum.

"Latimer Life" is the name of the publication. It won first prize at the annual convention of the Columbia Scholastic Press Association at Columbia University recently, and last year the magazine took second prize at Columbia and first place in the National Scholastic Press Association competition. Two years ago, the publication won second prize in the national contest.

Veronica Boehm is editor-in-chief. She has a staff of assistants, whose work is supervised by a faculty committee consisting of Mary C. Brennan, general chairman; R. J. Hartwick, printing; Joseph R. McCloskey, art; Helen Smith, typing, and Jeannette Hughes, distribution.

In the Columbia contest this year, 1,000 high school journals were entered.

SAYS CHINA IS NEAR PEACE

A distorted picture of political strife has been given to the world, when, in reality, China faces its brightest era, Dr. Chang Po-Ling, president of Nankai University in Tientsin, China, told members and guests of the Hungry Club at their weekly luncheon in the Fort Pitt Hotel today.

Dr. Chang, a graduate of Columbia University and of the Peiyang Naval Academy, is studying educational systems and creating new friends for the youth of China. As the guest here of Charles B. Horton, of Sewickley, he will make several addresses before continuing his tour. Speaking on "Education, the Foundation of New China," Dr. Chang told the Hungry Club:

"China is facing a very bright political future. It is only a matter of time until the various generals opposing the Nankin government will join with it. The picture carried to the outside of this strife is greatly distorted.

"China's natural resources are tremendous and it is the development of these that now occupies the nation. Through education, it is the aim of leaders in China to teach the people to develop themselves and their industries.

"Our educational system is based upon America's policy."

CHICAGO PLANS 75-STORY BUILDING; TO SET RECORD

CHICAGO, May 6.—(AP.)—Plans for construction of the world's tallest building, a 75-story edifice to house the general offices of the Illinois Central railroad and the Crane Manufacturing Company, were announced last night.

The building, to be known as the Crane Tower, will rise 1,022 feet, 38 feet highter than the Eiffel Tower in Paris, it will be located on Chicago's new thoroughfare, Randolph boulevard, a continuation of Randolph street extending from Michigan boulevard to the lake. The date for the start of construction has not been announced.

In addition to being the tallest structure ever erected by man, it will be world's largest office building, containing 3,500,000 square feet of space. The net rental area of the largest office building at present is said to be the Equitable building in New York which contains 1,250,000 square feet.

The building, according to the plans announced, will be on Illinois Central property, leaving the railroad space beneath it for passage of electric suburban trains.

The building is to be erected by the Railroad Air Rights Corporation, organized by a syndicate of Chicago and New York men, represented here by Walter W. Alschlager, architect, who conceived the project. The corporation has secured a 100-year air rights lease for the project.

1,000 CAR GARAGE

Among the outstanding features of the edifice as announced is a 1,000 automobile garage for tenants; a first floor bank, a convention hall, several smaller conference halls, a 104,000 feet exhibition coliseum, tenants' club grills, restaurants, turkish baths, gymnasium and 48 hotel rooms for tenants' guests.

The building is to be constructed of bedford stone, with the exception of the crowning stories which will be of gold terra cotta.

Financing of the project will involve issuance of $26,000,000 in leasehold bonds and stock.

BANKERS LAUD SUN-TELEGRAPH FOR THRIFT DRIVE

MONEY AWARDS HELD BIG AID TO SAVERS

"Your intensive thrift campaign has acted as an elixir."

"The banks, as well as the public at large, owe the Sun-Telegraph a vote of thanks for this campaign. It unquestionably will do much toward the promotion of saving."

"Quite a number of our depositors have benefited by this generosity of the Sun-Telegraph and have been stimulated to greater effort towards saving, enabling them to take advantage of the opportunities arising to smooth their path in life."

The foregoing are quotations from numerous letters that have come to the Sun-Telegraph from bankers, praising the campaign to promote thrift and bearing testimony to its success.

Unqualified Success

For it has been an unqualified success. That phase of the campaign which had to do with the awarding of thrift gifts has come to a close after a total of $6,600 in gifts ranging from $50 to $5 each had been offered to the bank depositors of the Pittsburgh district to encourage them and induce others to save money. All that it was sought to accomplish has been accomplished.

Pittsburghers have thought of thrift and its benefits as never before. Let the bankers bear witness:

H. W. LOOS, vice president of the East End Savings & Trust Company:

"Your plan emphasizes very dramatically the necessity of thrift as a factor of success, and will doubtless cause many people to open savings accounts who heretofore have given the subject very little consideration. In these days of prosperity it is very easy to forget that thrift has been and always will be the basis of economic independence, and the widespread publicity which your plan is directing to the savings banks of the community will establish their importance in the public mind to a very marked degree."

Elixir to Savers

L. E. HUSEMEN, assistant cashier of the Diamond National Bank:

"It is not exactly from the standpoint of increasing business that we bankers welcome savings depositors. It is the thought of serving those who have taken a step in the right direction that pleases us. After taking the step many depositors become irregular in their habits of savings, often falling by the wayside and forgetting that such a thing as a bank book ever existed. Your intensive thrift campaign has acted as an elixir to the backsliders, and the rejuvenation and rebuilding of their accounts will be watched with pleasure by the bankers of the city."

W. K. GAMBLE, vice president and treasurer of the Potter Title & Trust Company:

"We wish to take this opportunity of expressing our approval and also to compliment you on your campaign for the stimulation of thrift. We feel that this unique campaign will interest many who have not been in the habit of saving to open accounts and learn how easy it is to accumulate a fund for investment. The banks, as well as the public at large, owe the Sun-Telegraph a vote of thanks for this campaign. It unquestionably will do much towards the promotion of saving."

Boon to Public

E. V. HAYS, vice president of the Union Savings Bank:

"We wish to compliment you on the splendid idea of awarding cash to savings depositors through your daily Thrift Gift List, which we have been observing. The public interest which is being created by this idea will, no doubt, bring satisfactory results to both the banking institutions of this city and your paper."

JOSEPH P. LEWIS, cashier of the Carrick Bank:

"May we take this opportunity of expressing our appreciation of the thrift campaign which has just been completed in your paper, and of thanking you for including so many of our patrons who, I am sure, now feel that the old maxim, 'Him that has, gits,' is more true than ever."

WILLIAM J. FRANK, manager of the savings department of the First National Bank at Pittsburgh:

"We wish to compliment you on the thrift campaign. We heartily indorse this movement, inasmuch as it is, no doubt, of great value to the general public and encourages the saving of a certain part of the income of the wage earners."

HARRY R. DONNALLY, cashier of the Iron & Glass Dollar Savings Bank:

"The Sun-Telegraph, in its endeavor to stimulate thrift by offering cash awards to those whose savings account passbook numbers were chosen, has taken a forward step. A savings account is the foundation on which success becomes a permanent structure."

Many Benefited

W. C. SCOTT, manager of the savings department of the Bank of Pittsburgh, N. A.:

"The thrift campaign conducted by the Sun-Telegraph is worthy of high commendation. If the people of the various communities would strive to be more thrifty and save their money by depositing a portion of their earnings in a savings account, they would have more funds laid aside for the future and for cases of emergency."

IRA W. JOHNSTON, secretary and treasurer of the Chartiers Trust Company:

"We are pleased to advise you that we have found your thrift campaign to be of much interest to a number of our savings depositors. It has caused considerable conversation in our community."

A. H. BREGENZER, JR., vice president and treasurer of the Brookline Saving & Trust Company:

"The Sun-Telegraph is to be commended for encouraging thrift. Quite a number of our depositors have benefited by this generosity of the Sun-Telegraph and have been stimulated to greater effort towards saving, enabling them to take advantage of the opportunities arising to smooth their path in life."

BALLOON RACERS TELL OF BATTLE WITH STORMS

MENACED BY PLANE

Army No. 1 came down at Ellenville, N. Y., in the Catskill Mountains. Capt. W. J. Flood, pilot, and Lieut. H. G. Ent, aide, reported that they had passed through rain, snow and hail, and narrowly missed being rammed by a mail plane, and had been almost hurled from the basket when their drag rope caught in a tree.

Army No. 1's crew had its closest call in the near-collision with the plane, according to Ent, who received the distinguished service flying cross for his heroism last year when he piloted to earth a flaming balloon in which lightning had killed the pilot, Lieut. Paul Everett.

The balloon and the airplane came within 500 feet of each other, somewhere near Lock Haven, just before dawn, Lieut. Ent said.

"He didn't see us until the last minute," Ent reported. "We had heard his motor and kept waving our flashlights until he saw us and turned on his groundlights to let us know. It was rather close."

TEN BAGS DOWN

Army No. 2, Capt. E. W. Hill, pilot; Lieut. Robert Heald, aide; at Branch, Ulster Count, N. Y. Distance 300 miles.

Navy No. 2, Lieut. J. C. Richardson, pilot; Lieut. Maurice E. Bradley, aide, at Apollo, Pa. Distance 27 miles.

Goodyear No. 7, Ward T. Van Orman, pilot; Alan L. McCracken, aide, at Harkness, N. Y. Distance 405 miles.

Army No. 1, Capt. W. J. Flood, pilot; Lieut. U. G. Ent, aide, Ellenville, N. Y. Distance 225 miles.

Klikoff's bag was driven against a barn in a drenching rain and all his navigating instruments were smashed. After that he and his aide, Thorvald Larsen, drifted until they were over the grounds of the Black Forest Game Club, near Lycoming, Pa., and succeeded in getting the help of members who were spending the week-end there.

Honeywell reported that he had crashed into a mountain at about 11 o'clock Saturday night, and had succeeded in getting aloft again by quickly heaving ballast overboard. Just before he landed he sighted water beneath his craft and for a moment feared that he had been carried over the Atlantic Ocean.

STOPPED BY TREE

The American Business Club balloon, riding a 35-mile-an-hour wind in a storm was forced so close to the ground by poor visibility that the drag rope caught in the limbs of a tree, nine miles east of Mt. Pleasant. C. A. Palmer, pilot, upon his return to Pittsburgh last night, told how he and his aide, W. A. Griffin, had been caught in the tree for nearly two hours while rain pelted down on them and flooded the basket.

CREW MENACED

The second Navy entry, piloted by Lieut. Jack G. Richardson and his aide, Lieut. Maurice M. Bradley, made a forced landing in darkness at 1 o'clock Sunday morning on the outskirts of Apollo.

Both pilot and aide narrowly escaped serious injury when the bag, after tearing through tree tops, crashed to earth on a grass plot between the highway and a forest. Other than minor body bruises, neither Richardson nor Pradley were injured. The balloon was not damaged.

BESIEGED BY CROWD

Lieut. Richardson was besieged by a curious crowd yesterday morning at the scene of the landing. He was officially welcomed with his aide by Mrs. Frank W. Jackson, of Appolo.

Seated on the basket of his bag while guarding it from souvenir seekers, the pilot related a series of unfortunate circumstances which surrounded the flight of the second Navy entry.

Shipstead Improves In New Hospital

BALTIMORE, May 6. — (AP.) — Senator Heinrik Shipstead, Farmer-Labor representative from Minnesota in the upper branch of Congress, who took the oath of office from his bed in the Church Home and Infirmary here Saturday, was reported "much improved" at the Johns Hopkins Hospital, to which he was transferred yesterday.

Officials of Johns Hopkins said the Minnesota Senator was moved there to allow for further tests to be made of his condition, and that he was "taking a much needed rest under the care of physicians."

Head of Air Line In Fight For Life

CLEVELAND, O., May 6—(AP.) L. H. Piper, president of the Universal Air Lines system, was in a critical condition here today from complications following an attack of influenza. Physicians have been administering oxygen for two days in an effort to save his life.

Atterbury Visits Vare at Shore Home

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., May 6. —(AP.)—Among those who visited United States Senator-elect William S. Vare at his home here yesterday was W. W. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania Railroad. Neither Atterbury, who is Republican National Committeeman from Pennsylvania, nor Vare would say whether they discussed political matters.

CIRCUS CROWDS IGNORE RAIN

Pittsburgh's young generation refused to heed the rain today. The reason: The circus is in town.

The same sort of drops that cancels ball games and keeps people away from balloon races fell at the circus grounds, Fifth and Penn avenues, Point Breeze, today—but the circus went on, and the youngsters refused to stay away.

For those who have forgotten their circus days it might be necessary to explain that the elephants, the clowns, the menagerie and the barkers all were present—all part of the Sells-Floto entourage that arrived last night.

So great was the crowd that turned out to welcome the visitors that extra police had to be called to keep up order.

The circus is her for two days, performances afternoon and evening, and it is the first "big top" of the season here.

JAPS BACK U. S. ARMS STAND

GENEVA, May 6.—(AP.)—N. Sato, Japanese disarmament spokesman, told the Preparatory Commission on Disarmament today his government had authorized him to say Japan accepted the American point of view that there should be effective reduction in national armaments.

Sato's announcement was in the course of a proposal to adjourn discussion of the naval question until some future meeting of the Disarmament Commission — a proposal which had been forecast to permit the five great naval powers to find a common ground for naval reduction before jeopardizing the cause by open discussion in a League of Nations forum.

Sato said his government wished to render homage to Ambassador Gibson, the American delegate to the conference, whose proposals, he said, had tended to contribute considerably to the important work of reduction of naval armaments. He pledged Japan's loyal and sincere support to all proposals based on an equitable and reasonable foundation.

Hope still was held in political circles here that he might yet be prevailed upon to accept the office.

JONES, TALKING HERE, CALLS HIS LAW LIBERAL

"The Jones law is more liberal than the other liquor laws because it gives judges more discrimination between casual offenders and those who violate the liquor laws for commercial gain," Senator Wesley Jones, author of the law, declared here last night. The Senator from the state of Washington spoke at the East End Christian Church, under the auspices of the Anti-Saloon League of Pittsburgh. In the morning he addressed the congregation of the First Presbyterian Church, Washington, Pa.

Senator Jones emphatically denied that the law which bears his name had been designed to punish casual offenders with the maximum penalty of five years' imprisonment and a $10,000 fine.

POSSESSION NOT FELONY

"The act was written for making it possible for the courts to impose more drastic penalties on those who violate the liquor laws in a commercial way," he explained. "It merely fixes the maximum penalty the courts may impose for manufacture, sale and transportation of liquor. It does not make mere possession a felony."

The Senator pointed out that he had sponsored the measure primarily because he had come to the conclusion that previous laws were not drastic enough for the punishment of the big, perpetual violators of the liquor laws.

Senator Jones decried the attitude of the metropolitan press on prohibition in general, claiming efforts were being made to belittle prohibition by over-playing minor happenings in connection with enforcement.

HELD LIBERTY GUARD

He declared that prohibition protects personal liberty, while liquor destroys it. He likened the prohibition laws to the speed and jaywalking laws.

"Prohibition, like these laws, protects personal liberty and human life," he said.

His address was followed by a 15-minute question period. The majority of the questions took issue with his declarations. He dismissed them perfunctorily.

Wife Asks Divorce On Cruelty Grounds

Mrs. Hazel I. Cole, of 2957 Churchview street, asked a divorce from Robert A. Cole, of Sunny Hills, Pine Township, alleging cruel and barbarous treatment, in Common Pleas Court. They were married September 27, 1924.

PRECEDENCE ROW AGAIN STIRS CAPITAL SOCIETY

WASHINGTON, May 6.—(INS.)—The capital's social warfare over the seating precedence at former dinners did not end with solemn decision of the diplomatic corps that Mrs. "Dolly" Gann, half-sister of Vice President Curtis, was entitled to rank as the "second lady" on such occasions.

Those who thought it did just don't know their Washington.

The buzzing around the tea tables and in the drawing rooms began anew today and concerned a dinner given by the Guene Meyers, who have long been prominent in Capital society.

To this dinner, so the story goes, were invited the Ganns and the Speaker and Mrs. Nicholas Longworth, who was Alice Roosevelt.

Upon learning that Mrs. Gann was to be present and seated as the ranking lady, Mrs. Longworth is said to have sent her regrets at the last moment. These regrets, it is said, were followed by Mrs. Gann's regrets when she was appraised that Mrs. Longworth had declined. So neither of them attended.

Nobile Rescuer Averts Crash Of Plane

WINNIPEG, Man., May 6.—(AP.)—Capt. Einar-Paul Lundborg, member of the Swedish air force and rescuer of Gen. Umberto Nobile, was instrumental in averting a serious airplane accident yesterday, on his way from Emerson to Winnipeg. The flier, noticing the under-carriage of one of the escort planes hanging down and apparently ready to collapse, speeded up his own plane and flew alongside, notifying Alvin Keith, who was at the controls, and his passenger, Miss Dorothy Heel, local aviatrix, of their danger.

At Winnipeg, Keith, a pilot for only a month, made an expert landing, managing to taxi on one wheel until he could place the other wheel lightly on the ground, bringing the plane to a safe stop.

CHURCH VOTES FOR HALL SITE

More than 500 members of the Second Presbyterian Church, Eighth street, last night voted to petition the County Commissioners to locate the Town Hall downtown. There was but one dissenting vote, that for a North Side location. The petition was sent to the Commissioners today by Dr. G. W. Shelton, pastor, who urged the downtown site because of its one-fare accessibility from all sections.

The action by the congregation was regarded as remarkable because of the fact that hundreds of the members live in districts where other sites have been considered, particularly in Oakland, where an expert has recommended the hall be built.

Oration on Wilson Wins at Duquesne

The annual college oratorical contest of Duquesne University, was won last night by Frank B. Karabinos, of 14 Acorn street, a senior. He spoke on "Wilson, and His Ideal of World Peace." It was said that he is the first senior of the college to win the contest. The reward, a gold medal, will be presented to him on commencement, June 12.

Judges were the Rev. Jerome Hannan, secretary to Bishop Hugh C. Boyle, of the Pittsburgh diocese; Dr. Edward Weisser and Dr. Hugh C. Muldoon, dean of the university school of pharmacy.

POWER 'GOUGE' CHARGES PUT BEFORE U. S.

WASHINGTON, May 6.—Charging wholesale gouging of electric consumers throughout the country, Morris Llewelyn Cooke will submit a mass of evidence to the Federal Power Commission today as the first step in a drive to cut rates.

As a nationally-known engineer and director of the Pennsylvania giant power survey, Cooke has gathered cost records to show that the average of rates "ranges from two to three and more times as high as domestic rates ought to be."

"Amazingly excessive charges for distribution" have been made the pretext for keeping rates up to this high level, Cooke said.

The high rates, he added, deprive women of the use of many electric appliances that would lift the burden of housework from their shoulders.

SECRECY ENDED

"Fair rates for domestic service," said Cooke, in an open letter to the power commission, "based on cost plus a fair profit, will easily and fairly promptly treble the use of electricity in the American home and thereby largely lighten the drudgery of housekeeping."

Cooke expressed belief that he had torn away the last veil of secrecy surrounding the fixing of rates for electric current—the cost of distribution, or getting current from the sub-station to the consumer's meter.

Studies based on the sworn statements of numerous publicly and privately owned plants "indicate that the whole cost of distribution is approximately $7.50 per year per domestic consumer for 500 kilowatt hours of service, or a cent and a half per kilowatt hour," Cooke's letter said.

COSTS ANALYZED

Reports of expert analysis of costs in 45 private plants and 19 publicly-owned plants, in 10 states, were included in his letter. This represents a wider examination than has ever been made before, Cooke said, and the first examination that has ever revealed the true cost of distribution to domestic users

His letter also cited a long list of authorities to support the contentions that there has been concealment and ignorance regarding distribution costs and that domestic rates are unjustifiably high.

Urging a new allocation of costs of service, especially the distribution costs, by classes of service, Cooke said:

"When all such items of preliminary cost have been included in the demand feature of the rate system then the charge for current actually delivered over any individual service will be necessarily at a very low rate—certainly not to exceed two cents per kilowatt hour and possibly a good deal below that."

WON PHILA. FIGHT

Cooke will place his open letter in the hands of every state public service commission in the country, with the object of inducing them to require full disclosure and proper allocation of costs This will pave the way, in his opinion, for orders for rate reductions.

He also plans to lay his findings before a number of senators and seek the organization of sentiment throughout the country to force a reduction of domestic rates.

As director of public works of Philadelphia, Cooke won a $1,050,000 rate reduction from the Philadelphia Electric Company. He organized the valuation conference held in Philadelphia in 1915, and the power section of the Emergency Fleet Corporation. He was a member of the committee which drafted the emergency power act, carrying an appropriation of $200,000,000 for power purposes, in war days.

He has acted as consultant in electric matters to New York, Buffalo, Norfolk, Lexington, Boston and other cities

Weather Conditions.

Low barometer still covers the central valleys, with centers of disturbance north of the lakes and in Texas and the Southwest. The low pressure area is in the form of a narrow trough, extending from near Hudson Bay, southward over the lakes and the Mississippi Valley states to Texas, thence westward to another center over Arizona. The weather is cloud over much the greater portion of the country and showers and thunderstorms are in progress from the central plains southward, to Central Texas and as far east as Central Tennessee.

High pressure covers the Atlantic Coast states and the Northwest. The Northwest high is maintaining the low temperatures over that section, that have persisted the past week. The temperatures for the country as a whole are below normal.

River Conditions.

The rivers are again falling everywhere in the district. Stage at Franklin is 9.1 feet; Lock No. 7, 15.4; Pittsburgh, 18.3; Dam No. 2, 11.0; Dam No. 6, 20.2; Dam No. 9, 21.1, and Dam No. 12, 21.2. The rivers will continue to fall.

The departmental changes today included the swearing in of a new state treasurer, secretary of the commonwealth and secretary of revenue. The others remaining to be sworn in are an auditor general and a secretary of labor and industry.

Robert R. Lewis, Coudersport attorney, became secretary of the commonwealth, succeeding Charles Johnson, Norristown, who later took the oath as head of the new revenue department.

WORK RUSHED ON BOULEVARD

Contractor John F. Casey has begun the actual work of constructing the new Saw Mill Run boulevard and has a large force of workmen busily engaged at the south end of the Liberty Tubes. Digging, laying pipes and grading is now well under way, and according to the company no time will be lost in pushing the work to a speedy completion.

Residents of Overbrook and Castle Shannon, who will be specially benefited by the new highway are making every effort to speed the work and at their importunities an extra steam shovel has been put on the job.

When the link is completed the downtown section will be but six minutes away for residents of Overbrook. The road will be of latest construction with a concrete base 30 feet in width. A 70-foot right of way has been secured in order that the road may be widened whenever necessary.

Committees Will Hold Joint Session

A get-together meeting of the contact committees of Lincoln District Board of Trade will meet tonight to discuss plans for the combined efforts of the two associations. The meeting will be held in the Civic Club headquarters, Lincoln avenue. Plans for the picnic to be held June 26 at West View will be discussed as well as a get-together supper to be held soon.

TWO BOTTLES OF KONJOLA ENDED 10 YEARS MISERY

Nervousness, Kidney and Stomach Trouble Made Life Miserable; Now Is Well Again.

Many, wherever Konjola, the new and different medicine, is known, express amazement not only over the thoroughness of its results, but over the speed at which this master medicine goes to the very source of the ailment.

MRS. V. B. HICKMAN

Konjola, with its 32 ingredients—22 of them the juices of roots and herbs—is compounded to do that very thing—work quickly and thoroughly. How results come when this amazing medicine gets to work, is being explained daily by the Konjola Man, who is at the Dow Drug Company (formerly McCulloch's), Penn Avenue and Sixth Street, Pittsburgh. From him you may learn the remarkable story of Konjola's astounding success. From him one can get the facts—the reasons why Konjola wins when all else tried has been weighed in the balance and found wanting. Konjola cleanses, soothes and invigorates the weakened organs. Poisons and impurities are driven from the system; the blood is enriched, and soon there comes the rich warm glow of returning health. There is no obligation incurred in meeting the Konjola Man. His mission is one of helpfulness. To hundreds right here in Pittsburgh he has shown the road that leads to health. Just a few days ago Mrs. V. B. Hickman, 705 Arch Street, North Side, Pittsburgh, said to the Konjola Man:

"Konjola certainly has amazing merit; the change that this wonderful new medicine made in me is almost beyond belief. For ten years I had been suffering from a bad nervous condition. During all the time I was unable to enjoy a single night of sound, refreshing sleep. Aside from this, I had trouble digesting my food. Gas formed in quantities; I had belching spells and a sour stomach. My appetite failed me and nothing tasted right. The kidney trouble brought on severe back pains, actually preventing me from turning in bed. Medicine after medicine failed me, and I was deeply discouraged.

"My husband knew all about Konjola and its wonderful merits and he insisted that I give it a trial. At first I did not want to do so, thinking that it would be of no benefit to me. But I knew that something had to be done and so I started on this medicine. Now I want to tell everyone that Konjola is the master medicine, that it surely does all that is claimed for it. Within two weeks I took two bottles and I feel like a different person. Remarkable as it may seem, Konjola restored my digestion, improved my appetite, strengthened my kidneys and banished the nervousness. I eat what I please, relish the food and am properly nourished. In every way I am like a woman made over, and I can't find words to express my gratitude for Konjola, the master medicine, if there ever was one."

Konjola contains no alcohol, no nerve-deadening drugs, no heart-depressing chemicals. Konjola is nt that kind of a medicine; it is not aimed at mere temporary relief, but complete and glorious health.

The Konjola Man is at the Dow Drug Company (formerly McCulloch's), Penn Avenue and Sixth Street, this city, where he is meeting the public daily, introducing and explaining the merits of this master medicine.

MOORE BROTHERS—TOM, OWEN, AND MATT—WILL MAKE THREE-STAR FILM

By DOROTHY HERZOG
(Copyright, 1929, by Premier Syndicate.)

HOLLYWOOD, May 6.

THE Moore brothers—Owen, Matt and Tom—have been close friends throughout their life. This means a lot more than just being related by the same mother and father. They're going to three-star in a flick together, "Forty-ninth Street"—not a traffic yarn. Matt will play a student; Tom, a coppy; Owen, a racketeer. Which is why the latter is growing a moustache.

I hear that A. J Jolson is going to build a home on thi. map spot. . . . Mae Murray has skipped East to continue personal appearancing. She returns soon to begin her initial Tiffany-Stahl outloud, which may or not be "Peacock Alley." . . . Word from the other side reports Alice Terry is much thinner and spends a deal of time in Gay Paree. Rex Ingram, her husband director, is vacationing at Cannes. Rex has his own studio in Italy and asserts he will never return to the U. S. A. . . . Nita Naldi, erstwhile screen wampire, is still wampish, disregarding an annexed superfluity of avoirdupois.

Al Jolson

Pioneer Screen Babe in Chorus

IN making "Burlesque," one sequence called for a "beef trust chorus." Corpulent fems of indifferent ages were rounded up by famous players. Two represented mother and daughter, the mother being Gordona Bennett and the daughter, Utalina Lareno. The latter name smacks of geographical fastidiousness. However, Miss Lareno is 17 or 18, and shakes the scales in the neighborhood of 180 pounds. Circling back to her small cradle days, this bureau discovers she was the first baby ever used in a Lasky picture; that she played the captain's baby in Dustin Farnum's celluloider, "The Squaw Man." Heavying through the years, Miss Lareno joined the local Main Street Follies, a burlesque show investigated by the authorities from time to time. In which there may or may not be a moral. . . .

Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Pantages—Mr. Pantages is the voodvill magnate of the West—plan to give a beautifully furnished house and car to their daughter, Carmen, as wedding presents. She will marry John Considine, Jr., United Artists' production chief, in June.

Bessie Love Up in the Air

BESSIE LOVE has succumbed to sky lure. Um, gone aeronautic with a roar. She is described as filling the cockpit of her practice ship as snugly as a peanut in a bathtub. With the aid of pillows, however, she achieves both control and controls.

Evelyn Brent is customarily described by flick penners as "aloof."

Evelyn Brent.

Be that as it may, Betty was so "out-aloofed" 'tother day that 'twasn't funny. It happened at the beach. We lolled on a sandy ledge. Suddenly a lizard streaked across the sand only to pause atop the Lilliputian fence and stare at us curiously. We chucked slabs of sand at it. Said sand splattered dangerously. One would have hit the dern thing if he hadn't ducked. Honest he did. Finally, at his leisure, the lizard disappeared over the fence. You can take it from a witness that lizard "out-aloofed" Betty Brent a hundred to one.

Hedda Hopper Scatters Stars

SCREENALITIES: HEDDA HOPPER driving her young Hispano into the Montmartre parking station and scattering Thelma Todd, Zasu Pitts and Julanne Johnstone. Hedda apologized for breaking up the conference and announced she was leaving pronto for New York, proving it by going to the bank. Hedda has three weeks at her disposal ere starting another flick, so what could be grander than a jaunt East? Zasu asked the traveler to bring her back several white tennis dresses, which Hedda agreed to do. Hie ho for a glimpse of the Kansas prairies before summer hits 'em.

INA CLAIRE has leased RUTH CHATTERTON'S Bev Hills home, swimming pool and all. . . CHARLES DUEL, producer of "Tol'able David," "The White Sister," etc., has written a book, yclept "Sin—or Life in the Movies and the Case of Lillian Gish." Four of the chapters are headed: "The Flight to Versailles," "In Hiding," "Divorce," "A Suit for Alienation of Affection." Smacks a bit intriguing. . . BLANCHE SWEET sighs she must lease her Bev Hills house or her grandmother, who is managing it now, will wear herself to a frazzle. Her grandmother refuses all social invites, asserting she can't leave the house a minute or something might go wrong! . . . And—that's all.

Ruth Chatteron.

Revue, Stock Plays Open Tonight

"A Night in Venice," with Ted Healy and Ann Seymour as the featured players, opens in the Alvin tonight. Matinees will be given Wednesday and Saturday. This Schubert musical extravaganza is being groomed for its summer run in the Schubert, New York. According to claims the grooming process has been completed, making the performance as smooth as it will be when Manhattan first glimpses it.

The problem of whether a woman's place is in the home is the underlying theme of "Skidding," a comedy in which the George Sharp Players will open at the Pitt tonight. There are opportunities for excellent characterizations for every member of the company in this play.

Towns in Venango Stricken by Floods

FRANKLIN, Pa., May 6. — All streams in Venango and Crawford Counties have been on a rampage for the last 48 hours due to heavy rains. French Creek is beyond its banks and many cottages are inundated. The stage of the Allegheny River continues above nine feet. Titusville is recovering from a flood in which the water in Oil Creek reached the highest level in 15 years. Several main streets were under water and basements flooded. Fire department pumps were put to work that the Titusville Herald might go to press.

2,000 RUMORED DEAD IN QUAKE

TEHERAN, Persia, May 6.—(AP.)—Telegraphic advices yesterday told of horrible havoc in the Khorassan district of Northeast Persia where earthquakes continue after three days of terror.

Several villages have been literally destroyed and unofficial estimates were that 2,000 persons had perished. In the cities of Shirwan and Bujnurd, near the Turkestan border, 700 buildings were demolished.

Askhabad, Russian Turkestan, reported four violent earthquakes last Friday, destroying many houses on both sides of the international line and killing 11 persons and injuring 40 in the Turkestan cities. Medical aid was sent to the Persian victims, who were in much greater numbers.

Gibe at Mussolini On Stage Barred In Britain

LONDON, May 6.—(AP.)—Viscount Cromer, the Lord Chamberlain, who is official censor of plays, has interfered to protect Premier Mussolini from being humiliated on the English stage.

A projected new revue containing a scene entitled "Mussolini's Lunch" and purporting to show that even dictators are mere men to their wives and families, has been forbidden.

In a letter to the author, the Lord Chamberlain assured him: "The sketch is quite impossible, containing as it does insults to a leading statesman of a foreign country."

AT THE ORGAN :-: TALK MAKES HER STAR :-: ON THE FLOOR

Lionel Barrymore uses the floor instead of a chair while rehearsing Ruth Chatterton and Mitchell Lewis in scenes of the all-talkie, "Madame X."

U.S. Army Band Sails For Spain Exposition

NEW YORK, May 6.—(AP.)—The U. S. Army Band of 93 pieces sailed on the Leviathan to play at the International Exposition to be held in Seville, Spain. John Philip Sousa who, with the mayor's committee, saw the band off, has written a new piece, called "The Flower of Spain," which the band will play at Seville. Capt. W. J. Stannard is leader of the band.

LAST NIGHT
---and we haven't stopped praising it yet!
It was not made as a super-production. It was not heralded as a sensation. But it will prove to be the most tremendously successful picture the talking screen has ever had---of that there is no doubt.
It is one of those extraordinary pictures termed in filmdom an "accident". True, it boasts of one of the most imposing casts ever assembled. True, it is enlivened with the most brilliantly amusing dialogue ever to come through a talking screen. True, it was made by the greatest producers of talking pictures. But even with these requisites many super-productions have failed.
Never before has it been our privilege to present such a picture. Never before have we been able to endorse one so wholeheartedly. Never before has it been equalled in real entertainment value. We are POSITIVE all Pittsburgh will acclaim it as an unparalleled triumph.
"The Glad Rag Doll" is its name, a Warner Brothers' talking picture starring Dolores Costello, opening at the Stanley today.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Bobby Doyle, framed by Dapper Don Wilkes and his gang and sentenced to prison for twenty years for killing a policeman, is aided to escape from jail by his fiancee, Beebe Barrett. Beebe is assisted by Johnny the Hop, a dope fiend, who hides Bobby in a secret room in his apartment. The day after Bobby's return, Don Wilkes is visited in his apartment by an over-dressed woman, Bess, who demands money to help Mike, a member of the gang, who is laid up with a gunshot wound. Don demurs, but finally gives her the money, and after she leaves, he goes to see Beebe. He has been giving her money, telling her it is due Bobby, and is evidently in love with Beebe. He tries to get her to say where Bobby is hiding, but she refuses to tell him. Then Johnny walks in. Wilkes, in a rage, tells her that he knows that Johnny had hidden Bobby. From Beebe's he goes to Inspector Wilmot's office and tells him and Biff Myers, the detective assigned to the case, to watch Johnny if they want to know where Bobby is hidden. Biff does so, and follows him all day. Meanwhile Beebe visits Bobby, but just before she leaves him the detective arrests Johnny.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER IX.

HE HAD protested helplessly on his way to headquarters, but Biff had shut him up.

"What have I done? Just tell me what I've done!"

"You'll find out soon enough. And shut your mouth meanwhile."

There came over Johnny's heart a nameless dread. Bitterly, he wished now that he had taken a larger shot of the drug that last time. If this wore off, before they were through with him—!

Biff Myers, never relaxing his grip from Johnny's arm, guided him into Inspector Wilmot's office. The inspector was out, but Kelley and Tommy, two plain clothes men, were sitting there looking through the newspapers. They glanced up expectantly at the sight of Biff.

The detective pushed Johnny into a chair, stared at him for a long time with a sour smirk. Then he barked suddenly:

"Doyle is in this town laying up somewhere, and you know where that place is!"

"I don't," Johnny muttered. "What makes you think I'd know?"

"Because of the run around you gave me today. Because of a lot of other things I'm not telling you, smart boy."

"I was only doing that for fun," Johnny said.

"Yeh? Well, that's all the fun you're going to have," Kelley, the youngest of the detectives, snapped.

"Where's Doyle, Johnny?" Biff Myers demanded.

"I don't know," Johnny repeated, but there was a whine of fear in his voice.

Biff turned, nodded to the other two. Johnny's nerves jumped. He sat on the edge of his chair, gripping it, wishing they'd let him go, they'd give up trying.

But at Biff's nod, Kelley turned off the light. The room was plunged into instant blackness at the click of the switch. Out of the darkness came Johnny's frightened voice, like the voice of a scared child:

"What are you goin' to do, Biff—you ain't goin' to beat me up?"

Biff's voice was level and hard.

"We ain't goin' to do nothing, kid, but sit here in the dark and tell you a little story. We don't have to beat you up, Johnny. We're goin' to tell you a little story about the morgue. Ever been there? The little, low, damp building down by the river, where the poor rats who have died inside these walls are taken? Ever been there, Johnny?"

He did not answer, but they heard his low, sibilant intake of breath. He was fighting hard to keep his nerve.

"You got a bad habit," Biff went on in his leisurely way, as if he had all the time in the world. "It's going to be tough when you don't get any more of the stuff. They tell me the pains is bad—like a big, strong, hot hand had grabbed your insides in one awful grip and was squeezing. I've heard them yell. It don't sound pretty—"

"Biff, for God's sake, put on the light. I ain't done nothin'—"

"Lots of fellows with your trouble, Johnny, have croaked right in here. I've seen 'em later right over in that little dead house I was telling you about. Now then, Johnny, you're going to tell us what you know, or we're going to lock you up here without anything — get that? — without anything that you gotta have."

There was a sudden exclamation from Kelley.

"Biff, he's chewing something."

Biff had leapt forward, grabbed Johnny the Hop, while the other detective switched on the light. In another instant Biff had Bobby Doyle's most recent letter to Beebe in his fingers.

He turned triumphantly upon Johnny, whose face had turned the color of ashes.

"So, you don't know anything, huh?" he said. "Now then, I'll give you 10 seconds to make up your mind. Spit it out—tell us where Doyle is, and I'll throw you out of here. Give us one bit of argument, and you know what happens!"

Johnny's fingers twisted together. His voice was a dry rasp of agony. "Biff, for God's sake, have a heart. Doyle and his girl are the only two friends I got. Don't make me cross 'em!"

He saw the hard mouth and cool eyes of Biff Myers, and his pleading died away. Biff leaned forward.

"Your 10 seconds is almost up. Tommy, you can take him—"

"No! No! Don't touch me," Johnny screamed suddenly. "Oh, my God!—I'm squealin'!"

He rocked himself forward, and buried his head in his hands. In a low, scarcely audible tone, he said:

"He's—he's—he's hiding up at my house."

"You're a rotten little liar," Biff said. "I was up there today. Listen, kid, if you don't come clean, God help you—that's all!"

"I tell you he's up at my house. There's a panel behind the bed, he's in the attic."

Biff Myers got up. He laughed, lifted his arms above his head. "Get out of here, you squealer!" he said in another tone. He turned to the others. "Get out the car, Kelley. Take Gorrin, Schwartz, Crombergh and Dick Brown. On the button—this is a big night."

Johnny the Hop crawled like a dying man through the doorway and found himself on the street. He stood there in a kind of daze, brushed his hand over his eyes once or twice, muttered to himself. Then, all at once, his shoulders went down as if in final surrender. He felt in his pockets for money, then jumped into a nearby cab, and gave the address of Beebe Barrett's apartment.

He scarcely knew what was making him go there now. But somehow he had to tell her, he had to admit the truth. It wouldn't square things, but it was the only thing he could do.

But when he opened the door of Beebe's place, and saw Mary standing close at her side, and Don Wilkes with them, he knew already that they knew, too. How could they? There wasn't time yet for the police to have arrested Bobby. But he saw accusation on every face.

Then Beebe burst out: "Oh, Johnny, you didn't squeal—you couldn't have done that!"

"I did. I had to. It's what I came here to tell you."

There was a short laugh from Don. "Yes, you did! You came here to tell all right! If I hadn't figured out why you were going there you'd have kept your mouth shut!"

"Johnny! Johnny!" Beebe's voice was like a wall of despair. "Oh God—they'll take him again—I'll never see him again—Johnny, how could you?"

"They were going to lock me up—take the stuff away from me. I couldn't stand it, Beebe."

"Oh, if I'd had your chance, I could have died for him!" she said hysterically.

Dapper Don nodded consolingly. "It's a pity you allowed the little rat to know all he did. Why didn't you tell me instead?"

"I did tell you, I did!" she cried, though she scarcely seemed to know what it was she was saying.

For one moment the spark seemed to return to Johnny's lifeless eyes.

"Told him what?" he asked.

"I told him you had Bobby hidden, but I didn't tell him where."

"You told him that?"

But she did not answer. She clung to Mary now, in her anguish, and Mary, almost in collapse, with sobs shaking her voice, faltered:

"Beebe, Beebe, what are we going to do?"

"I don't know. All I know is I can't stay here. I'm going . . ."

"Going? Where?" Don Wilkes asked.

"I don't know. To police headquarters—to him. I've got to be there. Oh, I'm half out of my mind. Will you come with me, Mary?"

"My car's outside," Don said at that, as gently as he could. "I'll take you if you want to go."

Suddenly she seemed to break down. She recovered herself with a desperate effort. She went out of the door with Mary. Don Wilkes followed them. At the door itself he turned around, Johnny was sitting at the table, with his head in his arms.

Johnny the Hop did not even answer. He still sat there, even when the siren of a police car shrieked through the city night.

THE BIG IDEA By JACK WOODFORD Daily Short Story

"MISS WILLETS—" the editor's voice was crisp and imperative. Miss Willets, the newest addition to the staff, hurried to his desk. She was just out of college, 21, slim, blonde, pretty as a picture—not an actual 'photo'—an artist's picture.

"Want you to get a feature for Sunday after next," the editor said shortly. "Make yourself up as ingenueish as possible. Stroll along Fifth avenue. Look makeable. Let some expensive-looking old bird pick you up. Then come back and write a story about what happened after he picked you up."

Miss Willets gasped!

"Why! Surely!" she said. "You don't actually expect me to do a thing like that!"

"You're an unprincipled tyrant," Miss Willets objected, almost tearfully. "You ought to be horsewhipped."

"Have been," he admitted. "And shot at. Will be again, probably. Gona do as I tell you or not?"

Miss Willets nodded compliance. She could do nothing else. Her father had died six months before, leaving the family enough insurance to pay up his debts. The newspaper job had been hard to get. There was only one thing to do.

She promised herself that she wouldn't hate Manning as the rest of the staff did—even though he hated her and went out of his way to make life miserable for her because she wouldn't let him take her to night clubs the second time he laid eyes on her.

She wished there were some way to punish him, not only for the way he acted toward her, but for the way he made life miserable for all the rest of the staff too—editorial room despot that he was.

Nevertheless, she went home and ingenued up. It was a nice day for a walk anyway. She hadn't walked more than two blocks along the expensive side of Fifth Avenue before a very nice looking man, neither young nor old, passed her.

Feeling his gaze upon her, she lifted her eyes boldly to meet his; but he averted his eyes decently and passed on. Miss Willets swung about and started after him. A man who was decent enough not to flirt at the first opportunity ought to make much more of an interesting feature than the convential variety who flirted almost automatically with everything in skirts that came near them.

Two weeks later Miss Willets was back before the city editor's desk.

"You're fired," he said, "your story's too late now, even if you did get it. You ought to know that much, even if you did have a college education. That is, you're fired unless you want to be nice and go bye-bye with papa to a nice road house maybe—what say baby?"

"I wouldn't go to the Sunday evening service in a church with you. No, not even with a chaperon on each side of us," Miss Willets told him.

"Oh, you wouldn't eh? Well, you can call at the paymaster's office for your final voucher. And those who get fired from this paper don't usually catch on at any other—get me? Want to change your mind? Or didn't they teach you how to do that in collitch?"

"No, I don't want to change my mind," she returned. "But I wish that you would please come along with me to the paymaster's window."

"What for? Liable to weaken at the last minute and change your mind? Or has your stay here been so short don't think that the paymaster will even recognize you?"

"Well, whatever my reasons, come on along, will you? Be a good sport for once in your life."

More out of curiosity than otherwise he rose, grinning, and accompanied her down the hall to the paymaster's office. The girl stepped up to the window and said:

"Will you kindly read this note?"

After reading the note, the paymaster, with a look of unholy joy, rapidly made some calculations upon a pad. Then he wrote out a voucher and shoved it through the wicket.

Mr. Manning turned a curious shade of green.

"What's the big idea?" he blustered.

"It was your own idea," Miss Willets told him sweetly. "You see, the man I happened to pick up was the publisher of the paper—and we're to be married next week."

Artificial Lightning Used to Test Wires

PITTSFIELD, Mass., May 6.—A million volts of artificial lightning, carted around on the trailer of an automobile, were thrown into the service lines of a public utility company here yesterday, the first time wires were ever tested in this manner for their resistance to natural lightning.

The new device of the General Electric Company will help power companies to improve their service by detecting weak spots in transmission lines, officials explained.

AID ASKED FOR COLLEGE IN CAPITAL OF MORMONS

Presbyterians of the Pittsburgh district were asked yesterday to contribute to the campaign for $1,250,000 to aid Utah's Westminster College, located in Salt Lake City, the heart of Mormonism.

Development of Utah and the part the college is playing in the affairs of the state were described by Dr. H. W. Reherd, president of the institution, speaking at the Fourth Presbyterian Church. He said that of the half million population of the Mormon area, only 10,000 were Protestants.

"Institutions of higher learning are prohibited by law from teaching religion," he said. "The result is that no form of organized religion finds a place on the campus. There are no Christian associations, no university pastors, no Bible pastors, through whose influences spiritual ideals might be developed. The Mormon colleges and one university teach religion after their peculiar point of view. It therefore remains for Westminister College to bear the burden of teaching to college students the type of spiritual ideals which are expected by Prostestants."

The college has grown from 61 students in 1913 to 263 in 1929, the campus increasing from 22 to 40 acres. It was founded in 1897 by Sheldon Jackson, Home Missionary moderator of the Presbyterian general assembly, who gave it $50,000 inherited from his father.

CASEY, MEMBER OF HOUSE, DIES IN PANAMA

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., May 6.—The death of John J. Casey, member of Congress from the Twelfth Pennsylvania District, at Gorgas Hospital, Canal Zone, yesterday, was announced in a cablegram received by his brother, Lawrence Casey.

Casey began life in Wilkes-Barre as a breaker boy and later became a plumber. He was active in the organized labor movement and chiefly by the labor vote was elected to the State House of Representatives in 1907, and served one term. In 1912 he was elected to the Sixty-third Congress and was re-elected to the Sixty-fourth, Sixty-sixth, Sixty-eighth, Seventieth and Seventy-first congresses. In the 1925 campaign he won all nominations.

The oath of office was administered to him in the Panama hospital Saturday, the House having taken action to permit this course.

When James H. Maurer resigned from the presidency of the State Federation of Labor in 1928, to become the Socialist candidate for vice president, Mr. Casey was elected his successor, and was re-elected a few weeks ago.

Mr. Casey leaves his widow and nine children.

U. S. OPPOSES ATLANTIC FLIGHTS AS 'SUICIDAL'

By ALFRED T. NEWBERRY.
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, May 6.—The federal government opposes trans-Atlantic flights in heavier-than-air machines. No action will be taken to prevent such flights beyond the declaration that official Washington believes attempts to span the two oceans in light aircraft is "foolhardy and suicidal." The practice of furnishing detailed weather maps to the fliers and arranging for their arrival in foreign countries will be continued.

The government's position was made clear today to remove an impression that the new administration would encourage American aviators to span the Atlantic and Pacific during the "coming season." Some aviation enthusiasts surmised from Col. W. E. Esterwood's conference with President Hoover last week that the President would like to see the Stars and Stripes be dropped down this year upon London's Croydon field and Paris' Le Bourget. In the absence of a White House statement, the belief gained credence.

Esterwood is the season's first booster for a trans-Atlantic flight. He has posted $25,000 for the first aviator who flies from Rome to New York and thence to his home town in Dallas, Tex., anytime after June 1.

While officials of the Army and Navy declined to be quoted as "joy-killers" they declared without hesitation the best evidence of their attitude is that the government does not promote such undertakings. Aeronautic officials of both services today were unanimous in their belief trans-Atlantic flights can add nothing to the present art and science of aviation.

The Army does indorse flights down to Pan-America and probably would co-operate with any flier who chooses to beat the record Capt. Eaker established in his recent hop from Brownsville, Tex., to Panama. Such a flight, no doubt, would receive a White House okey because Mr. Hoover is desirous of extending air mail service to the South American countries.

Holdup Attempt On Police Car Charged

James Carter, 42, a Negro, of 211 Omega street, accused of an attempt to hold up a police emergency car Saturday night, was held for further investigation by Magistrate William J. Soost in Frankstown Avenue Police Court yesterday. Carter is alleged to have mistaken the police car for a private automobile.

Lieut. Frank Shine and Patrolman Dennis Timpona, who were answering a call, were confronted by Carter on the Hoeveler Bridge, near Culver street, they said. He was standing in the middle of the roadway, and when Timpona blew his horn Carter flashed a .38 caliber revolver, bringing the car to a stop. He was arrested. Search of his room revealed a quantity of cheap jewelry, 100 loaded revolver shells and a charge coin from a downtown department store, the police testified at the hearing.

TWO-WAY PHONE SERVICE FROM TRAIN PERFECTED

TORONTO, May 6.—(AP.)—A successful test of a two-way telephone conversation carried on between a speeding express train on the Canadian National Railways, and the office of the telegraph company at Toronto, was held yesterday.

The system of telephone communication was worked out by the railroad's telegraph engineers and was the first time a sustained two-way conversation has ever been held from a moving train.

LINKS RADIO, WIRES

The conversation was carried on between W. D. Robb, vice president in charge of the telegraph department of the railroad, and W. G. Barber, general manager of the Canadian National Telegraphs. Telephone connection linking the train with the office here was made with the celerity of the usual local telephone connection. The demonstration showed the feasibility of holding telephonic communication to and from a moving train from any part of the United States and Canada.

The system makes use of radio, telegraph and telephone lines with the usual transmitting and receiving sets for the passengers on the train. Those on board call the operator on the train, giving the number wanted, and the operator signals by radio a terminal station at a point on the railroad. Here the call is switched to the telephone. The use of the telegraph wires as antennae in no wise interferes with the wires' use for telegraph or telephone operation. The terminal point in yesterday's demonstration was at Davenport, Ontario.

Germany has been using train telephone communication for some time, but it is one way in operation. The equipment has to be readjusted when the listener desires to make a reply. Officials of the Canadian National Railways said that as a result of the test the railroad between Montreal and Toronto would be equipped for train telephone.

Rumor of Big Plane's Crash Proves False

CHICAGO, May 7.—(AP.)—A report that a sightseeing airplane had crashed late yesterday was proved false only after several hours' investigation by police and air field authorities.

Two planes were sent into the air when the report of the crash gained wide circulation, and they searched over a wide area without finding any sign of a fallen plane. A check of all aircraft companies here showed every plane accounted for.

Speaker Unopposed In British Elections

LONDON, May 6.—(AP.)—Eight members of the House of Commons now are without opponents for the general election, but only one is morally certain to find himself unopposed when nomination day, May 20, has passed. A. E. Fitz Roy, speaker of the House of Commons and Conservative member for Daventry, Northamptonshire, is the fortunate man. Tradition is long founded in Britain that the speaker, being above party, should be unopposed.

Meditations of a Wife

By HELEN ROWLAND

Woman's Bad Memory

EVERY now and then some woman carelessly shoots her husband—and then promptly forgets all about it. It just slips her mind!

* * *

And when she finds herself before a jury, she "can't remember a thing that happened."

* * *

Women should carry memorandum pads around with them, and jot such things down. Shooting a husband may be all in the day's work, but these little things are apt to come up later.

HELEN ROWLAND

* * *

Men's memories have ALWAYS been independable. They begin forgetting right at the altar! If you ask a man, ten minutes after the wedding ceremony, just what he had promised a woman, he probably couldn't remember his wedding vows. A man can kiss his wife goodby, after breakfast, and immediately forget her existence the moment a flapper catches his eye.

* * *

This does not imply that man has a BAD memory. Oh, no, he has a GOOD memory—a nice, tame, well-trained memory that never reminds him of anything he wants to forget!

* * *

It is woman's memory that has always been a torment, both to herself and to men. It rides her like the Old Man of the Sea, and never lets her forget ANYTHING—a mistake, an injury or a man's faults.

* * *

The poet has said that "memory is the perfume of life;" but, in a man's opinion, lots of women's memories are more like castor oil than like roses.

* * *

Years after she has done something ultra-foolish she can close her eyes, conjure up the embarrassing scene, and blush down to her toes.

* * *

Long after she has married another man the sound of a street organ grinding out an old tune or the fragrance of lilacs will waft her back to a lost April and the romance that went blah—or the man who got away.

* * *

Somehow, it seems to be always the uncomfortable things that a women remembers longest—the quarrels, the misunderstandings, the painful things. That is what tries a man's soul!

* * *

At any moment, she can dig down into her hope chest full of memories and bring out an old grievance with which to refute a man's argument and make him sorry he spoke.

* * *

She can wreck his most virtuous pose by reminding him of all the beautiful resolutions he made and broke year before LAST.

* * *

She can spoil a whole holiday by recalling what a funny figure he cut the time he took the wrong road and got stuck in the mud, because he "wouldn't listen" to her.

* * *

She can cool his ardor right in the middle of a kiss, by reminding him that it's the first time he's kissed her that way in weeks. Or that he promised her a new fur coat. Or that he left the lawnmower out in the rain.

* * *

In every man's secret opinion, what every woman needs is a course in the art of FORGETTING. The only time when her memory seems to "go dead" or take a holiday, is when she shoots her husband!

The May Queen -:- By Madge Geyer

© 1929, Newspaper Feature Service, Inc. Great Britain rights reserved.

"FOR I'm to be Queen of the May, Mother, I'm to be Queen of the May." Do you remember the old poem, and how it thrilled you to death every time you read it? And how you pictured yourself in the same role and wondered what it would be like to have all the maids and lads dancing around you after you had been crowned with a fragrant garland of May flowers?

Dear dreams of Youth! But they're the foundation on which are built the fine men and women of the future. And perhaps you are a really, truly Queen of the May to the one whose heart is all yours. Only the May pole is an imaginary thing, with Cupid and his aids dancing around you with the gay festoons of Love's soft fetters. And you still thrill to the thought that you're the Queen of May and of all time in your Beloved's heart.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

When Nervousness Becomes a Disease

WHAT is nervousness? We hear so many women say, "I'm so nervous!" What do they mean and why are they that way?

Women are more highly organized, more sensitive in their natures, than men are. They are more emotional, less restrained in giving way to their feelings. They cry easily. They suffer more.

DR. COPELAND

I am not at all sure it would be good for the world to have them different. We need their enthusiasm, their readiness to express joy and sorrow, their tenderness, their warm hearts. It would be a cold and barren world without their many contributions to the common welfare.

But of course there are unfortunate women who have such emotional natures that they are in real distress much of the time. Their "nervousness" becomes a disease. This condition is serious enough so that its victim requires medical attention.

If the physical and mental state becomes so pronounced that sleeplessness and loss of appetite are daily experiences, it is certainly time that something should be done about it. Unnatural fear, worry, mental depression, jumping at every sound, headache, backache, inability to carry on in the accustomed tasks—these are distressing symptoms.

In analyzing the common expressions of nervousness, we must seek two sets of causes. One may be spoken of as the external causes—the surroundings, financial and domestic conditions. All the outside influences that work against happiness and tranquility of mind are included.

Generally speaking, these are temporary. Time heals many wounds of the heart and mind. Or else the crushed soul adapts itself to the miserable circumstances.

It is more than likely what we call the internal causes for nervousness are more serious. These have to do with the physical, the bodily causes for misery.

Studying these carefully, we find that they can be traced to the pelvic organs, the abdominal organs, or to a disturbance of the nervous system caused by the absorption of poisons generated within the body. Of course this is a very general statement, but it is not far from accurate.

Disease or congestion of the womb, the ovaries, or the bladder—some localized disturbance within the pelvis—here may be the trouble which is disturbing the nervous system.

Wrong eating, insufficient food, excessive quantities of food, are all causes. In consequence there is stomach or intestinal trouble. Or else the kidneys, liver, or other abdominal organs may be failing to work properly.

There may be abscessed teeth, infected tonsils, diseased gallbladder, or fermentation in the bowel. Because of that condition, wherever it is, poisons are formed white excite brain and nervous system.

This is a brief outline, very brief indeed, but it may be helpful to some poor sufferer. It may point the way to proper treatment and out of that may come relief of these dreadful symptoms of nervousness.

Prince Georges and Mr. Owen Rejoin the Party

KATHERINE'S lips quirked into a relieved smile as I answered her worried comment upon Charles Owen with the prediction that the result of Prince George's interview with Samuel Brixton's half-brother would furnish me with a "very effective automatic to level at the gentleman's head."

"I've always thought you had the makin's of a blackmailer," she gibed. "More power to you! Anything is justifiable with that lad. I wouldn't mind—what is it Harry says—'packing a gat'—for him myself. But here come the duelists now, all smiles an' everything. Evidently the rapiers have been sheathed, or beaten into fountain pens or something like that."

I mentally echoed her comment as I watched Prince Georges and Mr. Owen come into the room chatting and smiling in the most casual fashion. The record on the phonograph ran out immediately afterward, and this time we did not keep it going. Carolyn, spying her uncle, promptly demanded his aid in the "Paul Jones," and Katherine and I waited only until the dance was in full swing before going to the kitchen.

"We won't have to play watchdog any longer," I said with a relieved little sigh as we slipped into kitchen aprons. "Prince Georges is strictly on the job, I think, and Mr. Owen will walk a chalkline."

"I think he would do that anyway as far as the conventions are concerned," she commented as she deftly cut oranges and put them through the fruit press. "I may be mistaken, but I imagine he is impeccable in his deferential treatment of women, young and old. His particular 'dark streak' is financial, although he might be capable of blackmail. If he wins Marion's confidence, as he is palpably planning to do, it will be as Carolyn's kindly uncle, not as a romantic admirer."

"I am glad to hear you say that," I told her, "it agrees with my own estimate of the man. But I can't help having an uneasy little feeling concerning him, no matter how effective the weapon Prince Georges may have against him. He strikes me as being adroit and resourceful, and possessed of infinite patience. And of course his is the brain behind this scheme of Samuel Brixton's, whatever it is."

"I wish I knew just what the gentleman of color among the fireplace logs really looks like." Katherine said. "Don't you think we have enough oranges and lemons? All right, you do the fine mixing and stirring, and I'll tackle the salads until you're finished. Then I'll take a bowl and cups into the living room. They'll be getting thirsty and flocking out her for water pretty soon."

I nodded, as I took over the concoction of the fruit punch, and answered her comment upon Samuel Brixton's scheme.

"No doubt we shall see your dusky friend's head protruding from the woodpile by tomorrow," I said. "And until then, let's stop worrying. You'll find celery and mayonnaise in the refrigerator, if that's what the wondering look in your eye means."

"Thank you. Would you use another can of this boned chicken?"

I made a mental calculation.

"Yes, I think so. They're all young — therefore hollow — except Mr. Owen."

"And he probably won't have much appetite, anyway," she commented grimly. "But what's the big idea of our doing this? I thought you were strong for the self-help—pretty girls—fluttering round-a-kitchen-thing?"

"I thought so, too," I said, "but I'm so on edge that I can't sit still. This is as good an outlet as any."

Correct Manners

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

How to Introduce

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

1. I received a wedding announcement from my sister announcing the marriage of her daughter. Should I write directly to my sister, or should I write to her daughter?

2. Would you kindly tell me how to answer a wedding announcement?

3. When a young man calls on me and I want to introduce him to my parents, how shall I go about introducing them?

DOTTY.

SINCE the relationship is so close, you would write to each separately.

2. These notes are the answer to the wedding announcement.

3. First present him to your mother, "Mother, may I present Mr. Wells?" or "Mother, this is Mr. Wells," or "Mr. Wells, this is my mother," or "Mr. Wells, I want to have you know my mother." Then in presenting him to your father, you would say, "Father, this is Mr. Wells," or "Father, Mr. Wells," or Mr. Wells, this is my father."

How Long to Stay

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

I have just become acquainted with a lady here in town. Her son goes to school with my son. She visited me the other afternoon. It was her first visit and when she left she left her card, and two of her husband's cards, on the table. Was I to return the visit in two weeks and leave the same number of cards?

2. I called her on the telephone about two weeks after her visit, and we had a nice little chat. Was that proper? She asked me to spend an afternoon with her, and to call her on the telephone so she will be at home. How soon shall I call, and how long shall I stay?

3. Should I take my wraps off?

4. Could I take fancy work to work on?

5. Should I take candy or flowers? If so, what kind?

YES, this is the gracious and friendly thing to do. Leave one of your cards for the hostess, and two of your husband's cards, one for the hostess and one for the host.

2. In response to such a friendly invitation, you should make a point of calling her very soon. You might stay about an hour for this visit. The customary length of time for the first formal call, those formal calls that our grandmothers used to pay, was the famous 20 minutes. But this visit would probably not be of such a strict formality.

3. You would probably take off your coat, but not your hat.

4. No, just spend the hour chatting. It would be bad form to take any work with you, even fancy work.

5. You might get a box of flowers with you, if you wish, and I am sure that this neighbor would be most appreciative of this thoughtfulness. A box of spring flowers, or only daffodils, would be charming and very seasonable.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Tuesday, May 7

A DAY of great opportunity and important operations is foreshown by the interesting chain of planetary mutations. In employment, new undertakings, in finance and business generally, there are signs of expansion and promotion; but these may be somewhat negatived by excessive zeal or impetuosity. With well-laid plans and calm management, all should prosper. Personal affairs are graciously aspected.

Those whose birthday it is may prepare for a year of promotion, advancement and expansion either in employment, business or in new projects. But pursue all with cool judgment and self-control. Personal affairs also thrive and give pleasure.

A child born on this day may be excellently equipped for success in many directions, but it should be given training and discipline in self-control and even temper. It may be popular and loved.

What Are PLANTABBS?

PLANTABBS are little tablets shaped like aspirin but slightly larger. They have no odor, are clean and easy to use, and contain full directions in every box.

PLANTABBS were first sold for use on potted plants and flowers such as ferns, begonias and geraniums, but proved so successful and are so inexpensive that they are now used on all outdoor plants and flowers as well.

The secret of PLANTABBS great success is that they make the soil they are used on as rich in the three great plant foods as any earth the florist or nurseryman prepares. PLANTABBS contain 11 per cent nitrogen, 15 per cent phosphoric acid, 20 per cent potash, which makes them the perfect food for any garden plant. They are many times more concentrated than the best fertilizer.

A $3.50 can will go further than any fertilizer for the same money. Other sizes 25c, 50c and $1.00. Sold by florists and seed dealers. If yours cannot supply, postpaid from Plant Products Co., Baltimore, Md.

SOUSA'S BAND ON RADIO TONIGHT

By DARRELL V. MARTIN, Radio Editor.

WHAT HO!

Sousa's Band, Ted Lewis and his wicked clarinet, Dolores Costello, Dave Harmon's Music, stars from downtown theaters, Don Bestor's Orchestra—all in one night, folks.

Or we might say one night and half of the next morning for WCAE, with downtown theatrical acts, will go into panegyrics at 11:01 p. m. and continue a-whirl until 3 a. m. Tuesday, celebrating the station's seventh anniversary.

Good luck, WCAE, and we wish you a very extraordinary birthday!

Martha Atwood.

John Philip Sousa has "given in" to radio. A holdout for nine years, this great bandmaster has succumbed at last to the radio army. Some of his famous marches and the introduction to third act of Wagner's "Lohengrin" comprise a superb concert over WCAE at 9:30 o'clock. Martha Atwood, soprano prima donna, will sing "Peter Pan" and "The Nightingale."

TED LEWIS ON JUBILEE

Sophie Tucker just couldn't keep still when Ted Lewis played his wicked clarinet during their stage appearances and it is a safe bet that most listeners will be on their feet tonight when the famous jazz master entertains on the Vitaphone Jubilee, WJAS, at 9:30. Dolores Costello and a bevy of sweet movie stars will round out the program which will originate in the studios at Hollywood.

Two mighty fine dance orchestras have encamped here for the summer and will be heard on local stations. Dave Harmon's Music will vibrate through KQV, starting tonight at 11:30, while Don Bestor's Orchestra will be heard as a regular dinner music feature over KDKA, starting this evening at 6:30 o'clock.

Franklyn Baur, famous tenor, whose mother has been deaf since his birth, will sing for her in a program of Mother's Day requests, WCAE, at 8 o'clock. Mrs. Baur will be in the WEAF studio. It is a wonderful program.

FORD AND GLENN AT WLW

We know music has an influence on writers, such as was demonstrated in the Edison Recorders' program dedicated to Arthur Brisbane, but we are perplexed to learn that music helps a golfer make a "birdie." Perhaps we shall learn more at 9 over KDKA when the Recorders present the favorites of Bobby Jones.

We promised Sunday to let you know about Ford and Glenn, so here's telling you that this famous team will be heard first over WLW tonight at 8:15 o'clock. They will remain at Cincinnati a week, perhaps longer. Ford and Glenn established a reputation at WLS and have been on the stage for almost two years.

Tonite famous stars of the movie world will sing to you from HOLLYWOOD

NEW WHITE HOUSE COFFEE SERIES 8:30 MONDAYS, KDKA

The White House Coffee Concert needs no introduction. It is already known to millions of enthusiastic fans, but it will now be heard over a different network. Also, the program will be changed from Saturday to Monday night. As usual, Hugo Mariani and his talented staff of 36 musicians will render the concert, and the program will show its customary happy balance of favorite semi-classical and important modern compositions. The White House Coffee Concert will be heard from now on over WJZ and 14 associated stations every Monday night.

WOOD ALCOHOL SENDS WOMAN TO HOSPITAL

SIDEWALKS OF PITTSBURGH

by HAVEY J. BOYLE

WHOOPEE M'GURK, who in real life is—but he asked me not to use his name—a reporter who writes, now that the chase and fun are over, his confessions for Sidewalks. Inasmuch as I got four or five letters slyly intimating I was Whoopee and because I heard so much comment about the hunt for him, I am led to believe a lot of you would like to hear the following from Whoopee. He writes:

"It was tough work playing Whoopee McGurk. When I got the assignment I had pleasant dreams of a vacation—no getting up in the morning, no hurrying through breakfast and the privilege of calling the boys at the office to ask how busy they were. I soon discovered I was a genuine fugitive. My trouble was that many friends recognized the daily outline in the paper and they were ornery enough to tip off everyone they knew—not so much for the $100 as to make life as miserable as possible for me. Even the children in my neighborhood were wise, and more than once they came to the front door with the Jiggs clipping in hand.

"I never realized so many persons wanted to see me in person—about matters, they insisted, that just couldn't be handled over the telephone, matters of life and death. People who never gave me a tumble would send word they wanted to see me—and quickly. They imagined that I didn't know that they knew I was Whoopee McGurk.

"Instead of a seven-hour day, which I usually put in, I was working 24 hours. I couldn't go places at night and that was my biggest complaint. The places I wanted to go were places I had been going and I was always known in such spots by at least one person.

"I was almost caught by a barbecue sandwich—without relish. I stayed outside a store while a friend went in for the sandwiches. When my friend asked for one sandwich with relish and one "without," the attendants who knew me and remembered I liked them without relish made a bee-line for the door. My friend beat them to it, warned me, although I had never driven this car before, I pressed a button, something started, I pulled out and my friend jumped onto the running board and got away. I went home without the sandwich—without the relish. My friend later went back, got the sandwiches, and the attendants had a cab driver follow him, but he outdistanced the driver and brought me my sandwich. But they had got even with me—they had put relish on it.

* * *

"I hear the stunt has been a lot of bother to others. A cab driver in Federal street, stopped in traffic, jumped from his car, nabbed an innocent and proclaimed him Whoopee; he then forced him into his cab and drove to the North Side

Police Station. There the driver learned better, and he asked the pedestrian to pay for the cab ride. The pedestrian, needless to say, was fit to be tied.

* * *

"A NATIVE of Etna telephoned the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph that he had caught Whoopee in front of the Mellon Bank, but that Whoopee had pushed him aside and sped away in a taxicab. This, I assure the Etna reader, was not so. He insisted on identifying Whoopee when it was all over. Now's his chance. We McGurks never lie.

* * *

"The managing editor of our paper was nabbed in a downtown restaurant by a waitress who pronounced him 'Whoopee.' I suppose he lost his appetite. I guess there were many who went through the same experience.

* * *

"ONE thing I must do—get a new hat and a new pair of pants because of the unfavorable publicity given them and because I don't want to be tabbed by the nickname of Whoopee. My friends—and a few enemies—call me Fuzzy."

Testimonial

JOHN SCHNEIDER

A testimonial dinner at which Mayor Kline and others are to speak will be given in Hotel Schenley tonight in honor of Constable Schneider, First Ward.

BRILLIANT PUMP PLANS PUT UP TO COUNCIL

Council today received from Public Works Director Edward G. Lang alternate recommendations for imperative repairs at Brilliant Pumping Station, costing $1,730,000 for an entire new steam-equipped plant, or $900,000 for a complete electric installation.

Annual charges on the new steam station were estimated at $284,700 and on the electric station, $320,000.

$500,000 AVAILABLE

A bond fund of $500,000 is available for either plan and the director urged a prompt decision on the favored one.

The electric plant is recommended as the most expedient owing to its entire freedom from smoke, the least additional capital required for a new station, affording security to pipe lines and for its simplicity of construction and operation.

BUILDING OUT OF DATE

The necessity for the proposed rehabilitation is caused by the age, condition and lack of reliability which increases the cost of maintaining the present equipment and buildings.

Brilliant Pumping Station is the largest of the city's water works, pumping daily about 75,000,000 gallons to Highland Reservoirs Nos. 1 and 2.

ALL-NATIONS' STORY HOUR

DRINKS FROM BOTTLE FOUND IN CELLAR

Mrs. Mary McCarthy, 40, of 107 South Twelfth street, is in the St. Joseph Hospital, suffering the effects of drinking out of a bottle which, according to the hospital authorities, contained wood alcohol. South Side police said Mrs. McCarthy, while visiting her brother, Regis King, in his home at 2006 Sarah street, drank from a bottle which she found in the cellar. Her condition is not serious.

Francis Farrington, 19, of Pius and South Eighteenth streets, is in St. Joseph's Hospital, suffering from a probable fracture of the skull, as a result of falling out of an automobile driven by Martin Wagner, 17, of 800 Parkwood avenue, in the 2600 block on Arlington avenue, yesterday.

Wagner, Sylvester and Bernard Lauer, of 2103 Salisbury street, and Joseph Higgins, 2812 Arlington avenue, arrested on charges of being suspicious persons, were held over for further investigation, by Magistrate A. D. Brandon in Morals Court yesterday. The latter three men were passengers in Wagner's machine.

3 BOYS SOUGHT BY POLICE

The Missing Persons Bureau today was asked to search for three boys. Two of them, residents of Pittsburgh, disappeared from their homes. The other youth, residing in Wilkinsburg, was lost in the downtown district.

Telling his mother he would return for her within a few minutes, Jack Moeller, 16, of 1720 Laketon road, Wilkinsburg, separated himself from his parent on a shopping trip, April 27, and failed to return.

Elmer Walton, 9, of 1121 Ridge avenue, has run away from home for the fifth time, the Missing Persons Bureau was notified by his father, Alonzo Walton. He has not been heard of since Thursday.

Leaving his home on April 11 to go to a show with several friends, William Morris, 16, of 842 Loyal street, has not been seen since.

27 GET MENTAL TEST AWARDS

Honorary awards to 27 students of Allegheny County high schools were announced today by Dr. Roswell H. Johnson, who conducted the sixteenth semi-annual mental test April 27. The test was taken by 248 students. The awards would indicate that the winners would rank in the highest 5 per cent in a college freshman class, Dr. Johnson said. Awards were made as follows:

Edward L. Robinson, Edgewood; Seth C. Galbraith, Jr., Bellevue; John A. Hunter, Jr., Ben Avon; Carl F. Tessmer, Edgewood; H. Alberta Colclaser, Turtle Creek Union; Ivan A. Getting, Schenley; Anthony Henrici, Sewickley; Thomas F. Skeehan, Ambridge; Louise M. Suckfield, Avalon; John C. Lightfoot, Westinghouse; Virginia Harper, Dormont; George H. Bens, St. Mary's of the Mount; Herbert E. King, Dormont; Louis Martin, McKeesport; Earl L. Warrick, Perry; Elinor H. Yeakel, Peabody; Mary F. Loomis, Westinghouse; Joseph T. Donaldson, Jr., Ben Avon; Morris Rosen, Westinghouse; Richard G. Knight, Munhall; Elizabeth M. MacKenzie, Allegheny; Margaret E. Evans, Tarentum; William F. Kerr, Schenley; Marion R. Way, Avalon; Sarah R. Supplee, Ben Avon; Helen A. Murray, St. Mary's of the Mount; Estelle Friedman, McKeesport.

LIBRARY BOON TO CHILDREN

When Longfellow wrote his poem about the children's hour, there was no Wylie avenue, with its children of many races, many colors, many creeds—children from every spot in the world.

But there came later men who read it, and others who saw Wylie avenue. And the perpetuation of the spirit of the poem may be found any Tuesday afternoon in the basement of the Carnegie Library on Wylie avenue.

WONDER AT TALES

Here a little group of internationalists—children of parents from Europe, Asia, Africa, almost everywhere, sit at the knees of Miss Eugenia Brunot and Miss Vivian Lucci and hear the tales of wonder from these librarians' lips.

From 15 to 20 nationalities are represented. They hear, not only the folklore of the lands of their fathers, but as well the stories of heroics built around the mythical and real figures in America's history and present-day life.

CHILDREN'S HOUR

The regular children's hour of story-telling is every Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock, but now and then a special hour is slipped into the schedule. Dr. Doolittle is one of the most romantic of the figures. B[illegible] from the pages of many tots books leap the characters, made real to the youthful mind by the imagination and artistry of their lecturers.

The library serves the district beginning in the downtown and extending to Herron Hill.

TAX LEVY BUT 8 MILLS, BUILD TWO NEW SCHOOLS

Fixing the current tax levy at 10 mills, the Upper St. Clair School Board maintains three four-room school units and is paying for two new buildings on what is declared to be the lowest average millage in the county. The rate this year is eight mills.

At its annual meeting the Upper St. Clair township board announced that a new room would be opened in September at the Cook School, near Bridgeville, which was built last year. Grade schools also are maintained at Clifton on the Washington road, and near the mining hamlet of Beadling. Twelve grade teachers and a township school supervisor are employed.

Hugh M. Stilley, president of the board, pointed out that the rate is low when it is noted that the community is rapidly growing in population and the average number of children per family is increasing. Motor busses are used in transporting the pupils to and from the schools and tuition is paid for students attending high schools.

High school students have their own choice of institutions and many attend the high schools of the city.

To Speak

MRS. G. H. HUNTINGTON

Mrs. Huntington, vice-president, Robert College, Constantinople, Turkey, and president of the Y. W. C. A., in Constantinople, who will address a luncheon in Hotel Schenley Thursday and another in East Liberty Y. W. C. A. Wednesday.

PERMIT STIRS TAXPAYERS

Brentwood councilmen will hold a special meeting tonight on the matter of granting a permit for the erection of an apartment house at Bellecrest avenue and Brownsville road, as requested by Clara Geiger, and which previously had been refused by the borough.

At a special meeting held last week, a number of taxpayers were present and urged the council to again refuse the permit. Council then agreed to meet tonight on the scene, and with a number of prominent citizens, thresh the matter out.

The borough has been served with a writ of manadamus issued by Judge Josiah Cohen of the Court of Common Pleas, but the hearing was delayed in order to give the borough officials time to investigate and determine their actions.

Peace Move Fails In Taxicab Strike

Antonio Maddalon, of Broughton, owner of the McKees Rocks Taxicab Company, yesterday ignored efforts of Police Chief Edward Rieder, McKees Rocks, to effect a compromise between Maddalon and his 10 drivers, now on strike. He has made known his intention to pay higher wages to new drivers, but refuses to confer with the strikers, out since last Thursday.

Denial that most of the strikers had gone back to work was made yesterday by Nicholas Kolinsky and James De Angelo, strikers. They intend to continue the strike until granted higher wages, they said.

Woman's Club to Work for Blind

Members of the committee for the blind, of the Woman's Club of Crafton, will meet tomorrow afternoon with Mrs. John A. Wentz, Noble avenue. Cutting materials for the Workshop of the Blind will be the principal feature of the meeting.

Golden Eagle Ladies Plan Euchre Party

Ladies of the Golden Eagle, McKees Rocks, have arranged a euchre party to be held in Fraternal Hall next Thursday evening. The invitation is general, and special entertainment features have been arranged.

Business Men to Meet Wednesday

The Mt. Oliver-Knoxville Business Association will hold its regular meeting Wednesday night in G. B. U. Hall, Brownsville road and Arlington avenue. Following the discussion of business, lunch will be served. A number of committees will file their report and matters of importance will be up for discussion. All members are urged to be present on this occasion.

Eagles to Fete Bowling Teams

Bowling teams sponsored by the McKees Rocks Eagles will hold their annual banquet tomorrow evening in the Eagles' Club. Speakers of prominence and an unusual program of entertainment have been arranged for. The cup to the winning team also will be awarded at this time.

Ten years ago the resort was destroyed with a loss of more than a million dollars.

STUDENT MISSING 9 DAYS FOUND AS MARINE RECRUIT

Romance, not violence, drew Marvin Rife, 17, and brilliant, from his theological studies at Wooster (O.) College while he was visiting a girl friend in Pittsburgh nine days ago, his parents learned today.

The parents, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Rife, announced that they had received a message from their son telling them he had joined the Marine Corps, and was in training at Parris Island, N. C., under an assumed name. They asked Pittsburgh police to drop a search for him. Police had believed he might have met with violence.

Rife, who was regarded as a quiet, studious boy at Wooster College, came to Pittsburgh on Friday, April 26. The next day, Saturday, he visited Janet Hobson, of 3438 Delaware avenue, North Side, a student in Perry High School.

When he left her she believed he was bound again for Wooster's cloistered halls and the pursuit of theological knowledge. But instead, it seems, Rife's goal was the adventurous life of a soldier ashore and afloat.

Pulls Alarm to See Firemen Make Run

A 9-year-old Negro girl, seeing the door of a fire alarm box open at Belasco and Hampshire avenues, pulled the hook, bringing out two Beechview fire companies, late Saturday. Battalion Chief Sol Klein, who responded to the alarm, reprimanded the girl and turned her over to her mother.

HILL TOP CHURCH BREAKS GROUND FOR NEW EDIFICE

More than 200 persons yesterday afternoon witnessed the ground breaking for the new $80,000 church and parsonage of the Zion Evangelical Lutheran Church, on Boggs avenue and Smith way, Mt. Washington.

The principal address was made by the Rev. W. E. Schuette, of Sewickley, president of the Eastern District of Joint Synod, and the spade was turned by the Rev. David F. Schultz, pastor of the church. The music was furnished by the church choir. Mr. Schultz also read the scripture and said the benediction.

The proposed church will be of stone construction with the entrance on Boggs avenue. The parsonage is to the left of the church chancel and facing on Smith way. The edifice will contain an auditorium on the first floor with a seating capacity of 400. The basement will contain a large room, equipped to serve as a main Sunday school auditorium, gymnasium, social hall and dining room. It will be possible to serve 400 persons at a dinner meeting in this room.

The present church is located one half a block away from where the new church is being built. The congregation reaches the 400 mark, and was organized 45 years ago. Irwin W. Schmidt is the president of the congregation.

Present Concert As Organ Benefit

As a benefit for the organ fund, a concert, entitled "The Final Rehearsal" will be presented tomorrow evening in the Hawthorne Avenue Presbyterian Church, Crafton. The program will be interspersed with operatic airs, spring songs and ballads by the artists.

KEEN RIVALRY MARKS RACE FOR FREE RADIO

Keen rivalry is developing between a number of schools in the Pittsburgh district for installation of radios in the Sun-Telegraph-Stanley-Warner Brothers' free radio campaign.

The Glendale School and the Rostraver Junior High School, Pricedale, are vieing with each other in an effort to earn these sets, while St. Mary's School, in Lawrenceville, is striving to place a second and third outfit in the building ahead of many others.

In Peabody High School, two factions are working outside the school after hours; intense rivalry is apparent with the Tech Club a little ahead of the Radio Club.

The Fourth Ward School in Homestead promises to secure 125 new 13-week orders ahead of the Toner Institute, Brookline, in the race for the eight-tube $138.50 Atwater Kent, self-contained with electro-dynamic loud speaker attached.

Order blanks for this campaign may be secured from the Sun-Telegraph, any Stanley theater, Donahoe's, Haller Bakeries or United Laundries. In New Kensington, Cooper Brothers' musical stores and the theaters are sponsoring the campaign.

The Sun-Telegraph will supply the campaign needs of all schools and aid in the organization work.

Sir Roger Says

NEW YORK, May 6.

Sunshine and perquisites are mighty scarce in us Democrats' lives, but just lest you forget, this Owen D. Young is doing splendid work in Paris trying to divide one bone with half a dozen dogs, and not even having the bone to divide.

It has fallen to his lot to demonstrate to even the prize winners that war purses was greatly exaggerated, and to be on the loser's side is a downright discouragement.

Well, this Young is a Democrat, strange as it may seem, and I have been his Mark Sullivan since 1920.

I don't want to run him for President. I just want to keep him to "point with pride," while we are "viewing our others with alarm."

Yours, WILL.

and 10 years would be a very heavy strain. It would be especially long for the mistress of the White House. Mrs. Coolidge has been in more than usual good health, but I doubt if she could have stayed there for 10 years without some danger of impairment of her strength

'Self-Delusion'
Men in High Office Live In Artificial Atmosphere

A President should not only not be selfish, but he ought to avoid the appearance of selfishness. The people would not have confidence in a man that appeared to be grasping for office.

It is difficult for men in high office to avoid the malady of self-delusion. They are always surrounded by worshipers. They are constantly, and for the most part sincerely, assured of their greatness.

They live in an artificial atmosphere of adulation and exaltation which sooner or later impairs their judgment. They are in grave danger of becoming careless and arrogant.

The chances of having wise and faithful public service are increased by a change in the presidential office after a moderate length of time.

It is necessary for the head of the nation to differ with many people who are honest in their opinions. As his term progresses, the number who are disappointed accumulates. Finally, there is so large a body who have lost confidence in him that he meets a rising opposition which makes his efforts less effective.

In the higher ranges of public service men appear to come forward to perform a certain duty. When it is performed their work is done. They usually find it impossible to readjust themselves in the thought of the people so as to pass on successfully to the solution of new public problems.

'Back to People'
'I Came From Them, I Wish to Be One of Them'

An examination of the records of those Presidents who have served eight years will disclose that in almost every instance the latter part of their term has shown very little in the way of constructive accomplishment. They have often been clouded with grave disappointments.

While I had a desire to be relieved of the pretensions and delusions of public life, it was not because of any attraction of pleasure or idleness.

We draw our Presidents from the people. It is a wholesome thing for them to return to the people. I came from them. I wish to be one of them.

Although all our Presidents have had back of them a good heritage of blood, very few have been born to the purple. Fortunately, they are not supported at public expense after leaving office, so they are not expected to set an example encouraging to a leisure class.

They have only the same title to nobility that belongs to all our citizens, which is the one based on achievement and character, so they need not assume superiority. It is becoming for them to engage in some dignified employment where they can be of service as others are.

Our country does not believe in idleness. It honors hard work. I wanted to serve the country again as a private citizen.

2 Liquor Suspects Held After Fight

STEUBENVILLE, O., May 6.—Brent Richards, 33, arrested on a charge of shooting with intent to kill, and Charles Howerter, 32, charged with transporting liquor, late yesterday were arrested after they were said to have abandoned an automobile containing 100 gallons of whisky.

Police awaited the liquor car at a garage and when it appeared, Richards is alleged to have opened fire on the officers, starting a running gun battle which lasted through a dozen city blocks. Howerter was arrested at his home. Richards was caught in West Virginia.

Two Shot Over $7 Debt, Suspect Held

PHILADELPHIA, May 6.—(AP.)—Two men were shot and wounded on the street yesterday before the eyes of scores of persons going to church. Andrew Vogt, 35, said to have fired the shots, was arrested after police had battered down the door to hs room in which he was hiding.

The victims of the shooting were Thomas Dowdell, 28, with whom Vogt is said to have quarreled, and William Morton, a bystander, struck in the cheek by one of the bullets. Police said the shooting was over an alleged debt of $7 which Vogt claimed Dowdell owed him on a bet.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Ellen Page Names June 10 As Date for Marriage To S. F. Ringsdorf

ANTICIPATION may be the greater than fulfillment for some folks, but after several months of anticipation I venture to prophesy a lot of us will be delighted when we can participate in some of these fascinating social plans we've been hearing so much about.

The way the social seasons are arranged, a balance of anticipation and of participation is quite possible here in Pittsburgh; so our society folks do not have to choose between the two pleasures.

The nearer June is, the more attractive it is. Hardly a day passes that we don't hear of another wedding.

* * *

TODAY I can tell you about a particularly notable wedding being planned for the month of roses and of brides. Ellen Page, daughter of the Benjamin Pages, of Colonial place, has named Monday, June 10, as the date for her marriage to Samuel Durand Ringsdorf, son of the Charles Henry Ringsdorfs, of Wilkes-Barre.

The ceremony will take place at 5 o'clock in the afternoon in Trinity Cathedral.

And I've noticed that June has before been a memorable month in the lives of Ellen and her finance. Their engagement was made known last June.

* * *

ONE event that I thought might take place in June will not take place until fall, I've just learned. Dorothy Jarvis, daughter of the Frank W. Jarvises, of Sewickley, will not make her bow to the social world until autumn. She'll finish at Dobbs Ferry in June, did you know?

* * *

WHILE I'm on the topic of debutantes-to-be, I wonder if you've heard that Dr. and Mrs. Robert Milligan and their daughter, Peggy, who'll make her debut in the fall, will be back from Europe next Sunday?

* * *

ANOTHER June date set is the eighth of the month, when the marriage of Cynthia Cheney, daughter of Mrs. John Davenport Cheney, of South Manchester, Conn., and S. Winston Childs, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Starling W. Childs, of New York and Norfolk, Conn., formerly of Pittsburgh, will be solemnized in Manchester. Mr. Childs is a grandson of the late Charles A. Coffin and the late Mr. and Mrs. Albert H. Childs and is a nephew of Mrs. Winfield K. Shiras, of Ellsworth avenue. He was graduated from Yale in 1927.

* * *

* * *

ALREADY some folks are opening their summer homes. More folks will remain in the city late into June this year than ever before, though, because of our "little season."

Those who have summer homes in Sewickley already are planning to open them. Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Norton Van Voorhis, of Western avenue, North Side, are already at Red Gate Farm their summer home on Sewickley Heights.

* * *

MANY of our young folks are out-of-town these spring days to attend weddings. Among them is Margaret Wright Stewart, daughter of the William Lincoln Stewarts, of Aylesboro avenue, who was at the wedding of Alice Lee Beadleston, daughter of the Henry Colwell Beadlestons, and Fritz Philip Lindh, son of the Carl E. Lindhs, all of New York, which took place Friday afternoon in St. James' Church, New York. Margaret will spend 10 days in New York before returning home.

MRS. VERNON ROSS BROWN, of Austin, Tex., formerly Miss Florence Dibert Bates, is the guest of her mother, Mrs. W. J. Bates, of De Victor place.

AT a bridge tea given Saturday in her home, Miss Ruth Jennings Hunter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Hunter, of Savannah avenue, Wilkinsburg, announced that she has chosen Thursday, July 18, as the date for her marriage to Robert Irvine Swisshelm, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Swisshelm, of Penn avenue, Wilkinsburg. Miss Hilda A. Hanson, of Wilkinsburg, will be maid of honor and Harry M. Swisshelm is to be his brother's best man. Miss Hunter will be graduated from the Pennsylvania College for Women in June. Mr. Swisshelm is a graduate of Pennsylvania State College, class of 1927.

* * *

MR. AND MRS. JAMES J. WELSH, of Richardson avenue, North Side, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Dorothy Rose Welsh, to Leverne J. King, of the East End, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. King, of New Kensington.

* * *

ABOUT 60 alumnae of Dilworth Hall were entertained with a bridge luncheon this afternoon in the Morrowfield Hotel. Miss Cora Helen Coolidge, president of the Pennsylvania College for Women, and Miss Janet L. Brownlee, former principal of Dilworth Hall, were guests of honor.

* * *

MRS. ROBERT W. WRIGHT, of Harriet street, announces the engagement of her daughter, Miss Jean Charles Wright, to James Edward McLean, son of Mr. and Mrs. James P. McLean, of Crafton. Both Miss Wrght and Mr. McLean are graduates of the University of Pittsburgh. A fall wedding is planned.

* * *

MISS BESSIE D. KANN, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Kann, of Beacon street, has chosen Tuesday, May 14, as the date for her marriage to Sidney P. Heymann, son of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Heymann, of Bartlett street. The ceremony will be performed that night at 6 o'clock in the Kann home by the Rev. Dr. Samuel H. Goldenson.

Club to Present Own Chauve Souris

ON the bulletin of the College Club for May 1 reads, "Friday, May 10, 3 o'clock—'Chauve Souris' under the direction of the famous impresario, Nikita-Lee-Balieff and with a most extraordinary troupe of super artists. A colorful, poetic, terpsichorean, musical production—without apologies." All of which means that the College Club is to have another original program, called for the sake of convenience, "Chauve Souris." Mrs. Edward B. Lee is "the famous impresario" who will link up the acts after the plan of her somewhat more famous predecessor, whose name she is adopting for the day. The entertainment will start off with a monologue in Negro dialect by Mrs. Ray Quick, then Mrs. J. E. Webster is to do a take-off of "Hiawatha;" there will be a Russian dance and the grand finale is the burlesque on grand opera which Dr. Sigmund Spaeth has written and which Mrs. Lee, as "the professor," Mrs. James H. Green, Mrs. B. O. Austin, Mrs. Harvey Fouse, Mrs. Richard Allen and Mrs. Henry E. Cole will give.

Hostesses for the tea hour include Mrs. J. Willard Anderson, Mrs. Henry Brown, Mrs. Herbert L. Stitt, Mrs. James Cassidy, Mrs. John D. Duff and Mrs. H. Lee Briney.

BIBLE INSURES U. S. IDEALS HOOVER TELLS CONVENTION

BALTIMORE, Md., May 6.—(AP.)—Preservation of national ideals and representative institutions rests in adhering to the principles found in the Bible, President Hoover yesterday told the closing session of the National Federation of Men's Bible classes in convention here. The message was delivered by Representative Walter H. Newton, of Minnesota, appointed a secretary by Mr. Hoover to appear at the convention.

The Rev. S. S. Lappin, of Cincinnati, and Morgan Blake, Atlanta newspaperman, were other speakerr at the second and closing day of the convention.

The text of President Hoover's message follows:

"There is no other book so various as the Bible, nor one so full of concentrated wisdom. Whether it be of the law, business, morals or that vision which leads the imagination in the creation of constructive enterprises for the happiness of mankind, he who seeks for guidance in any of these things may look inside its covers and find illumination. The study of this book in your Bible classes is a post-graduate course in the richest library of human experience.

"As a nation we are indebted to the book of books for our national ideals and representative institutions. Their preservation rests in adhering to its principles."

NEW TERMINAL PLAN OFFERED CITY BY P.R.R.

E. T. Whiter, vice president of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, today forwarded to City Council a tentative agreement whereby the company would build a new passenger and express station at or near Thirteenth street, to cost millions of dollars, and donate land to the city for widening adjacent streets, provided the city pays for the construction of the new thoroughfares.

The agreement provides that the city shall begin the street widening work within a year after the company gives title to the necessary land and that the railroad company shall begin the construction of the new passenger and express station as soon as practicable after the streets have been vacated. The company's construction period was estimated at five years.

New phases of the plan, aside from those initiated some time ago by Council on a resolution by President James F. Malone, include a donation by the company of 116 feet of land on the west side of Eleventh street, adjoining the Fort Pitt Hotel, for widening that thoroughfare between Penn and Liberty avenues. A similar parcel of land would be donated by the company on the opposite side of Eleventh street.

The purpose of those two donations would be to allow the city to make a direct connection between Grant and Eleventh streets. A proposed traffic oval would occupy a large part of the donated land.

'DOG WITH OUT A KENNEL' IS MIKE, THE TRAVELER

"A dog without a kennel" is the most appropriate title for Mike. Today it is under Pittsburgh skies that Mike calls home, next week he'll stretch with the customary yawn of a dog and make his home somewhere else.

Mike is a rare dog, whose value is placed at the $1,000 mark. Mike is the property of Mrs. Zoe Deniston, of Laporte, Pa., and Atlanta, who is a guest at the Fort Pitt Hotel this week. His value is due to his rare breed, that of an Irish wolf hound. Six years old now, Mike started his travels at the early age of five months, when Mrs. Deniston got him from a kennel. The summer months find him traveling through the North while the winter is spent through the South, but seldom for very long at his home kennel in Atlanta.

Through five and one-half years Mike has journeyed through every state by auto and usually riding on the running board of the machine. Only in the states where the law prohibits this mode of travel for a dog does Mike relinquish this post.

He has the same enthusiasm as a summer tourist upon reaching and leaving each town. For instance, when it is time to move to the next town, Mike rises early and jumps about like a frisky colt until his mistress is ready to turn over the motor and start the trip. Then it's the running board for Mike.

The only time this dog can be left alone by Mrs. Deniston is when she leaves him amidst her belongings. Without her grips or clothes handy, Mike starts pining and no food appeals to him.

DOPE TRAFFIC GROWTH TOLD BY OFFICIALS

WASHINGTON, May 6.—This is the present state of narcotics enforcement throughout the United States, as revealed in official expressions of the officers administering the law:

"The illicit traffic in narcotic durgs smuggled into the United States seems not to have abated in any degree."—James M. Doran, prohibition commissioner.

"It is no secret that narcotic drugs smuggled into the United sidious methods employed by addicts and their friends on the outside find their way to relatives and others incarcerated in Federal and state penal institutions."—Col. L. G. Nu.., chief of the Federal narcotic unit.

"On April 1, 32 per cent of the total (prison) population, were there for violation of the narcotic laws, and 67 per cent of these narcotic violators are addicts."—Capt. A. H. Conner, former superintendent of Federal prisons.

MORE AGENTS NEEDED

"To keep the tremendous quantity of smuggled stuff from coming into this country today I think it would require at least 300 additional agents."—Nutt. (The narcotic unit today has but one agent for each 600,000 of population).

Those addicts who are not criminals are potential criminals. It means if they can't get it (dope), they go out and commit some crime in order to get their dope."—Nutt.

"Smuggling or prepared opium from oriental ports into this country continues to present a serious problem."—Treasury Department report.

"We estimate that 95 to 98 per cent of the narcotic drugs sold or dispensed illicitly to the drug addicts of this country come in through the port of New York."—Nutt.

HEROIN PLENTIFUL

"It (heroin or cocaine) is now being sold in New York City as low as $12 an ounce. It is getting more plentiful."—Nutt.

"The personal consumption of drugs ostensibly purchased for bonafide medical use by physicians addicted to the use of such drugs without medical need therefor, continues to furnish somewhat of a problem for enforcement officers."—Treasury report.

"There are quite a number of syndicates smuggling the drug or bringing the drugs into this country."—Nutt.

"To stop the illicit influx of narcotic drugs at ports and borders is admittedly difficult, if not impossible, with the present facilities available for the purpose."—Doran.

"The Chinese handle the smoking article for the smoking of opium. But there are many so-called good people 'hitting the pipe' these days."—Nutt.

Myrna Loy Tells How To Have Lovely Skin

HOLLYWOOD, Calif.—Thirty-nine movie directors say that a girl must have exquisite skin if she is to touch the heart. As Howard Bretherton, director for Warner Brothers, forcefully expresses it: "The most appealing charm of all is a lovely smooth skin. And the perfection we call 'studio skin' is the outstanding factor in screen success today."

Myrna Loy, Warner Brothers' beautiful star, finds Lux Toilet Soap splendid for the smooth skin a screen star must have. "This white, daintily fragrant soap leaves my skin so beautifully smooth!" she says.

Nine out of every ten screen stars are enthusiastic about Lux Toilet Soap. And all the great film studios, following their stars' example, have made it the official soap for dressing rooms.

U. P. SEMINARY CLASS HEARS BACCALAUREATE

Pointing out three prerequisites for the type of minstry needed today, the Rev. Robert N. Montgomery, professor of Old Testament literature and exegesis at the Pittsburgh Theological Seminary, delivered the baccalaureate sermon to the members of the graduating class of that institution last night in the Brookline United Presbyterian Church, Brookline boulevard.

"In the first place," declared Mr. Montgomery, "the type of ministry needed today is one who can stand erect and face the world. The second requisite is a clear vision of God and the third prerequisite is a serving and a witnessing ministry."

The baccalaureate sermon was the second event of commencement week, the first, a communion service for the graduating class and the faculty, having been held yesterday afternoon in Pressly Chapel at the seminary building in North avenue, North Side.

Nineteen seniors will be graduated and degress will be conferred upon three ministers for post-graduate work at the one hundred and fourth annual commencement exercises at 7:45 o'clock Thursday night in the First United Presbyterian Church, Union avenue, North Side. The Rev. Dr. George L. Robinson, of the Presbyterian Seminary, Chicago, will deliver the commencement address, and the Rev. Dr. John McNaugher, seminary president, will give the valedictory address and present diplomas to the graduates and degrees to the post-graduates.

HEIDELBERG YANKEES OF SOCCER

BESIDES helping to make history by being one of the contesting teams yesterday in the first National League baseball game ever played in Boston on Sunday, the Pirates did several other unusual things. For one thing they won a ball game, demonstrated once more that Burleigh Grimes, back in action after a short stay on the hospital list, and who has pitched three of the locals' five victories, is about the only hurler behind whom they can win consistently. For another thing they tripped up an old jinx in the person of Pitcher Bob Smith, who downed them three straight times in his last three games against them in 1928, and for a third time they broke the Braves' winning streak of five in a row and gave them what was only their third defeat of the season.

Burleigh Grimes.

And in addition, the Buccaneers did something else that calls for mention. The fact that they were able to hold a lead gained early in the game was quite as unusual as the 7-to-2 victory itself. Getting big leads in the early rounds and then kicking them away has been the specialty of the Pittsburgh club this season. The Bucs have lost more games in which they were riding out in front than any other two major league clubs combined.

DO YOU know how many of the Pirates' seven defeats this spring were suffered through letting opponents come from behind? No fewer than six. And a tie might be added. They lost one to Cincinnati, three to Chicago, one to St. Louis and one to Boston, after holding leads varying from one run at the end of the first inning to three runs at the end of the sixth inning.

And that isn't all of it. They barely nosed out the Cubs, 4 to 3 on opening day after holding a four-run lead, they narrowly escaped defeat in Cincinnati, winning by only 5 to 4, in the Forbes Field lid-lifter after getting off to a four-run jump on the enemy, and they got only a tie in 13 innings at St. Louis after leading the way. It is to be hoped that yesterday's change of form will prove lasting.

HARRY ROBB, one of Pittsburgh's star football products, who was a Penn State luminary from 1915 to 1919; a Canton Bulldog from 1921 to 1927, and a gridiron official last year, writes as follows to the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph:

"It is immaterial whether Elmer Layden or Walter Okeson receives credit for inaugurating a system of football signals to acquaint the spectators with the nature of offenses for which penalties are imposed. The essential point is that some system be adopted that will aid the spectators in keeping in closer touch with the game."

Harry Robb.

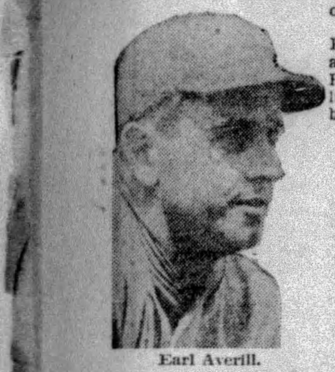
THE signal system which was first suggested in Pittsburgh eight years ago but rejected by the Pitt management at the time, and not given a tryout until Layden and the Dukes tried it last season, appears to be spreading. Robb makes it known that the Eastern Ohio Officials' Association also has adopted the idea and has completed a code of its own for the purpose of making known to spectators the nature of fouls called. The scoring signals in this code are: Touchdown or goal from field, arms extended vertically above head by official; safety, one hand, with two fingers extended, raised above head, and touchback, arms crossed above head."

ADDED to those signals are the following fouls called on the field: "Ball dead, one hand above head; off-side, arm extended in direction of opposing team; incomplete forward pass, arms extended, moving sidewise; striking, kneeing, kicking, tripping, piling up or roughing kicker, shaking of fists."

The remainder of the code is made up as follows: "Illegally in motion, arms extended before body, hands alternating vertically; holding, grasping wrist; interference, pushing with hands; fouls by both teams, finger tips touching above head with arms forming a zero, and declining penalty, a military salute."

RECRUIT players in the major baseball leagues this spring have brought a lot of new speed into the big show. Harry Salsinger, Detroit critic, marvels at the number of such rookies appearing in the American League alone, and insists that the crop includes some of the fastest men who ever sank their spikes into the base paths of that circuit.

Cleveland has one of the speediest in Earl Averill, from the Coast League, and another in Dick Porter, from Baltimore. Roy Johnson, Detroit's coast recruit, also is listed among the fleet-footed athletes just breaking in.



Earl Averill.

THE three new players named are said to rival Johnny Rothrock, of the Red Sox, Earl Combs, of the Yankees, Carl Reynolds, of the White Sox, and Sam West, of the Senators, who were rated the fastest players in the American League prior to the coming of Averill, Porter and Johnson. The consensus of opinion around the Barnard wheel is that Rothrock is the speediest man in the league. The Red Sox outfielder once engaged in a 100-yard dash with Charley Paddock, one of the holders of the world record of 9.3-5 seconds, and for whom a mark of 9.5 seconds was claimed several years ago. Rothrock was given a five-yard handicap over Paddock and the race ended in a tie.

THE Pirate batting streaks were interrupted by Pitcher Harry Seibold in the opening game of the Bucs' series in Boston Saturday. Both Lloyd Waner and Dick Bartell went hitless. It was the first time this season that the younger Waner went through a game without getting a hit. Previously he had batted safely in 11 consecutive contests, while Bartell had eight in a row to his credit.

Saturday's victory was the second in succession pitched for the Braves by Harry Seibold. His first win was scored over the Giants. Seibold and Percy Jones, two of the pitchers obtained in the Hornsby deal, have accounted for three of Boston's victories so far. Seibold, like Bob Smith, who faced the Bucs yesterday, is a reformed infielder. Far from being a youngster, he has passed the thirty-third milestone. There are only three older men on the Boston team unless Hank Gowdy is counted as a player, those three being George Harper and Rabbit Maranville, 36, and George Sisler, 35.

ANOTHER outstanding addition to the long list of notable sport achievements already credited to the Pittsburgh district was made yesterday, when the Heidelberg eleven won the National amateur soccer championship by defeating the German Club, of Newark, N. J., on the latter's own grounds at Irvington by the overwhelming score of 9 to 0.

The national title never was won in more decisive fashion, and too much cannot be said in praise of Manager Balsarini s'boys, whose LEWISBURG, W. Va., May 6.—Scoring in all but two innings Greenbriar Military School easily defeated Hargrave Military Academy, 12 to 0, here Saturday. Carney, Cadet twirler, fanned 10 men and allowed only one hit.

Only three balls were hit out of Greenbriar infield. Greenbriar worked the hit-and-run play to score from second base three times. Atwills' double was the only extra base hit of the game. Halligan played a fine game at first base for Hargrave.

TRIPLE PLAY MARKS BUCS' 7-2 WIN

By CHARLES J. DOYLE,
Staff Correspondent.

BOSTON, May 6.—Steve Swetonic will take a shot at those surprising Braves today and if Steve's mates do as well by him as they did by Burleigh Grimes yesterday, the nifty North Sider will have a fine chance to weigh in with a victory. No flag claims will be made for the Pirates here just because the Pittsburghers won a game, yet it is timely to state that the morale of the club seems to be picking up a bit. The Buccos showed a real punch yesterday as they trimmed the Tribe, 7 to 2, the setback being only the third the Braves have sustained this year.

Steve Swetonic.

The cultured boys of Boston are fighting and no mistake, but the Bushwhackers traded punches with them in the second game, the decision going to the Pittsburghers in the presence of 30,000 Boston supporters. More than 28,000 was given out as the official attendance, and it's sure that there were enough politicians in the audience to put the total quite a bit over 30,000.

The first Sunday game of the National League in Boston was one to be remembered.

BUCS IN TRIPLE PLAY

Among the many features was a triple play, although the thrill of this was not of a pleasant nature so far as the multitude was concerned. The Pirates engineered the rare maneuver in the fourth inning, Mueller, Spohrer and Maranville being the victims.

Inasmuch as the three-way killing had a swaying effect on the ultimate result, it would be well to explain the number here. The Tribe was trailing by two tallies when Heinie Mueller singled at the outset of the frame. Up came Rabbit to paste a hot single to right, the drive being just right to send Mueller to third.

Spohrer smacked a hot one to Grimes, who rushed toward Mueller as Heinie headed for the plate. When Heinie saw the jig was up, he turned back and Grimes threw to Traynor. Pie tossed to Hargreaves and the catcher shot the ball back to Pie, who touched out Mueller. Rabbit meantime, had his head up and there was no chance to prevent his arrival at third, but Traynor slammed the rocket to Bartell, who touched out Spohrer. Maranville didn't hesitate as he saw the ball thrown to second; putting on full steam ahead, Rab was ready to slide as Bartell's fine return to Hargreaves landed in the catcher's glove. There was a big mixup at the plate, but Umpire McCormick finally decided in favor of the Pirates, so Maranville was out and the first triple play of the season in the National League was completed.

BUCS BUCK UP

This turn of events appeared to take a little of the zip out of the sails of the Braves. It did this, or else it gave added confidence to Grimes and the Pirates, the six remaining rounds bringing no tallies to the Tribe. The Bucs, on the other hand, pecked away at Bob Smith and there wasn't any score at the finish.

A nemesis to Pittsburgh success in many battles between the clubs at the Wigwam, Smith must have shivered in the first round when Dick Bartell and the Waner boys nicked him for a single and two triples in quick succession. The inning produced three tallies before Maranville started a double play to end the run-making.

Rabbit was a star of the game with a couple of thrillers, one of which saw the shortfield marvel in a truly wonderful play. Rab's assist on Hargreaves in the second put the vast multitude in an uproar. Grimes was nicked for a lot of line drives and hard bounders, but he was given some rare support in clinches, the play of Bartell standing out. Dick featured on the defense and he was a topliner in the punch of the Buccos.

RICONDA STILL IN

Harry Riconda continued at short and, while he made two misplays, he played a whale of a game in other departments. He had a lot of tough chances to handle and he made two hits. Manager Bush will not bother his lineup for the present.

Umek Wins, Cuts Into Salo's Pyle Derby Lead

OKMULGEE, Okla., May 6.—(AP.)—Giusto Umek, of Trieste, Italy, captured his third successive lap in C. C. Pyle's cross-country derby yesterday when he led the pack into Okmulgee, Okla., running the 44 miles in 5:40:50.

Umek sliced a full hour from the margin of Johnny Salo, Passaic, N. J., policeman who is second in elapsed time, but still is almost 12 hours behind the flying cop.

Salo and Pete Gavuzzi, of England, leader in elapsed time, came in together to tie for third place in 6:40:50, and Paul Simpson, of Burlington, N. C., was second in 6:27:30. Phillip Granville, of Hamilton, Ont., was fifth; Sam Richman, of New York, sixth, and Harry Abramowitz, of New York, and Elmer Cominciola, of Clifton, N. J., tied for seventh.

RABBIT MAKES SUPERB PLAY

By Staff Correspondent

BOSTON, May 6.—Among the hundreds of spectacular plays credited to Rabbit Maranville in his 15 years of major league play, the assist he achieved on Charley Hargreaves in the second inning of yesterday's game deserves a place near the top.

Maranville's whirlwind effort that ended successfully could hardly have been encompassed on a swift runner; for the Rabbit, after his sensational one-hand stop, had to take several steps to keep from falling on his face. Hargreaves spanked a peppery bounder back past Bob Smith. Maranville sprinted back behind second, and just when it seemed as if the rocket was past him, he reached just far enough to let the ball crash into the pocket of his glove. The forceful impact all but threw the little fellow on his face, but Rab is nothing if not sure-footed.

The assemblage seemed breathless until Rabbit finally was able to turn his body far enough to permit a throw, and he made a perfect shot into Sisler's glove to complete the play. The vast throng, realizing the remarkable merit of the play, let loose with a salvo for the veteran. He was cheered to the echo on three different occasions for the number—at the time, when he went to the Braves' dugout after the inning was over, and when he came to the plate.

Lance Richbourg, star outfielder of the Braves, and Ben Cantwell, youthful righthand pitcher, sat in the press box, both suffering from early-season injuries. The two were astonished by the play Rabbit turned in on Hargreaves, and later they were all excited over a putout made by Rabbit and Fred Maguire. With a runner on first and second and two out, Maranville knocked down Traynor's smash and slid along the ground in pursuit after the ball. He scooped it up while on the ground and made a quick pass to Maguire, who reached out and took the flip in his bare hand, stopping L. Waner by a flash.

CITY LOOP LID TO BE LIFTED THIS EVENING

The lid will pop off in the City League, the big league of the local sandlot realm, this evening when Liberty Dairy, last year's pennant winner, and the J. L. Thomas club clash on the latter's grounds, Dean Field, and the Book-Shoe meets Reliance Life on the latter's diamond.

The City League is made up of eight first-class clubs and enters its third season in better shape than any other circuit in the district. It has usurped the place formerly held by the County League, which, due to many defections from its ranks, has had to take in outside teams to form the new Inter-County circuit.

Another established league also pries off the lid this evening. It is the Crafton-Ingram Church loop, which will be operating for the tenth season. St. Philip's and Crafton Presbyterian will meet in the inaugural battle. State Senator Frank Harris, Congressman Guy E. Campbell and Honus Wagner will take part in the opening festivities.

The Pittsburgh Central League also swings into action this evening, with the W. O. W. club meeting the Roosevelt Club on the latter's grounds. Five games are listed in the Allegheny Valley League.

Five big games are carded in the Allegheny Valley League, this evening. Walker will take a trip to Glassmere, Stewart Trucks meets East Vandergrift, Freeport shows at Tarentum, New Kensington K. of C. stages a local battle with Arnold and West Leechburg meets Parnassus. President Jimmy Smith has arranged to pry the lid off the up-river loop with a bang. Local men prominent in the Allegheny Valley section will help along the opening-day ceremonies.

Beltzhoover plays at Homewood and Natrona at Dormont in the opening games of the Inter-County League tomorrow night, and the week contains a full list of battles in all of the circuits, marking the official ushering in of the local sandlot campaign.

SOCCER TRUCE IMMINENT

The return to organized soccer of the American Professional Soccer League developed in New York on Sunday evening, when representatives of the league met the National Commission of the United States Football Association to try and patch up the differences between the two bodies, and which differences were responsible for the outlawing of the big professional league by the governing body.

Armstrong Patterson, of Detroit, president of the United States Football Association, Secretary Thomas and Col. Randolph Manning, chairman of foreign relations, were at the meeting representing the governing body, while Sam Marks, owner of the Fall River club, and Ernest Viborg, of the New York Nationals, did the talking for the insurgents.

HARPSTER SIGNS AS SHADY SIDE GRID COACH

Howard Harpster, Carnegie Tech's all-America quarterback of 1928 and a gridiron luminary during his four years at the Tartan institution, has signed a two-year contract as head coach of football at Shady Side Academy. Capt. W. A. Palmer, director of athletics at Shady Side, made this announcement.

Howard Harpster.

Bill Davis, former Michigan gridder, who has been in charge of football at Shady Side for the past two years, will remain as line coach and first assistant to Harpster.

According to Capt. Palmer, Harpster will devote his entire time to coaching the Shady Side football team and will not be connected with any other sport at the institution. The schedule for next year will be a heavy one, according to the director, and will test Harpster's coaching ability no little his first year out.

"I consider Harpster not only a great mechanical player," Capt. Palmer said in making the announcement, "but regard him as one of the brainiest players in the history of the game. I am certain that in securing Harpster as head coach, Shady Side has made a move that will place it on a football par with other preparatory schools in the country."

Harpster starred at Carnegie Tech both as a varsity and freshman player. He directed the play of the Tech machines for three seasons. In 1927, he twice drop-kicked field goals against Notre Dame as the Plaid walloped the Irish, 19-0, in one of the greatest upsets of the season. Last year, his final one, Harpster led the powerful Tech varsity against Wash-Jeff, Pitt, Georgetown, Notre Dame and New York University, meeting with but one defeat. He captained the Tartans in 1928.

Harpster has one more year in school, being enrolled in the five-yea rarchitectural course. He will complete his course in the spring of 1930.

Heidelberg Team To Be Honored Tonight

Manager E. J. Balsarini and members of the Heidelberg F. C. soccer team which yesterday captured its second national amateur championship by defeating the Newark Germans, 9 to 0, will be honored tonight at Guckart Hall, Heidelberg, beginning at 7:30 o'clock when supporters of the team gather to pay tribute to the gallant victors. Speeches by prominent Heidelberg citizens will make up part of the program.

THREE YANKEES AMONG BRITISH OPEN LEADERS

GULLANE, Scotland, May 6.—(AP.)—With most of the big international field accounted for, three of the first four places were occupied by Americans in the first qualifying round of the British open golf championship today. An unheralded British pro, Fred Jewell, set the pace with 72. Bobby Cruickshank and George Von Elm, each with 73, and Leo Diegel, with 74, were next.

Abe Mitchell, long-driving British star, who was erroneously reported to have scored a 65, actually carried 75. This put him in a tie with Walter Hagen and such British players as Archie Compton, Aubrey Boomer and Cyril Tolley, the former British amateur champion.

RAIN BOOSTS SCORES

Scores were sent skyrocketing by bad weather conditions, especially in the afternoon, but with the exception of Ed Dudley, who scored an 85, all the American contingent appeared safely in the fold.

Even the enthusiastic Scotch galleries which braved the bursts of rain in the morning were driven from the fairways in the heavy downpour and the world's great golfing figures played dismal, uncomfortable rounds before small groups.

LOCALS WHIP NEWARK, 9-0, FOR CROWN

By TOM BIRKS,
Staff Correspondent.

NEWARK, May 6.—Flashing one of the greatest amateur goal-scoring machines ever seen in the Eastern states, the Heidelberg Soccer Club, of Pittsburgh, won its second National amateur championship of the United States by defeating the Newark German Soccer Club by the overwhelming score of 9 goals to 0, in a driving rain storm here yesterday.

Eastern soccer fans certainly got an eyeful of America's greatest amateur club in action, when the Green and Gold Tornado bewildered the German Club players, by twisting, weaving and out-gaming a soccer machine primed to cop the National trophy. It was another game where the goal-shooting ability of the Donnelli brothers forced itself to the fore. Advance publicity marked both men, but the local defense could do absolutely nothing with the Duquesne University football captain and his brother.

Buff scored four goals, Fred connected with three, Johnny McCoskey, and Chappel added the other two.

4,000 ATTEND

When the game started it was estimated 4,000 fans were in the stands. The elite of America's soccer officialdom attended, including National President Armstrong Patterson, of Detroit; Secretary Tom Cahill, John McEwan, of Cleveland, and Peter Gilgane, president of the United States Referees' Union.

As the teams took the field, a driving rainstorm broke and with Newark's city big wigs watching, Capt. Langer, of the German Club presented Capt. Bill O'Donnell with a floral bouquet. The Pittsburgh supporters, numbering 300, had come on a special excursion and certainly made a lot of noise in voicing their approval.

Rain was driving across the field and neither team was benefited by the elements. Heidelberg lost the toss and Newark started an offensive that worried the Pittsburgh contingent. Gerald Fagan and Dante Viliani had a tough five minutes, and, rallying under the leadership of O'Donnell, Heidelberg began to get the upper hand, but only after the Pittsburgh goal had suffered a couple of escapes.

Gradually the Green and Gold team hit its stride and within 12 minutes Heidelberg had scored amidst tremendous enthusiasm. Chappell did the work, and Buff Donnelli taking the ball close in, nearly tore the back out of the net. That was the end of the game so far as Newark's chance of winning was concerned.

LEAD 4-0 AT HALF

The Green and Gold was surely a Tornado, and four minute later Buff again tallied after McCoskey had tied up the local defense. Two minutes later, Fred Donnelli forced a corner and McCoskey scored. Chappell, with a wonderful cross, then hit the inside of the uprights and Buff walked the ball past the goal line.

The score at half time was 4 to 0, Heidelberg.

The interval marked the visit to the Heidelberg dressing room of many former Pittsburghers, including Jim O'Connor, of Braddock, now with Lloyds shipping firm. Frank Striener, of Chicago, owner of the Chicago Sparta Professional Club, was looking over the boys and at the interval came to talk regarding the championship meeting Sparta in Chicago soon.

The second half found the German supporters pleading with their favorites to reduce the score, but Heidelberg's defense held a vise-like grip on the Black and White forwards and they were helpless. This line has smashed every defense it has met this season, and the Jersey fans could not understand its showing.

NEWARK OUTCLASSED

Again the Heidelberg offensive line demonstrated its ability to get goals. Chappell scored within two minutes of the kick-off in the second period. Then Fred Donnelli tied up the defense and scored single-handed. Brother Buff added one, and Fred scored twice before the close of the contest.

Heidelberg, with its wonderful machine, had vindicated the Eastern theory that it was over-rated. Newark never had a chance, and the Pittsburghers toyed with them in the second half. Newark has a good club, but its scientific style means nothing to a club playing American soccer football, with only one ambition, to get goals.

The Newark fans gave each player a great ovation just before the referee blew his final whistle. Ferris, one of the linesmen, and a former Scottish international, stated he never before had seen a club play this goal-scoring game, and that it would score heavily in future International games.

C. 4-A event at Pennsylvania the last of this month.

Victor Pickard.

The Pittsburgh district was fortunate in getting the name of one of its own inscribed on the tablet of "best performances" for the major relay meetings of the spring. Thirteen colleges and universities shared honors, with Middle Western and Southern carnivals enjoying a slight edge over the East's major affairs, the Penn relays, in the matter of winning records. Drake, Texas and Ohio State each hung up five marks, Penn taking four.

PICKARD VAULT CHAMP

Vic Pickard, Pitt's captain and Canadian Olympic pole vault star was the only tri-state district athlete to record a best effort, and one of the four Easterners to finish as a champion. Pickard vaulted 13 feet, 7⅛ inches at Ohio State Saturday for the best vault of the spring.

Ohio State and Illinois were the individual schools able to engrave their names on the honor roll the most times. Both hung up three championship efforts, with the Buckeyes setting two world records. The third world mark went to West Point, Jark's discus heave at Drake bringing the soldiers this honor.

Ohio, with the flying Simpson setting a dashing example for the remainder of the squad, carried off honors in the 100-yard dash, the 880-yard university relay and in the spectacular 480-yard shuttle hurdle relay.

ILLINI COP THREE

Illinois swept into the money in the 440-yard university relay, the four-mile relay and in the distance medley relay event.

Chicago took two firsts, the Maroon mile relay quarter approaching world record time for the distance at Texas by stepping off a mile in 3:18 3-10. In the two-mile event, at the Penn Relays, Chicago's runners again came to the front, being clocked in 7:50. Chicago's two-mile team won the event at no less than three meets, finishing first at Penn, Ohio State and Texas.

Kansas Teachers' College also recorded a pair of best marks. The 880-yard relay quartet was clocked at 1:29 7-10 at Drake for the best mark in this event in the college division, and Bevan got off the longest javelin throw of the spring season at Texas, hurling the spear 206 feet, 11 inches.

The Oklahoma Baptists led the college class mile relay teams, their time of 3:21 4-10, made at Drake, standing up all season. Hasting College of Nebraska had a sprint medley team at Drake that was clocked in 3:34 2-10, another best mark.

SIMPSON ACE SPRINTER

Among the individual champions, Simpson, of Ohio State, proved himself to be the best sprinter of the year, capping a great campaign by breaking the world record for the second time at the Ohio State relays Saturday. His time was 0:09 5-10. Simpson comes close to being the outstanding sprinter of the decade.

Buckeyes, Hosts At Relays, Lead Point Scorers

Ohio State's varsity track and field team led Illinois by four points in the tabulation of unofficial points at the Ohio State Relays Saturday. The host school garnered 46 points to 42 for Illinois. Michigan State and Chicago were tied for third with 23 points each, and Pitt, fifth, with 21. The complete scoring record follows:

Ohio State	46	—West Virginia	6
Illinois	42	—Wooster	6
Mich. State	23	—Haverford	5
Chicago	23	—Albion	5
Pitt	21	—Purdue	5
Miami	19½	—St. Xavier	4
Notre Dame	19	—Eastham	4
O. Wesleyan	16	—Lincoln	3
DePauw	16	—Louisville U.	2½
Indiana	15	—Ohio University	2
Nor'western	13	—Simpson	2
Butler	10	—Duquesne	2
West. Teach.	9½	—Bethany	2
Det. City. Col.	8½	—Ohio Northern	1
Cornell Univ.	6

Lamson, of Nebraska, ran the fastest 120-yard high hurdle race then he covered the distance in 0:14 8-10 at Texas. Hedges, of Princeton, high jumped six feet, one inch at Penn to take away honors in this event. Black, of Maine, led the hammer throwers with a heave of 168 feet, ½ inch. Gwinn, of Pitt, was second.

Pickard's vault at Ohio State on Saturday not only restored to the Panther ace the relay title, but won for him the distinction of having cleared the best height of the outdoor season.

Portmess, of Northwestern, broad jumped 23 feet, 7¾ inches at Columbus last Saturday for the best relay mark of the spring, but Utterback, of Pitt, cleared 24 feet in a dual meet with Ohio State. Bevan, Kansas Teachers, holds the javelin mark. Behr, whose name sounds like something you say in cold weather, put the shot further than most of us would wish to carry it, at Texas, a distance of 48 feet, 5 inches. Jark, of the Army, flipped the discus 158 feet, 3 inches at Drake for a new collegiate record and the best effort for 1929—so far. Wait till some of those babies on the coast start hitting.

LOCAL MARKS IMPROVED

Pickard and Len Friedman, Geneva, improved upon their own handiwork in the pole vault and javelin throw to set new tri-state intercollegiate marks Saturday. Pickard's 13-foot, 7½-inch vault at Ohio State bettered his former record of 13 feet, 2 inches, made in college competition. Friedman turned in a heave of 193 feet, 3 inches in the javelin at Beaver Falls in a dual meet with Geneva. His former mark was 189 feet, 8 inches.

The fine showing made in the running events by Westminster in the dual meet with Grove City Saturday will cause other Tri-State Conference teams, especially Geneva, to sit up and take notice.

Hemer, Titan sprinter, carried off both the century and furlong races, and Brownlee, another Titan, turned in fine time in the hurdles. He ran the 120-yard high hurdles in 16 3-5 seconds, just two-fifths of a second slower than Lathon, Geneva ace, turned in in the Geneva-Tech meeting.

CONFERENCE TEAMS STRONG

This year's conference meet will be less of a cut and dried affair than it has been in the past, even though the Covenanters will be favored to retain their title. The century, with Snellenback, of Duquesne; Morris, of Bethany; Hemer, of Westminster, and Smith, of Geneva, entered, will be a race worth seeing.

Penn State, in swamping Bucknell at State College, 116 to 15, failed to give any convincing display of strength in any events save the distance run and did not raise the hopes of its followers to any appreciable extent for the Pitt meet here Saturday.

The Lions do have the milers and two-milers however, and with the veteran Bill Cox, Detwiler and Offenhauser, will be certain of at least two firsts and as many seconds against the Panthers in these events.

PITT PLAYS TECH

Wednesday, Tech and Wash.-Jeff. clash. Thursday, the Dukes go into action against Waynesburg. And Saturday, Carnegie battles its Alumni and the Bluffites take on West Virginia Wesleyan.

CARDS, YANKS, A'S, TIGERS, ROBINS WIN

International News Service.

NEW YORK, May 6.—No major pitcher has delivered a no-hit game since Ted Lyons, of the Chicago White Sox, blanked the Red Sox on August 21, 1926, but two big league hurlers, a veteran and a rookie, made gallant attempts to turn the trick yesterday. Rube Walberg, elongated southpaw of the Athletics, held the St. Louis Browns to one hit, a single, and Ad Liska, rookie submarine pitcher who came to Washington from the American Association, limited Cleveland to two hits.

Walberg won his game, 2 to 0, snapping Sam Gray's winning streak of four games and enabling the Mackmen to shove the Browns out of first place; but Liska lost. Falk's single and errors by Myers and Cronin gave the Indians a 1-to-0 verdict over the Senators. Miller hurled for Cleveland.

VANCE PUZZLES REDS

Another neat bit of twirling was contributed by Dazzy Vance, of Brooklyn. The strike-out king held Cincinnati to four hits, winning, 4 to 1. Glenn Wright, in his first complete league game as a Robin, walloped a homer and a single, but did not have a chance to make a single play in the field.

Babe Ruth's fourth home run of the season featured the Yankees' 8-to-3 win over the White Sox. Pipgras, the New York pitcher, went the route for the first time this season.

The five-game winning streak of the Boston Braves curled up and died when Pittsburgh swamped the league leaders, 7-to-2, before 35,000 fans in Boston's first National League Sunday game. The Bucs pulled a triple play in the fourth. Spohrer forced Mueller at the plate and Spohrer and Maranville were nipped trying to take extra bases on the play.

CARDS TRIP GIANTS

The Cardinals again proved themselves better finishers than the Giants, converting apparent defeat into a 9-to-7 victory with a three-run rally in the ninth. Chuck Hafey knocked in four runs with a homer, triple and single and Douthit came through with a timely home run for the second successive day.

Detroit knocked Ed Morris out of the box, rolled up 15 hits and buried the Red Sox under a 10-to-2 landslide.

BACH TO AID LAYDEN HERE

SYRACUSE, May 6.—Joseph Bach, former Notre Dame football star, and member of the Four Horsemen team with Elmer Layden, will be Layden's assistant at Duquesne University next football season. Bach will take up his new duties immediately.

Bach succeeds Bob Regan, of Canonsburg, Pa., another former teammate of Layden's, who was with Laydon during his second year at the Pittsburgh institution. Regan is to coach the line at Villa Nova next fall. Bach has been assistant to L. P. Andreas and his work here has been satisfactory. The opportunity to work with Layden in the perfection of a Rockne system in Pittsburgh, however, was too inviting to be refused.

Schoolboy Hurls No-Run, No-Hit, No-Walk Game

BEVERLEY HILLS, Cal., May 6.—(AP.)—Baseball's rarest feat, and a pitcher's delight—a no-run, no-hit game—was credited to Bud Rose, Beverley Hills High School twirler. To make his feat more impressive, Rose also made it a no-walk game.

Rose, in pitching Beverley Hills to a 5-to-0 victory over Van Nuys High School, Saturday, permitted only one opposing player to reach first base. He got there on an error.

HEIDELBERG COPS TITLE

League clubs, the New York Giants, Bethlehem Steel, Brooklyn Wanderers, and New Bedford watched the game. It is a known fact that it is Dante Villani, who is causing the furore among the big league soccer men. But in yesterday's game, the scouts had a tough time picking out any stars. Eleven men, American born, gave one of the most brilliant soccer exhibitions ever handed out in Southern New York.

There was no formal presentation of the National trophy. President Patterson and Secretary McEwan suggested the presentation take place in Pittsburgh, probably a week from Saturday.

Western Pennsylvania should be proud of the finest amateur soccer team in these United States. The lineup:

CAREY TO MEET M'TIERNAN FRIDAY

By HARRY KECK,
Sporting Editor

Johnny Carey, Erie's sluggish but hard-hitting welterweight, has been signed to box Buck McTiernan, Swissvale's great prospect, in the main bout of next Friday night's show at the Moose Temple.

Promoter Francis Flynn signed McTiernan for this engagement immediately after the latter's 10-round knockout victory over Mickey Solmen in the same ring last Friday night, but it was not until late last night that he was able to land an opponent for him. All of the lads around here gave Buck the go-by after what they saw him do to Solmen.

The rangy Carey is dangerous and hard to fight. Often he makes his opponent look bad. And he packs a sock that has laid a flock of his foes like the parlor rug. If Buck gets safely past him, he likely will be matched with Larry Brignolia, also of Erie, for his next start.

Johnny Plal, of Oil City, who stopped Charley Wolfe, of Rochester, Pa., in the semi-final last Friday, will appear in the semi-final again. His opponent will be signed today.

FANS PULL ONE ON PROMOTER

It has to do with the congestion at his Moose Temple arena last Friday night, when Buck McTiernan, Swissvale's very promising youngster, turned 'em away in his first main bout in which he knocked out Mickey Solmen, of New Castle, in the tenth round.

"At a quarter to eight," says Flynn, "everything was serene. The box office was almost sold out, and the fans were coming in a few at a time. It looked like a fine time to run across the street and get shaved before the show got under way. I took advantage of the lull.

"Twenty minutes later, I returned to find the mob milling in the lobby and fighting in a thick mass to get inside the hall. Caught on the outer rim of this struggling mob, I couldn't even get back into MY OWN PLACE OF BUSINESS. Imagine my embarrassment as I had to stand there for a half-hour listening to the cries of the pushing, swirling throng condemning me for not opening more doors, not having more tickets available and a hundred and one other real or fancied grievances and unable to even move for fear of breaking an arm or getting a rib crushed. Hereafter, I'll do my shaving in broad daylight."

NEWTON BOXES HERRERA

Ray Newton battles Tony Herrera, of Chicago, in the windup in the Jolly Bowl, New Castle, tonight. Mickey Solmen is billed with Johnny Carey, of Erie, in the semi-final and Bob Collura, of Beechview, meets Jackie King and Al Iovino, of Swissvale, is paired with Roy Minteer in two of the preliminaries.

Howard Mayberry, Donora veteran, battles Eddie O'Dowd, of Columbus, again in the main bout at Wheeling tonight, with Harold Heilman, of Donora, boxing Cyclone Driscoll in a prelim.

Matchmaker Jules Beck, of the Meyers Brothers bowl, North Braddock, will get down to work today on his preliminary card for his opening show, two weeks from tonight, to be featured by a battle between Benny Bass and Steve Smith. Bass, by the way, boxes Petey Mack in New York tonight, while Smith tangles with Kid Chocolate at Wilkes-Barre, Pa., tomorrow night.

BIG GATE AT M'KEESPORT

Promoter Jim McGirr reports that he has arranged to place 1,000 extra chairs in his McKeesport arena for next Thursday night's show, which will feature Dominick Profio and Tiger Joe Randall in a return bout and will mark the closing of the indoor boxing season in the Tube City. He looks for the biggest gate since his record-breaker between Tommy Ryan and Kid Williams, years ago, when he took in $4,000 at $1, $2 and $3. He has had several $3,000 houses since then and Profio and California Joe Gans drew $2,200 at $1 and $2 in their return bout a few months ago. With the large advance sale he has rung up, McGirr says he already is sure of passing the latter figure. Profio being a knockout puncher, is a big card with the McKeesport fans.

You can't keep down an adventurous spirit. James (Red) Mason, veteran manager, recovering from his battle with Abie Witz in a local gymnasium last week, has sent on word through McGirr to his gallery following in McKeesport that he will be on hand with bells on to exchange his usual bantering with them when he handles Profio against Randall. Both Red and the McKeesport fans get a big kick out of their crossfire of repartee. Red, incidentally, declares his altercation with Witz started off as a kidding match and they already have buried the hatchet and are on friendly terms again.

ANOTHER AMATEUR SHOW

Although it was announced that the recent Pittsburgh-Buffalo amateur boxing show at the Keystone Athletic Club would be the last of the season in that gymnasium, the affair was such a success that the management has acceded to the request of its members to put on another program of bouts and has arranged for a show with a team of Cincinnati mittwielders pitted against a team of Pittsburgh stars on the night of May 22, when the Cincinnati baseball club will make its first appearance of the season in this city. Athletic Director Hainsworth is busy lining up his local team.

George Bretsch, who recently won the National amateur junior-welterweight championship, boxes the main bout of the first open-air boxing show of the season under the auspices of the Twenty-seventh Ward A. C., North Side, tonight. In compliance with the new State law, Eddie Kennedy, a licensed professional referee, will handle the bouts. The program follows: George Bretsch, Twenty-seventh Ward A. C., vs. Paul Sloboda, Uniontown; Ed Yarosz, Monaca, vs. Joe Spiegel, Uniontown; Johnny Warner, Clairton, vs. Tony Asto, Uniontown; Bob Fraterola, Clairton, vs. Charles Chrovodta, Uniontown; Earl Montebanno, Braddock Library, vs. Joe Stepketrotiz, Twenty-seventh Ward A. C.; Frankie Porto, Twenty-seventh Ward A. C., vs. Anson Greaves, Duke O'Hara Club; Joe Follins, Ambridge, vs. Marty Mehalick, Duke O'Hara Club.

Tug Phillips, former local lightweight, now boxing out of Erie, meets Johnny O'Keefe, of Columbus, in a return bout featuring an outdoor show at Columbus tonight. He defeated O'Keefe at Erie six weeks ago.

ALL-STAR CARD AT ERIE

Phillips also boxes the windup at the Auditorium in Erie next Friday night, against Johnny Kusic, clever Youngstowner. Johnny Dunn, of New Kensington, meets Johnny Helstein, of Buffalo, and Jackie Rodgers, of the North Side, opposes Eddie Burl in eight-round supporting battles on the all-star card.

Jackie Rodgers will box Hughey Devine, of New York, in the 10-round champion piece to the Young Zabiah-Al Rammey battle on the double windup card at Johnstown, May 23.

At present, he is on his way back to the Navy, being scheduled to join the Pacific fleet at San Francisco, June 7.

Ruth and Gehrig Feature Big Six Hitters

The work of the Yankee home run twins, Messrs. Ruth and Gehrig, featured the Big Six yesterday. Gehrig followed his home run assault of Saturday by getting two singles out of five official attempts against Chicago pitchers, thereby lifting his average to .378 and retaining the Big Six leadership. Hornsby took second place from Goslin, Ruth collected three out of four, but failed by a fraction of a point to escape from the cellar. Paul Waner got one out of four at Boston, and just held on to fifth place.

Bottomley helped the Cards with three hits at the Polo Grounds, but fell just shy of .300. Goslin again went hitless at Cleveland and fell further to .347. The standing:

THREE YANKEES AMONG BRITISH OPEN LEADERS

FARRELL, DUDLEY FAIL

Two of the American Ryder Cup team went over 80 for the first 18 holes, Johnny Farrell, the open champion, taking 82 and Ed Dudley, 85. Farrell had a nine on his card and Dudley an eight.

American amateur entrants did not fare well, Max H. Behr, of San Francisco, taking an 83, while F. W. Stites, of the Pine Valley Club, Philadelphia, virtually took himself out of the championship with an 18-hole score of 101.

Jose Jurado, the Argentine sensation for two days of the 1928 championship, turned in a 76. The cold got to Jose, who failed to produce the brilliant pace that had him leading the field into the final day last year, but gave a sound performance in vein of the conditions. He had a disheartening 6 on the third where he was badly trapped, but a birdie 3 at the sixth quickly restored his native aplomb.

Von Elm, whose last gesture of importance was to beat Bobby Jones out of the American amateur title in 1926, carded a 37 for the first nine and a 36 for the last nine, whereas Cruickshank went crazy at the outset with a 34 to the turn and an eleven-hole total that was two under par. He failed to hold this pace to the end, however, and needed 39 strokes for the final nine holes.

Farrell, who shot an 82, left himself plenty to do if he means to qualify at the conclusion of the round tomorrow. Johnny played none too well and suffered the further misfortune of being coupled with the slowest player in the field. It took so long to play the round that two other couples had to be permitted to play through, while Farrell waited impatiently.

After his 39 going out, he rallied on the incoming nine and did very well until the seventeenth, when his troubles reached a climax. Here a brassie shot buried itself so deeply into a trap that it was found unplayable; whereopon Johnny had to go back and play another ball. When finally he reached the green, he tooked three putts for a 9. He also three-putted the eighteenth.

100 TO QUALIFY

Tomorrow, those who played the first 18 over the Muirfield course will play their second 18, completing the qualifying round, over Gullane, and vice-versa.

The ranking first 100 to finish the qualifying round and those tied for the one hundredth place will enter the medal play Wednesday.

Eighteen holes will be played Wednesday and another 18 holes of medal play will follow Thursday.

Those who are 15 strokes or more behind the leading score Thursday night will be forced to drop out provided there are at least 60 players remaining in the field by this procedure.

Thirty-six holes of medal play follow on Friday with the lowest scorer for the 72 holes of medal play winning the championship.

Muirfield will be used exclusively for the regular championship rounds after the qualifying test is concluded tomorrow.

Betting on Dog Races Stopped By Injunction

DECATUR, Ga., May 6.—(AP.)—Charging that betting is permitted at the Dixie Lakes greyhound race track in violation of the Georgia law, Solicitor General Claude C. Smith, of Campbell County, obtained a temporary injunction in Superior Court here prohibiting wagering on the race results. He characterized the alleged betting as a public nuisance.

strength and class are further attested by the fact that it is the second time they have won the championship, not to mention their success in reaching the semi-finals in one other season.

Buff Donnelli.

THE victory was the more creditable and all the more convincing as to the strength of the Heidelberg team as a whole for the reason that it was scored without the services of such a sterling player as Joe Fagan, suspended fullback. With four of the nine goals to his credit, Buff Donnelli established himself more firmly than ever as one of the most accurate and powerful kickers in the game, and every other man in the lineup covered himself with glory. It was a team victory in every respect, and another triumph for the Green and Gold system of depending upon fighting spirit and driving power rather than upon any of the so-called "fancy stuff." The power of the Heidelberg stars' attack simply can't be resisted. They might well be called the Yankees of amateur soccer.

MEN WHO SMOKE AND GUARD THEIR HEALTH, SMOKE CIGARS

CIGARS ARE THE MOST ENJOYABLE AND LEAST IRRITATING FORM IN WHICH TOBACCO CAN BE SMOKED

DOCTOR LEON BIZARD

Laureate of the French Academy of Medicine

Doctor Leon Bizard, Laureate of the Academy of Medicine and of the French Academy, is a member of the Faculty of the University of Paris. He has been chief of the Medical Staff of the St. Lazare Prison for 30 years, and to the Prefecture of Police of Paris.

"The cigar smoker seldom becomes a tobacco addict—an inveterate smoker. Therefore, he does not suffer the consequences that result from the constant indulgence in tobacco. In my opinion the cigar is the most enjoyable form in which tobacco can be smoked. Its smoke has no tendency to irritate the mucous membrane."

L. Bizard

THROAT troubles so prevalent amongst American Smokers, irritation of bronchial mucous membrane, are due to two causes. Firstly, the burning, drying effect of hot tobacco smoke upon the tender tissues of the nose and throat. Secondly, the presence of Furfural and Acrolein, twin irritants found in the smoke of tobaccos cured and flavored with certain foreign substances which must be regarded as adulterants.

It is these two substances (Furfural and Acrolein) which are the prime cause of coughs, overwrought nerves, decreased vitality and other disorders which result from the indulgence in tobacco other than the cigar.

Furfural and Acrolein are not present in cigar smoke, since cigar tobacco is a natural product in its natural state. It is not artificially cured or flavored. In consequence cigar smoke can even be inhaled without danger, although the cigar smoker rarely, if ever, makes inhalation a practice. He tastes the full, rich flavor of the finest tobaccos—and is satisfied. Therefore cigar smoking never degenerates into a nervous habit. There is no craving, no hurried lighting of one from the butt of another. Puff for puff the average cigar smoker smokes but half as much as men wedded to tobacco in its other forms.

If you would feel better, with no cough or throat irritation, improved nerves, increased vitality and less of that tired feeling—test the opinion of Dr. Leon Bizard—smoke cigars exclusively for one week.

To really test cigars with justice to yourself and to cigars, we suggest the test be made with La Palinas. Since they are America's largest selling high grade cigars—over a million a day—you can smoke them, confident that they will please you.

The sensational success of La Palina results from an exclusive and secret blend which combines for the first time in one cigar, an extreme mildness with a rare richness of both taste and fragrance.

Business Shows No Letup, But Dear Money Disliked.

—By B. C. FORBES—

PROSPEROUS industries continue prosperous. No let-up is yet noticeable notwithstanding the growing number of predictions that the recent pace cannot be maintained.

THE writer has been visiting an eastern industrial city whose very wide diversity of plants supply mainly materials, machinery, tools, etc., for other industries, and it is gratifying to note that demand was never greater than it is today. Quite a number of establishments are working night and day. In certain lines there is actually a scarcity of skilled artisans.

THE quarterly reports now being issued are, on the whole, very favorable. It is the rule rather than the exception for corporations to show substantial gains in profits. Even some industries that have been lagging are now enjoying some improvement.

RESPONSIBLE financiers, however, are nearly all less optimistic than the general run of businesss men. Excutives whose plants are busy and who have at least a normal number of unfilled orders on hand are well satisfied with conditions and prospects. But when you mingle with influential bankers you encounter considerable apprehension. The money and the stock market are both disliked. Business and employment, it is argued, are in danger of being affected later in the year.

NOBODY, of course, can find comfort in existing monetary conditions. The excessively high rates in New York, have drained the rest of the world of loanable funds to such an extent that foreign banks have felt obligated to raise their rates one after another in an attempt to stay the outflow across the Atlantic. We are again attracting foreign gold notwithstanding that we already own far more than a proportionate share of the world's supply.

Call loans ended the week at the stiff figure of 11 per cent. Time loans cost 8¼ per cent. The best commercial paper is quoted at 6 per cent. And bankers acceptances again were marked up last week. Also brokers loans expanded $40,000,000, bringing the total to near the highest peak ever reached.

ALL this however, did not depress the average stock quotations. Indeed, the net gain for the week was five points. Several speculative favorites were taken in hand afresh and put through rather sensational paces. The extremely wide fluctuations in some issues revealed the highly professional character of the trading. Apparently some of the more powerful bulls have developed new courage.

Public participation has substantially decreased but there has been remarkably little outside throwing-over of stocks. Unquestionably stock margins are much larger now than they were during the previous boom. Therefore, even sharp breaks do not force wholesale liquidation.

THOSE who try to analyze fundamentals and to look well ahead contend that general business activity and employment are bound to be hurt if the current charges for money should long continue. And they add that normal money rates can be restored only by curtailment of brokers loans. Such curtailment, in turn, will be feasible only if the stock market itself ceases its marking up process and starts its journey toward price levels yielding returns more attractive to real investors. Moreover, new security issues need to be kept within bounds—even those based on "rights" now all the vogue.

So there you are.

TWO weeks ago this column concluded with the sentence: "My guess is that the Germans will not kick over the traces." It now looks as if tangible results will be achieved. Since the alternative would be the continued enforcement of the Dawes scale of payments, and since neither America nor the Allies presumably would be willing to take part in another conference in the near future, it hardly seems likely that Germany will not consent to terms acceptable to the Allies.

Expect Tonnage Gain.

Although production and shipments of the United States Steel Corporation in April were at a high rate, output being at practically rated capacity for the entire month, another increase is likely to be reported in unfilled orders as of April 30, to be made public at noon Friday. Ability to record a gain in bookings in face of heavy deliveries is another indication of large consumption of steel products and also reflects the remarkable rate at which consumers are specifying against their old contracts.

German Trade Shrinks.

Whether reparations divisions or other causes are most responsible, official reports from Germany now have settled down to indicate a marked shrinkage of business within that nation. Transits through the Kiel Canal, an important German waterway, have dropped to almost record low levels; sales of mortgage and municipal bonds in the country for February were about 50 per cent less than in January. It was remarked, however, that high money rates might be more responsible than anything else for the latter symptom.

This is equal, after all deductions, including federal taxes and preferred dividends of 50 cents on 3,000,000 shares for the 1929 quarter, as compared with 44 cents on 2,526,684 shares in the 1928 period. The increase is actually greater than is here indicated, for the 1929 profits per share are on the basis of 3,000,000 shares outstanding, whereas the 1928 figures are on the basis of 2,526,684 shares then outstanding. The increase to 3,000,000 shares took place in the closing days of December, 1928.

SUGAR MARKET.

NEW YORK, May 6.—Raw sugar was unchanged early today at 3.64c for spots duty paid and no sales reported.

Futures opened irregular at 1 point decline to 2 points advance with some selling of the near positions. Influenced by the issuance of the May notices, while the later deliveries held steady on covering and commission house buying. Subsequently the whole market weakened under renewed hedge selling and liquidation, promoted by the continued liberal offerings in the spot market with the list at midday net unchanged to 2 points lower.

Refined was unchanged at 4.90c for fine granulated, with demand moderate and of a hand-to-mouth character only.

LOCAL FUEL STOCKS LOSE INITIAL GAINS

Stocks were active and firm at the opening of the new week on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange, with Western Public Service reflecting good demand and the new Hachmeister-Lind issue reaching a new top since listing.

The Western Public Service movement has taken that stock into new high ground since the shares were admitted to trading a few months ago. Buying has been urgent for several days and while no definite information has come from official sources it is thought developments in connection with the company's expansion plans are responsible for the current demand. The company was formed a short time ago by the Crawford-Ohio Oil-Prairie Oil interests to produce, transport and market gas in the mid-continent area with the present chief marketing center being in the Salt Lake territory. The gas line being constructed from the Colorado-Wyoming producing fields to the marketing territory is expected to be in operation shortly, and, in the meantime, the company is expanding its activities through purchase of smaller gas properties near its markets.

Hachmeister-Lind's advance was attributed to reports that the company will show substantial increases in earnings. It is also rumored in the Street that the company will enter an important consolidation of chemical companies later on.

Arkansas Gas rested around the $8 level in the early market, consolidating the gain made last week when it shot up three points on a heavy turnover of stock in the market here as well as on the New York Curb. Several thousand shares were handled in the daily trading in New York and the week's turnover of Arkansas in the trading here was around 85,000 shares. Lone Star opened the week at a fractional decline, but friends of the stock maintain their confidence and insist that favorable news will be forthcoming shortly.

The miscellaneous list showed only moderate changes from the prices prevailing at the close of the week. Business was in fair volume and there was an inclination noted to re-purchase some of the stock sold out when the money disturbance reached its height around the latter part of March.

In the later dealings, the early leaders lost their positions, and both Western Public and Arkansas sold back to levels below the opening prices. Tension in the money market further complicated the trading situation both here and in New York, and this uncertainty brought out a little liquidation of the character noted on several occasions recently.

RASKOB PLANS HUGE TRUST

NEW YORK, May 6.—(INS.)—A plan for a gigantic investment trust corporation, by which American workers may become financially independent without risk, is being fostered by John J. Raskob, former finance committee chairman of General Motors, it was reported today.

At Mr. Raskob's office all inquiries met with the response that the magnate was on his way from Wilmington, Del., and that no one else was in a position to comment upon the report.

According to the present account, the new corporation would invest the savings of workers in sound industrial enterprises, selling its certificates to the workers under a plan similar to group insurance.

HIGHER MONEY SENDS STOCKS TUMBLING

NEW YORK, May 6.—(AP.)—An unexpected advance from 10 to 14 per cent in the call money rate turned the course of prices reactionary in today's stock market, after an early outburst of strength had carried a score issues into new high ground. Early gains of 1 to 7½ points were cut down, or wiped out, in the heavy mid-day selling movement, and a long list of stocks sagged 1 to 6 points below Saturday's final quotations.

Call money renewed at 10 per cent, but the supply at that figure was insufficient to meet the demand created by the recent increase in speculative activity. Time money and commercial paper rates also held firm. Wall Street had been expecting an easing of money rates this week with the May 1 demands out of the way.

NEWS FAVORABLE

Trade news continued favorable, although growing uneasiness was apparent over the effect of the high money rates on late spring and early summer business. Despite the fact that plants of the steel corporation operated at capacity last month, the April tonnage statement, due Friday, is expected to show another increase in unfilled orders.

In the early outburst of buying, General Electric and Westinghouse Electric were each bid up more than 5 points to within a few points of the year's highs, but the gains quickly melted away when a general selling wave swept over the market. Among the many issues to reach new high ground were Sparks Withington, American Can, Timken Roller Bearing, American Ice, Continental Baking B, Kraft-Phoenix Cheese and Snider Packing preferred.

RUMELY SINKS FURTHER

Case Threshing broke 16 points, advance Rumely common and preferred, which were under selling pressure last week, dropped 5 and 6¾ points, respectively. Wilcox Rich A slid 4¼ points below last week's close, Radio 4 and Borg Warner, Goodyear, Warren Bros., American and Foreign Power and Western Union dipped 2 to 4 points.

India Cotton Crop Report Shows Loss

ROME, May 6.—(AP.)—A supplemental cotton crop report from India received by the International Institute of Agriculture shows that the area figures did not vary much from the estimate at the end of February although they had risen to 2,648,400 acres, or 107 per cent of the corresponding area for 1927-28 and 105.5 per cent of the average for the preceding five years.

The production estimate was now given as 4,718,000 bales for 1928-29 against 4,990,000 for 1927-28 and an average of 4,613,000.

BIG NEW PLANT ON COAST FOR PLATE GLASS

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

THE Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company is planning the construction of a $4,000,000 plant at Santa Ana, Cal. Two sites have been selected and a total of $180,000 has been paid for them. One site consisting of 80 acres will be used for the factory and the other of 120 acres will supply sand for grinding.

The location was chosen after negotiations lasting over two years. About three months will be required for the completion of plans and actual construction work will take from nine to 10 months. The plant will be under production by the end of May, 1930.

The company has been making paint and varnish on the Pacific coast, but this is its first plant in that part of the country to be devoted to the production of plate glass.

IN SPITE of the unfavorable condition of the glass industry for the last four years the company has been steadily putting earnings back into plants in order to keep its physical properties in a condition to make glass at a profit under the existing competitive conditions.

The expansion in the West follows an improvement program in the Eastern plants which is just being completed. The modernization of the factory at Ford City, Pa., at a cost of $5,000,000 was started a year ago and the new grinding and polishing unit will go into operation next month. Similar modernization work at the Chrystal City, Mo., plant will be completed by the end of this year.

THE plate glass business since the beginning of 1929 has been in good volume, but no changes have taken place in prices, which are about 50 per cent lower than at the beginning of 1925, when foreign competition became a serious menace.

The effect of the increase in the tariff has not made any great change in the industry so far. The increased rate went into effect on January 17, but in anticipation of it large shipments of glass were brought into this country. In February, instead of declining, imports increased sharply. They totaled 2,023,396 square feet, compared with 1,459,085 square feet in January.

Over a longer period of time the new tariff undoubtedly will work to the advantage of the domestic producers, but no improvement in prices is seen at present. The large number of new plants to be placed in operation this year are likely to result in a serious overproduction in this country.

MUCH has been said of the increase in industrial activity of the last six months, but a similar improvement has been taking place in the demand for office workers. A new peacetime record demand for office help and a 25 per cent decrease in the supply as compared with the corresponding period last year are reported for the first quarter of 1929 by the metropolitan district employment department of the Underwood-Elliott-Fisher Company. This department, which covers an area within a 50-mile radius of New York, filled 3,588 positions within the last three months compared with 2,980 in the opening quarter of 1928.

The gradual disappearance of men from stenographic and minor clerical positions was the principal cause for the decline in the number of applicants for office work. Registration of women decreased 20 per cent, while that of men applicants declined 50 per cent. Some positions could not be filled.

NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, May 6.—(AP.)—The curb market turned irregular today after a violent upturn in the utilities during the first hour. Considerablbe selling came into the market around midday as call money was stepped up to 12 per cent, despite expectations that it would work lower this week. Trading became quiet, however, on the decline.

American Superpower issues were the brilliant performers of the utilities, shooting up 15 and 17 points. United Corporation was again under heavy accumulation, opening with a block of 30,000 shares and selling up to a new record price of 68¾. It sold off somewhat from its peak in the early afternoon. United Gas Improvement jumped about 6 points on announcement that the sale of its general gas stock was for the sum of $46,725,525, but lost most of its gain later. Electric investors shot up about 10 points.

A newcomer to the list was Prudential Investors common, which was actively traded around 28, about 45,000 shares changing hands in the first half hour. The company is said to have substantial holdings of General Electric, Union Carbide and Electric Bond and Share, purchased well below current prices. Of about $19,000,000 paid in at the time of organization in January, about $10,000,000 is still held for investment.

Some of the aircraft stocks were again well bought. Fokker, however, reacted after selling up to another new high. Keystone made a substantial gain. Auburn Auto was again a strong feature, climbing more than 6 points. Checker Cab and the Ford of Canada issues, however, were heavy. In the radio group, Arcturus Tube turned heavy while Sonatron moved higher.

Rainbow Luminous sold up more than 2 points. Trans-America Corporation and Niles Bement Pond sagged a point or so.

Oil stocks were generally well supported on renewed merger rumors and reports that the industry is formulating a new code of ethics which will eliminate many wasteful practices. Continental was firm on announcement of the terms of the proposed merger with Marland. Humble sold up more than 2 points, but lost most of its gain. Mines were quiet.

Following is the list of transactions on the New York Curb Exchange, giving all stocks and bonds traded (00 omitted in sales column of stock list; 000 omitted in sales column of bond list):

Wilmerding Lions To Receive Charter

The newly organized Lions Club, of Wilmerding, will receive its charter Thursday evening and a special session has been arranged to be held in the First Methodist Episcopal Church, following a banquet. Dr. A. S. Haines, of the Wilkinsburg Lions Club, district governor of the Lions, will present the charter. It will be received by the president of the Wilmerding club, J. Mateer Pollock. The Rev. Paul McBride Gillis will be toastmaster at the banquet. Among the invited guests are Lions clubs of Western Pennsylvania and the Wilmerding Rotary Club.

Reichsbank Curbing Loans to Hold Rate

PARIS, May 6.—The Reichsbank is restricting credit in Germany through refusal to rediscount many bills presented to it of longer than 30 days maturity. Only about one-third of the bills offered for rediscount Saturday were accepted by the bank.

The move is made in the hope of avoiding further rise in the bank rate while reparations negotiations are showing a more favorable outlook.

Bible Classes Will Hold Joint Banquet

The annual joint banquet of the James W. Houston Bible Class and the Boethian Bible Class of the Tabernacle Presbyterian Church will be held Friday evening in the Penn-Lincoln Hotel. The speaker at the banquet will be Walter Haller, the newly elected president of the Seventh District, Allegheny County Sabbath School Association.

HER FATHER LOOKS beyond the Honeymoon

HE has deposited securities with the Peoples Savings and Trust Company of Pittsburgh as a wedding present, the income from which will go every month to his daughter—the bride.

No matter what happens, she will have a separate income of her own to keep her in comfort the remainder of her days.

Such an arrangement insures her against adversity or misfortune in the years to come, and is the most practical wedding present a father can give.

BUGS BAER Says

THE HOME OF THE ICE MAN

COM. BYRD and his brave tourists will be down in the frigid zone all summer.

"Bugs" Baer

When the weather gets so loose that it sags in the middle like that there is no sense trying to control it with knobs.

If zero is 37 below par it indicates that the climate has escaped from its cage.

Nevertheless, the commander has claimed the chilbain territory in the name of the last three Republican administrations.

We accept this new America if it is only for the fact that it is the only nation not tangled up in German reparations.

This meritorious angle will more than square up the fact that Byrd's little America will average two Senators to the zone and three Representatives to the berg.

These gentlemen will be envied by their fellow law-brewers because they get franking privileges and mileage.

New territory has its drawbacks. Miss Mabel Willebrandt will have to appoint a snooper for that district and he's likely to get his snoop frozen.

There will have to be new postoffice buildings erected on desert islands and our census bureau will be busy checking up places where nobody lives.

Some excessive Southern Congressman is sure to ask for an appropriation of seven million to deepen the Pacific Ocean.

Com. Byrd has discovered a crevasse 500 feet deep which must be filled in with cement to enable motor trucks to reach Terra Del Fuego without going through foreign lands.

But Andy Mellon is going to be sore when he has to dish up good treasury souvenirs because the little America school commissioners want sleigh bells for their autos.

There's plenty of ice down there but nothing to mix it with. There's plenty of ice up here too, without changing the subject in the least.

But what's the use of discovering a new land that is all solid ice? Why not discover a country where you can sit down when you are tired?

It's a brand new land. We hope it stays that way.

Protest on Taxi Fare Is Ordered by Mayor

Mayor Kline on Saturday gave an explicit order to City Solicitor Waldschmidt to file with the Public Service Commission today a protest against the increased taxicab rate tariffs proposed by the Yellow and Green Cab Companies. His curt note indicated the city's chief executive had not been pleased with the attitude of the city solicitor in this matter. This is no time for temporizing, the Mayor states. In that, of course, he is correct.

Pittsburgh's legal department was not on the job when the Pittsburgh Motor Coach Company was allowed to put into effect unreasonable bus rates without protest. It was not on the job when two taxicab companies filed tariffs calling for increased rates. While it calmly waited to be "notified" that an increase was imminent, when it has a highly paid assistant city solicitor especially assigned to such matters, the proposed increase was being helped daily to become effective because of inaction.

Even when the department, through no efforts of its own, was made aware of the impending raise in rates, its heads figuratively yawned and inquired drowsily "What of it?"

"Why should the city go to the expense of fighting it?" City Solicitor Waldschmidt demanded. "What will the city get out of it?"

Well, if Mr. Waldschmidt is capable of no higher civic ideal, no thought for the rights of the citizens, there remains the motive of selfishness. The city of Pittsburgh, itself, we believe, is about the most prolific patron the taxicabs have, since it adopted the policy of using taxicabs instead of city-owned motor cars to haul most city officials and employes engaged in official business requiring transportation. The city, as a tabicab patron certainly ought to be interested in a rate increase.

And if it were not a patron of the cab companies, it still would have a duty to perform in this matter, as the central body in which rests all communal problems of its citizens. If Mr. Waldschmidt has no higher conception of what his obligations are to those who pay his salary than is indicated in his attitude in the matter of gouging the public he needs the stimulation of enlightened civic spirit.

Had not the Mayor acted, Council, it was indicated in statements made by some of its members to the Sun-Telegraph, was ready to do so today. It would appear that neither executive nor legislative branches of the city government are in accord with the "what's-the-use" attitude of Messrs. Waldschmidt and Lang.

Goldstein Probably Attended to Business

Solemn Truths Often Found in Jokes.

Sousa said "Anybody can lead my band as well as I do—FOR A LITTLE WHILE."

It's after the "little while" that difficulties appear. Anybody, almost, can write an amusing column for a little while. But one in many thousands can keep it up.

Murphy, Flannigan & O'Toole
Builders

Murphy-Flannigan-Goldstein
Builders

Murphy & Goldstein
Builders

Goldstein & Son
Builders

Those that don't think will probably say to themselves, "the clever Mr. Goldstein entered the employ of Murphy, Flannigan & O'Toole, and before long the others were crowded out and he owned the firm."

The wiser will say, "Murphy, Flannigan & O'Toole became prosperous, and got Goldstein to do the work, while they took the profit. Goldstein attended to business while they didn't, so now Murphy, Flannigan & O'Toole are working for Goldstein. HE IS ATTENDING TO BUSINESS APPARENTLY."

And Mr. Goldstein is not the only gentleman that sometimes has the sign all to himself.

Many years ago, at the corner of Broad and Wall streets, in New York City, over a rather small building and a moderate sized bank, you might have read, as this writer did, the sign, "Drexel, Morgan & Co."

J. P. Morgan, father of the present Mr. Morgan, ATTENDED TO BUSINESS in his way. He could think about millions as comfortably as anybody else thinks about 10 cent pieces.

He had a little yacht called the Corsair. Later he built the biggest yacht, also called the Corsair. He had a small fortune of perhaps eight or ten millions. Through his firm he built up a fortune running to eight or ten HUNDRED millions.

After a little while the "Drexel, Morgan" sign was changed to "Morgan & Co." Later the name disappeared entirely. Everybody in New York knows that the corner of Broad and Wall street is Morgan & Co. No name is necessary.

It says in the Bible "Seest thou a man diligent in his business he shall stand before kings." In the world of business it says "Seest thou a man diligent in the business, he shall have the sign on the front door all to himself."

Justice at Work

Surprises You, Sometimes.

Harry F. Sinclair must spend three months in jail; not for stealing a naval oil reserve, but for refusing to answer questions put by the Senate Committee.

The men that did steal the naval oil reserves and were denounced by the Supreme Court are not disturbed. If you think that is a queer kind of justice you are quite right.

6—Town Hall, seating at least 15,000.

Tales That Are Told

A Long Search

THE kind lady noticed an old man, whose right leg was gone, standing on a street corner with a perplexed look on his face.

"My poor man," she said, "are you lost?"

"What's his name?"

"I don't know that," was the reply, "but he wears a number 10 shoe.'

"For heaven's sake, if you don't know who he is, how do you know he wears a number 10 shoe?"

"I ain't sure he does, but it stands to reason thet if he don't, one or t'other of us is goin' to have trouble with his bunions. Lady, I'm looking for a right-legged feller to go partners with on a new pair of shoes."

Another Candidate

ONE of the inmates of a certain mental home in Ireland had caused such a pandemonium in the dead of the night that his brother was sent for by the authorities.

"I am afraid," said the kind-hearted governor, "that your brother will have to leave the home. Just lately he has been giving us a great deal of trouble."

The visitor raised an inquiring eyebrow.

"What has he done?"

"Well," said the other, "at midnight he rushes up and down the corridors shrieking out that he is Napoleon."

"Take no notice whatever," smiled the visitor. "I myself am Napoleon."

Too Much Trouble

"CLOCKS of all kinds, qualities and prices," said the legend in the jeweler's window, and a big, red-haired man, who had been peering through the glass, made his way inside.

"I want a clock," he said to the man behind the counter.

A number of clocks were placed before the customer, but none of them appeared to suit him. Finally a cuckoo clock was set on the counter. The clerk wound it up, placed the hands at the hour. A little door flew open and out popped the cuckoo.

"What do you think of that, sir?"

Worst Story I Have Heard Today

By WILL ROGERS

GEORGE had been kinda mean, so his mother locked him up in his bedroom and made him climb into bed. He was still either kinda mean or hungry, because he yelled, after 10 minutes, "Say, mama, I want a piece of breadanbutteransugar!"

"George," says his ma, "if you had been good you would of had plenty of nice junk to eat. Now you stay where you are and shut up."

After five minutes more he says, "Hay, mama, I want a piece of breadanbutteransugar!"

"Keep still, George. Dry up, or I'll come in there and paddle you good."

In another few minutes George broadcasts: "Say, mama, I gotta have breadanbutteransugar! When you come in to paddle me will you bring me a piece of breadanbutteransugar?"

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

ONCE I saw a dreadful picture.

The delicate color filled the page with the lovely iridescence of a soap bubble. Within that iridescence lay a garden. A peach tree, breaking into bud; a fringe of iris, blue as tattered flecks of sky; a filigree of grass, beaded with dew; a little pool that lately held the image of a great white swan.

A beautiful garden—"Meine Schoener Garten," the picture was called. And at first sight it did not seem in the least dreadful. Then suddenly the horror leaped upon you.

THE GARDEN HAD BEEN MURDERED!

Drunken women sprawled on that dewy grass, their bodies shamelessly exposed. Mad feet had broken all the iris down. Mad hands had stripped the budding blossoms from the trees. The swan lay strangled.

A dreadful picture, the symbol of the ruin wrought by DRUNKEN APPETITES. Its memory has haunted me for 16 years.

Three people are in the room—a mother, a father and a boy of 12. The lad is frail. The doctor says he is anaemic, and must have more red blood. The worried father and mother have been trying to build the strength he needs. They have bought tonics—fed him spinach, beef tea, some simple home-made wine.

Mad hands strike down the man—mad hands send eight slugs of lead crashing into the mother's body as she frantically phones for help. At last there is enough red blood in that sad room—a mother's blood spread out in a great pool upon the floor!

You know the rest. How the sick child, seeing his parents lying at his feet, seized gun and shot. How the assassins triumphantly pointed to half a flask of wine as their vindication, that home-made wine, which was to have restored the boy's ebbing strength, but cost his mother's life instead. And how the whole nation has arisen in revolt at this terrible fruit of prohibition.

A home ruined by DRUNKEN LUST—

THE DRUNKEN LUST OF FANATICISM!

The evil wrought by the drunkenness of alcohol was a dreadful thing. But it was an understandable thing. It wore no mask. Simple citizens could recognize it, fight it.

But the evil wrought by the drunkenness of fanaticism is infinitely more subtle and dangerous. It masks itself under a pretence of righteous authority. It commits its atrocities in the name of the law. It has made a farce of our national dignity and it now violates our most sacred sanctuary, the home.

Prohibition has defeated its own end.

The lust of drunkenness was bad, but the lust of fanaticism is so much worse that it makes mere drunkenness seem a childish crime. Drunkards had, at least, a few sane moments. Fanatics never have.

SUNS AND COMETS

By Garrett P. Serviss

THE most interesting thing that has been heard about comets in a long time is the result of the studies of W. T. Bobrovnikoff, of the Lick Observatory, on "the disintegration of comets." It has long been known, or suspected, that comets gradually go to pieces in traveling around the sun, and become scattered in closed orbits, thus forming meteor swarms. According to this view meteors are the debris of disintegrated comets. The destruction takes place in consequence of the contending forces that act upon comets especially when near the sun. A suggestive but imperfect illustration is the stringing out of a field of race horses, starting in a bunch, and gradually, as turn after turn is made, stretching into a line which, in extreme cases, may extend almost around the track. There are a number of well-known meteor showers which occur every year. This would be explained if they were caused by the annual encounter of the earth with the fragments of an ancient comet which had, in the course of many centuries, become drawn out like a dust trail around the whole of the orbit once followed by the comet.

Bobrovnikoff has studied the disintegration of comets statistically. The investigation is a difficult one, but he has been able to conclude that the process of disintegration is not confined to the short period comets, whose passages around the sun are relatively frequent, but that all comets are subjected to it. He says:

"In their obedience to the law of disintegration comets form a system all members of which follow the same career with the same ultimate fate. These facts constitute strong evidence for the common origin of comets. The system of comets is closed, that is we have no influx of fresh comets coming from the depths of the universe. On the other hand the disintegration of comets is an irreversible process. There is no building up of new comets from the meteoric and gaseous matter diffused in space."

He then goes on to say that if all comets have a common origin they could not have come into existence simultaneously with the planets. Indeed certain calculations based on the assumed law of disintegration and some other assumptions, indicate that the earth is a thousand times more ancient than the date when the comets originated. They, then, are new comers in the solar system. The reader at once wishes to know whence they came and what they are. The indications are that they may have been captured by the sun, in its journey through space, somewhere within a million years.

A million years ago the sun was 70 light years nearer Orion than it is today. It is well known that the region of space is filled with great nebulae, and apparently with agglomerations of meteoric matter. If the sun in its journey did pass through that great nebulous and meteoric slough, it might have acquired its strange attendants then and there.

Bible Passages

God's Goodness

(Nehemiah 9; 6:15)

THOU, even thou, art Lord alone; thou hast made heaven, the heaven of heavens, with all their host, the earth, and all things that are therein, the seas and all that is therein, and thou preservest them all; and the host of heaven worshippeth thee.

Thou art the Lord the God who didst choose Abram, and broughtest him forth out of Ur of the Chaldees, and gavest him the name of Abraham.

And foundest his heart faithful before thee, and madest a covenant with him to give the land of the Canaanites, the Hittites, the Amorites, and the Perizzites, and the Jebusites, and the Girgashites, to give it, I say, to his seed, and hast performed thy words; for thou art righteous:

And did see the affliction of our fathers in Egypt, and heardest their cry by the Red sea;

And shewedst signs and wonders upon Pharaoh, and on all his servants, and on all the people of his land: for thou knewest that they dealt proudly against them. So didst thou get thee a name, as it is this day.

And thou didst divide the sea before them, so that they went through the midst of the sea on dry land; and their persecutors thou threwest into the deeps, as a stone into the mighty waters.

Moreover thou leddest them in the day by a cloudy pillar; and in the night by a pillar of fire, to give them light in the way wherein they should go.

Thou camest down also upon mount Sinai, and spakest with them from heaven, and gavest them right judgments, and true laws, good statutes and commandments:

And gavest them bread from heaven for their hunger, and broughtest forth water for them out of the rock for their thirst, and promisedst them that they should go in to possess the land which thou hadst sworn to give them.

Prayer for Courage

A PRAYER for courage. I would know
How dauntlessly a soul can grow;
As some poor flower in soil unkind,
Combating angry sun and wind,
Still lifts its pallid petals up
To smile at Heaven's inverted cup.

It seems the skies before such force
Would swiftly change their cruel course,
And send, to ease the blossom's pain,
The benediction of the rain.
But Nautre, ruthless, pays no heed
To any single flower's need.

Not so with souls. The brave can wrest
From life its sweetest and its best.
By nobly meeting every hour
They again sublimity and power.
A prayer for courage; I would show

Read This, You Quitter!

By Herbert Kaufman

HIS own mother died when he was seven and his father sold out, removed to Iowa, bought another farm and remarried.

Two years later, the boy and toddler sister lost their other parent, and the step-mother, confiscating the meager estate, foisted them on the poor farm.

Child welfare hadn't even reached the dictionary, much less the Middle West, at that time, and the least said about county philanthropy the better for tender-minded readers.

Suffice to say, they fully earned board and keep and didn't miss acquaintance with the Biblical rod.

On his tenth birthday, he kissed his sobbing sister good-bye, opened the window and disappeared in the night, with a "cross my heart" and "honest Injun" promise to come back, when his fortune was made, and take her away.

There are prettier bedtime stories than his Odyssey to St. Paul into which he staggered at dawn and roamed empty streets, fearful of interested police and expectant of the wand-touch of some good fairy.

But they were all off on other business that morning—dropping a silver spoon in this cradle, a future Hollywood contract in that, and endowing youngsters whom they especially loved with salutary hardships and the determination that breeds national presidents, merchant princes and motor magnates.

So there was nothing to do but swap errand-running, shoe shining, and floor-scrubbing for the right to sleep in a barber shop—plus a dollar a week for cafe expenses, tailor's bills and reasonable recreation.

How he eluded truant officers is an epic in itself. And how he drudged to get her the money to fulfill his pledge, replevin sister and set up in housekeeping, within less than a year, is a tragedy at which God himself wept.

He enrolled her in the first grade as the niece of his landlady; and, at night, she taught him what she had learned during the day.

He contracted around the neighborhood for her services as junior nurse maid, mother's helper or "what have you to do?"—established a newspaper route, then a stand—finally achieved proprietorship of a hole-in-the-wall, gradually developed into a cigar dealer—meanwhile putting the girl through high school and college, and absorbing his own education at second hand.

When lo and behold! One fine morning his name glows in golden letters on an automobile showroom and hers appears in social notes announcing betrothal to a rising young architect, who simply wouldn't join his father's bank, and whose ability couldn't be hid from skyscraper builders and folk with a hankering for expensive and distinctive homes.

The golden letters are now familiar to five states, and the boy whom the good fairies overlooked controls 43 towns through his car agency.

The Lady Who Knows Him Too suggests that the Proudest Gentleman of all would be embarrassed by more personal details, and insists that the fairies have ample grounds for a libel suit.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, May 6.—Diary of a modern Pepys: Up betimes to the dentist and on the way saw a window of awning samples, one of which would make a fine shirting for Gene Markey. Saw also Roland Young, the actor, who wears glasses with a wide black ribbon and carries a cane with a carved wooden head.

After resolving to eat nothing until dinner, was tempted beyond my poor strength by the tantalizing odors of a Welsh rarebit, and felt like a stuffed owl the rest of the day. Home and made feeble effort to appear busy, but spent most the time hunting hidden animals in the children's page drawings.

In the evening with my wife to dinner and talked to Sam Kingston, Mae Murray and several others, and on to the theater, but the play so inane nodded through it, the only compensation for the evening being a chat with Rupert Hughes on the way out.

Three revues feature the yarn about the swanky tobacco shop where the broad A. is its broadest and where a gentleman appeared with a patent lighter.

There is a millionaire who has frittered away a stupendous sum to satisfy the artistic longings of a young and good-looking wife. Her talents are limited, and despite his generous "angeling," has never clicked in a big way. His years are reaping the inevitable toll and his walk has the suspicion of a dodder. But she is young, still ambitious and beginning to look a trifle bored.

Astute amusement purveyors declare that in the battle for recognition personality is 98 per cent of the struggle. Without this quality, dramatic ability, voice and other talents are worthless. In the less serious forms of entertainment, for instance, such song delineators as Helen Morgan, Helen Kane, Zelma O'Neal, the Duncan Sisters, Eddie Cantor and even Al Jolson have no extraordinary vocal ability. But they get the money.

In high class dress making establishments, it is not unusual for a customer to order 30 gowns at a time—usually such orders are for a whirl at Palm Beach or some European spa. The whoppingest order of all came from a movie actress with suddenly acquired fame who ordered 60 evening frocks at a clip. "And that," said my informant, "is a mess of sewing." I'll say it is needle work!

A Broadwayite reports a cultural improvement among theater box office men. While not exactly greeting customers with a big hug, they have undergone a slight thaw. He says: "The boys now put their hand over their mouth when they yawn in your face."

A New York newspaper turns an editorial handspring over a banker who has three different suits of clothes for every week in the year. That's nothing so much. There is a newspaper columnist who had a suit for every day in the year. And he never has it pressed either.

And at one of the theatrical clubs a member wound up a week's toot by sleeping all day in the main lounge. Some of the practical jokers got a slice of limburger cheese and very carefully smeared it over his mustache and carried him off to bed. The next morning the entire club was aroused by his moans and groans. A neighbor, not in on the joke, went in and assured him he merely had a hang over.

"I tell you I'm dying," he oo-ooo-oohed and added: "Spoiling from the inside."

A society reporter states with a patronizing pat New York newspapermen, for the first time in history, are being accepted by society, and several have achieved the Social Register. As a member of the younger Grand Central Station set I resent such sycophancy. The average newspaperman wouldn't become a member of society if especially invited by Otto Kahn or his brother Agha.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

YOU think your standing in the community, as well as where you are employed, is due to some superior quality you possess.

You look at others about you and think they are not up to your standard.

If you would be honest in your analysis, it is likely you would decide that environment had more to do with your present standing than anything else.

You may have had superior educational advantages, your good luck, not your own good management.

You may have been able to associate with playmates from good families.

The kind of teaching, the examples set you in your home, have kept in check the inherited tendencies and emotions you have in common with the human family.

Years of control practiced by your forefathers and instilled into you at home have resulted in a better product in some ways, but it was favorable conditions that helped you to your standing, so you have nothing to be conceited about and much to be held responsible for.

Have you, through your own efforts, done much that is worth commendation?
